4 Port Ewen Districts Favor Consolidation

Vote Is 437-23 For Proposition

Four Port Ewen area school districts voted 437 to 23 in favor of consolidation into a common school district at a meeting of qualified voters last night in the Esopus Town Hall in Port Ewen.

This is the first step toward erection of a kindergarten through Grade 6 school in Port Ewen.

A breakdown of the vote was as follows: Anderson District No. 1, 93 in favor, nine against; New Salem District No. 12, 23 in favor, one against; Port Ewen District 13, 271 for the proposal, five opposed, and Port Ewen District 15, 50 in favor and eight opposed.

A meeting will be held May 3 to elect three new trustees for the consolidated district. A site will then be selected for the school and an architect chosen. Tentative proposals must be submitted to district voters.

THE MEETING last night followed two years of study and work by the executive committee of the School Improvement Association of the Town of Esopus.

District meetings were held in various schools of the consolidated district and a house-to-house canvass to explain the proposed consolidation.

Members of the executive committee: John Spinnenweber, chairman; Burton Heldron, Roland Myers, Floyd Ellsworth, Clifford Every, Robert Graves, Oakley Maynard, Vernon Frost, Cleon Robinson, Thomas Bohan, Louis Goldberg, Mrs. Donald Swan and Mrs. William Anderson.

MAYNARD, WHO IS head trustee of District 13, opened the meeting. Spinnenweber was elected permanent chairman and presided. Heldron was elected clerk for the meeting.

Robert Coughlin, assistant rural administrator of the State Education Department, supervised the voting.

Council Favors System

Landfill Action Off to March 15

Action on the proposed fifth ward landfill project was deferred last night by the Common Council until another recessed meeting March 15, but the aldermen legislated in support of state bills that would add Hurley avenue and the Washington avenue viaduct to the local arterial route system.

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms (R.), moved for the recessed meeting with the explanation that members of the council had requested more time to study the landfill proposal before it is brought to a vote.

Deferred with the landfill proposal was a suggestion to purchase the former Kingston Point Park property at a cost of $18,000, and action on a local law to give the public works department full authority to collect and dispose of all refuse.

A PUBLIC HEARING March 3 on the landfill proposal brought out the suggestion to buy the downtown park and pointed to the need for a definite law covering refuse disposal.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang mentioned the Kingston Point Park proposal at the hearing, and former Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly, who represented opposition to the landfill project, revealed the need for legislation on refuse disposal, when he spoke at the hearing.

About 100 persons, mostly residents of the fifth ward, attended the meeting, apparently expecting a vote on the landfill project, which was heavily opposed at the March 3 hearing.

MAYOR STANG'S letter on the arterial route proposal recalled action by the council and himself in February to authorize inclusion of Hurley avenue as part of Route 209, and a section of Washington avenue, including the viaduct, to the state-planned arterial route for the city.

Bills have been introduced in the state Legislature by Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson in support of the additions to the route plan, the mayor noted, and he requested to be directed to ask passage of the Albany legislation.

The bills were in committee, he noted, "and no further action can be had under the rules of both houses unless a home rule message from me, as mayor, with the concurrence of the Common Council, certifying to

Text of Statement By Supervisor McHugh

The complete text of Supervisor Jesse McHugh's statement before the Ulster County Board of Supervisors follows:

Planning for the Future

The County of Ulster for many years has been known as a well-governed county. Its government uniformly has been sound, honest and good. It has served its people well. The Republican party of this county, which has been responsible for its good management, long ago learned that good government is the best politics.

Ulster county has one of the finest highway systems in the state. A motorist, after a heavy snowstorm, always can tell when he enters Ulster county by the splendid manner in which the highways have been plowed.

OUR COUNTY EXCELS also in the field of public health. We have spared neither money nor effort to protect the health of our citizens. We operate one of the best social welfare departments anywhere, and yield to no other community in the high standards of care we give to our aged, to our chronically ill, our blind, our widows and orphans and our unemployed.

As the years have passed, we have expanded our services to the people, and, although the dollar today is worth only fifty cents, we have kept county taxes at a minimum. Many of our capital expenditures have been paid for on a pay-as-you-go basis. In fact, within the framework of its present organizational structure, the county government has been and is serving the interests of our people with imagination, fidelity and efficiency.

However, in the face of our expected growth in population, traffic and business activity, and to meet the social and economic problems this growth will lay in our laps, the day has now come when it is our duty as county officials to re-appraise our governmental resources and methods to determine whether or not we are prepared and equipped to meet the challenge which the future holds for us.

WE RECENTLY discussed one phase of an improvement program to correct a long-existing overcrowded condition in the county clerk's office. This condition cannot be tolerated much longer. Another urgent need is adequate working space for our bureau of probation. We have only one probation officer. Three thousand five hundred dollars was provided for the salary of an additional probation officer in the 1955 budget. We have so far been unable to employ a qualified person for that sum. The work of the children's court has tremendously increased. Juvenile delinquency is on the increase. A good probation system is essential if the county government is to do its share to solve this great and distressing problem. Probation officers cannot work effectively unless they have space in which to function, and suitable space is not available.

One of our first ventures should be the construction of adequate working space for our county government. If we can sell our properties on Fair and Main streets, and get them back on the tax roll, we can use the proceeds of such sales in the first phase of our building program.

WE SHOULD INSIST, in planning new structures, upon the utilization of the modern methods used by private business to provide speedy and convenient service to their customers. Banks and even post-offices are being built today with drive-in windows. Our motor vehicle bureau and any other department serving large numbers of citizens should have the same facilities in ourder that we may give efficient and quick service to our customers.

While talking about the Motor Vehicle Bureau, why can't we bring the services of that bureau directly to the people in their own communities instead of requiring them to come to the county seat and wait in line to get their auto plates and licenses? I have in mind that the motor vehicle bureau could have a mobile automotive unit, with several clerks and a supply of plates aboard, and they could travel to and be stationed for several days in the principal communities of each town so that motorists could be served in their own communities. Perhaps we could operate such a system without additional costs. Many motorists now send their applications by mail. It costs the county 27 cents in postage for each plate mailed, or about $2200 per year. If motorists could be served from a mobile unit, we could save this cost of postage and the county could then retain the 32 cents which it receives from the state for each plate sold.

THIS SUGGESTION is typical of the kind of thinking and planning we must do to insure that our county government keeps in the forefront of the march of progress. This is the kind of service the people expect and are entitled to. There is no reason why government can't be as efficient as private enterprise if we all work together toward that end.

In line with that philosophy, we should also prepare a comprehensive plan for the replacement of the antiquated bridges which remain in our county highway system. As you know, some of them are real antiques and are remnants of the horse and buggy days. Our highway committee should prepare a bridge replacement program. Each year funds should be made available to replace a number of these old structures with new bridges until all the old bridges have been replaced.

WE SHOULD ALSO begin planning for the proper housing of our highway department. The

Suggests County Planning Board

Careful reappraisal of various county services and suggestions for long-range adjustment to present and future needs of our county government were offered Tuesday night by Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R.-Shawangunk), majority leader of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor McHugh, who spoke to a regular meeting of the board at the Ulster County Court House, Kingston, cited many of the accomplishments of our county government. McHugh stressed the recent and potential population growth of the county and urged that consideration be given to planning for the future.

"The future belongs to those who prepare for it," McHugh told the board.

McHUGH PROPOSED additions to plants and structures, modernizing governmental services, and pointed to the need for a uniform system of real estate assessment, a study of the optional form of county government with a county manager, and possibly a county planning board to furnish overall planning for the future growth of Ulster county.

Retention of the town supervisors and the board of supervisors would not be disturbed, McHugh said, but he said the plan suggested for a uniform county-wide program in many departments would result as a benefit for all. Monroe county now has a county manager and there are two counties under the county executive plan.

McHugh referred to numerous progressive steps which have been taken in county government in Ulster county, to its highways, health program, social welfare department and other departments which are among the state's best. However he said the time had come when we should "re-appraise our county set-up" and plan for future expansion which he said has already started with a splendid industrial growth.

HE SUGGESTED SALE of the present county buildings on Main and Fair street, to place that property back on the tax roll. A mobile motor vehicle office which would visit the county communities to add convenience at the time of license renewals was also suggested and he called for a program for rebuilding antiquated bridges, improvement of the highways under a planned system. Sale of the county garage on Gage street which is inadequate was also among the suggestions made.

THE COUNTY IS NOW operated under a two system government, judicial and legislative but there is no central executive branch. This third department is essential to good government, he said. A uniform method of assessment and equalization would then result, he said.

The plan was presented in detail "for study and thought" McHugh said.

Supervisor John Gaffney of Lloyd said he had not liked the inference that all good had come during the administration of the Republican party and he said he was a strong believer in "home rule." Too much local power is now being delegated, he said, and added that in his own town there was a planning board which knew well the needs of that town. The matter of assessment he said also would be best dealt with lo-

Malden Woman Suffers Wounds

Shirley Carr, about 48, of the brickyard section of Malden, was taken to Benedictine Hospital this morning suffering from a gunshot wound which state police of the Kingston Station said was inflicted by her husband.

Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties, who treated Mrs. Carr at her home and later had her removed to the hospital for X-rays and treatment, said her condition was not serious.

She was shot in the stomach with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun about 6:30 a. m. today following a quarrel with her husband, John Carr, 48, troopers reported.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly, BCI, said Carr told him he had been out all night and had returned home to get ready for work when the quarrel with his wife broke out.

Carr went to the nearby home of Robert Beasley and borrowed the shotgun "to shoot a skunk," Reilly said. He also borrowed two shells for the gun.

Returning home he met his wife standing in the doorway and fired one shell, Reilly reported.

Dr. Gifford said the pellets failed to penetrate the abdominal wall and lodged in the muscle of the stomach.

Assisting Reilly in the investigation were Cpl. E. P. Johnson and Trooper H. Burgess.

New York Firm Is Low Bidder

Harriman Ripley Co., of New York, bid low at the sale of the New York State Bridge Authority's $21,000,000 in "bridge revenue bonds" at Poughkeepsie today.

The bonds are to provide funds for construction of the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge, and for other purposes including preliminary surveys for a proposed Newburgh-Beacon bridge.

Harriman Ripley Co., bid $20,793,7870 with a net interest rate of 2.1433 per cent.

THE OTHER BIDDERS were Halsey-Stuart & Co., of New York, at $20,792,520, and a rate of 2.7037 per cent, and Lehman Brothers, of New York, at $20,794,410 with a rate of 2.7358.

Off-Street Parking Favored in City

Four important actions were taken by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Vice President John H. Haulenbeek presided.

A resolution favoring the prompt development of a city-wide Off-Street Parking program by the city was unanimously adopted.

A comprehensive program of activities for 1955-56 was adopted.

The name Kingston-Rhinebeck Bridge was favored for the new bridge being constructed across the Hudson river near Kingston.

Committee appointments for 1955-56 recommended by President J. Ellis Briggs were approved. Announcements will be made later. The appointments take effect at the annual membership business meeting in April and they hold office for a full year. The terms of present committees expire at the annual business meeting.

IT WAS ALSO REPORTED that the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce has 501 paid memberships for 1954-55 and expects several more before the end of the fiscal year, April 30.

Seven new membership applications were approved by the board of directors. They were Frederick Faerber, Jr. of the Smith Avenue Storage Warehouse Moving Company and six representatives of the IBM corporation, Gavin A. Cullen, Paul F. Steinkuller, Donald B. Otis,

Po'keepsie Firm Is Low Bidder On House Razing

The Poughkeepsie Wrecking Co. was low bidder Tuesday for the razing of nine houses in the sixth ward in conjunction with the local state-sponsored housing project, the Kingston Housing Authority announced today.

The low bid was $7,950, plus $1.98 a lineal foot for the erection of a fence in the area and a bid of $1.24 a lineal foot for used lumber. Master Wreckers, Inc., of Middle Village, was next lowest at a bid of $8,400, but nothing was listed for fencing or used lumber.

OTHER BIDDERS were Pisacreta Wreckers, Inc., $10,100 and $4 a lineal foot for fencing; Thompson Demolishing Co., Newburgh, $10,750, $4 for fencing and $3 on used lumber; Boiceville Construction Co., Boiceville, $12,450 and $3.50 on fencing, and Ventry Construction Co., Peekskill, $13,700, with $5.68 for fencing and $4.68 for used lumber.

The buildings in the Ann street area will clear nearly a solid block as the last phase of the housing project which gave the city Colonial Gardens in the Flatbush avenue area. The demolition work is to be completed within 90 days after award of contract, George E. Yerry, Jr., housing authority chairman said.

Two Men Are Accused Of Extorting $64,000

New York, March 9 (AP)—Two officials of Local 445 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters in Yonkers, N. Y., were accused by a federal grand jury today of conspiring to extort $64,000 from eleven members of the Dairy Transportation Association, Inc.

They were ordered held in $5,000 bail each by Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy. He scheduled May 9 for the setting of a trial date.

THE PAIR ARE Philip Masiello, 43, of Middletown, business agent of Local 445, and Francis Lester Stickel, 54, of Yonkers, secretary-treasurer of the local.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Peter M. Brown told the court that the men used their union positions to extort money from milk hauling members of the Dairy Transport Association by threatening labor trouble in the transportation of milk in interstate commerce.

"THESE MEN ARE venal labor officials who sold out their union members and collected booty totaling $64,000 between Jan. 1949 and the present," Brown said.

Named as alleged victims of the shakedown conspiracy were: Howard C. Lynch, of Lynch Brothers, New Hampton, N. Y.; Floyd Schwartz, of Corners Mills Transportation, Honesdale, Pa.; William E. Nye, of Kaufman and Minteer of New York, Inc., Middletown, N. Y.; Percy H. Redner, of the Redner Trucking Company, Central Valley, N. Y.; Paul F. Hillman, of the Canaan

Javits Will Have Meeting With Harriman on Issue

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Jacob K. Javits, the Republican attorney general, will compare notes with Gov. Harriman and the state youth commission on juvenile delinquency.

Javits, in a letter to the Democratic governor yesterday, accepted Harriman's invitation to talk over Javits' plans for coping with juvenile crime.

But he indicated that he would not go along with any suggestion that the problem be placed entirely in the hands of the commission. Javits said he would continue to press for what he has called a "crash program" to fight delinquency.

"The emergency transcends party of jurisdictional considerations," Javits wrote. "I seek only action, and if it is taken will be delighted."

In Syracuse, however, Lt. Gov. George B. DeLuca, a Democrat, declared that "the whole matter of juvenile delinquency is taking on unnecessary political implications."

DeLuca, speaking at a dinner of the Solvay Democratic Club, called for "a real contribution to the fight against this evil and more than a mere chasing of rainbows or tilting at windmills."

As one step, he proposed community experiments in block-by-block guidance and supervision of the young. He said such a system had been used with success in Liverpool, England.

Harriman has asked the Re-

Sheriff, Highway, Defense Vehicles To Get Communication System

Authority was granted Wednesday by the Ulster county board of supervisors to enter into an agreement with the New York Bell Telephone Company for installation of a modern communications system for vehicles in the sheriff's department and for the extension of that telephone system to highway and Civil Defense.

Under the plan recommended by a special committee which had been named to make a study of the radio-telephone problem, the sheriff's office will be assigned a radio frequency by the FCC and that same frequency will be used by the county highway department and also by Civil Defense.

THE REPORT and recommendation was made by the special committee which included Supervisors Fitzgerald, Marshall, Eckert and Cousins.

During the past year the accident record of Ulster county employes has been "good" and as a result the county will receive a refund of approximately $1,511 from its compensation insurance, according to a report made to the board.

A report on an inspection of the new Ulster County Infirmary was received from the State Department of Social Welfare which gives provisional approval of the infirmary and makes it eligible for federal aid reimbursement.

THE BOARD ALSO went on record as favoring bills in the state legislature which would increase the fees charged by the county clerk for recording instruments, etc., and place the fee on a par with those charged in Dutchess, Orange and Rockland counties. These bills were offered by Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wilson.

The board also gave approval of the sale of county owned parcels of property, acquired at tax sales, which were offered for sale at public auctions on January 21 and February 21. The county realized $3,181 from one sale and $3,338.39 at the other sale. Quit claim deeds will be given purchasers by the county. At the January sale 70 parcels were offered and all but 7 were bid in. At the February sale 63 parcels were offered and all but two were bid in.

Leader Says Investigation Beamed to National Goal

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Democratic Gov. Harriman hopes to use state investigations as stepping stones to the presidency, the leader of the Senate Republican majority says.

Sen. Walter J. Mahoney's assertion yesterday followed a Democratic threat to investigate the State Thruway, a project developed by the Republican administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

"It may be that the Thruway is the Achilles heel of the Republican party," Democratic Sen. Alfred Santangelo of Manhattan said. "There are 12 years of dry rot under the Republican administration that require investigation."

Santangelo disclosed that Harriman's investigation commissioner, J. Irwin Shapiro, planned 71 inquiries, possibly including the Thruway and the Public Works Department.

Speaking during debate on the budget, Santangelo urged restoration of $125,000 cut by Republicans from the $325,000 Harriman asked for Shapiro's office.

Democratic amendments to restore that and other cuts were defeated yesterday as GOP budget bills were passed in both Houses.

In reply, Mahoney declared that Harriman was trying to "ride into the presidency" on "threats and vindictive treatment." He said the GOP would

McHugh referred to numerous progressive steps which have been taken in county government in Ulster county, to its highways, health program, social welfare department and other departments which are among the state's best. However he said the time had come when we should "re-appraise our county set-up" and plan for future expansion which he said has already started with a splendid industrial growth.

HE SUGGESTED SALE of the present county buildings on Main and Fair street, to place that property back on the tax roll. A mobile motor vehicle office which would visit the county communities to add convenience at the time of license renewals was also suggested and he called for a program for rebuilding antiquated bridges, improvement of the highways under a planned system. Sale of the county garage on Gage street which is inadequate was also among the suggestions made.

THE COUNTY IS NOW operated under a two system government, judicial and legislative but there is no central executive branch. This third department is essential to good government, he said. A uniform method of assessment and equalization would then result, he said.

The plan was presented in detail "for study and thought" McHugh said.

Supervisor John Gaffney of Lloyd said he had not liked the inference that all good had come during the administration of the Republican party and he said he was a strong believer in "home rule." Too much local power is now being delegated, he said, and added that in his own town there was a planning board which knew well the needs of that town. The matter of assessment he said also would be best dealt with lo-

Malden Woman Suffers Wounds

Shirley Carr, about 48, of the brickyard section of Malden, was taken to Benedictine Hospital this morning suffering from a gunshot wound which state police of the Kingston Station said was inflicted by her husband.

Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties, who treated Mrs. Carr at her home and later had her removed to the hospital for X-rays and treatment, said her condition was not serious.

She was shot in the stomach with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun about 6:30 a. m. today following a quarrel with her husband, John Carr, 48, troopers reported.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly, BCI, said Carr told him he had been out all night and had returned home to get ready for work when the quarrel with his wife broke out.

Carr went to the nearby home of Robert Beasley and borrowed the shotgun "to shoot a skunk," Reilly said. He also borrowed two shells for the gun.

Returning home he met his wife standing in the doorway and fired one shell, Reilly reported.

Dr. Gifford said the pellets failed to penetrate the abdominal wall and lodged in the muscle of the stomach.

Assisting Reilly in the investigation were Cpl. E. P. Johnson and Trooper H. Burgess.

New York Firm Is Low Bidder

Harriman Ripley Co., of New York, bid low at the sale of the New York State Bridge Authority's $21,000,000 in "bridge revenue bonds" at Poughkeepsie today.

The bonds are to provide funds for construction of the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge, and for other purposes including preliminary surveys for a proposed Newburgh-Beacon bridge.

Harriman Ripley Co., bid $20,793,7870 with a net interest rate of 2.1433 per cent.

THE OTHER BIDDERS were Halsey-Stuart & Co., of New York, at $20,792,520, and a rate of 2.7037 per cent, and Lehman Brothers, of New York, at $20,794,410 with a rate of 2.7358.

The bids were received in the

Cof C Gives Program of '55 Activity

Off-Street Parking Favored in City

Four important actions were taken by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Vice President John H. Haulenbeek presided.

A resolution favoring the prompt development of a city-wide Off-Street Parking program by the city was unanimously adopted.

A comprehensive program of activities for 1955-56 was adopted.

The name Kingston-Rhinebeck Bridge was favored for the new bridge being constructed across the Hudson river near Kingston.

Committee appointments for 1955-56 recommended by President J. Ellis Briggs were approved. Announcements will be made later. The appointments take effect at the annual membership business meeting in April and they hold office for a full year. The terms of present committees expire at the annual business meeting.

IT WAS ALSO REPORTED that the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce has 501 paid memberships for 1954-55 and expects several more before the end of the fiscal year, April 30.

Seven new membership applications were approved by the board of directors. They were Frederick Faerber, Jr. of the Smith Avenue Storage Warehouse Moving Company and six representatives of the IBM corporation, Gavin A. Cullen, Paul F. Steinkuller, Donald B. Otis,

Po'keepsie Firm Is Low Bidder On House Razing

The Poughkeepsie Wrecking Co. was low bidder Tuesday for the razing of nine houses in the sixth ward in conjunction with the local state-sponsored housing project, the Kingston Housing Authority announced today.

The low bid was $7,950, plus $1.98 a lineal foot for the erection of a fence in the area and a bid of $1.24 a lineal foot for used lumber. Master Wreckers, Inc., of Middle Village, was next lowest at a bid of $8,400, but nothing was listed for fencing or used lumber.

OTHER BIDDERS were Pisacreta Wreckers, Inc., $10,100 and $4 a lineal foot for fencing; Thompson Demolishing Co., Newburgh, $10,750, $4 for fencing and $3 on used lumber; Boiceville Construction Co., Boiceville, $12,450 and $3.50 on fencing, and Ventry Construction Co., Peekskill, $13,700, with $5.68 for fencing and $4.68 for used lumber.

The buildings in the Ann street area will clear nearly a solid block as the last phase of the housing project which gave the city Colonial Gardens in the Flatbush avenue area. The demolition work is to be completed within 90 days after award of contract, George E. Yerry, Jr., housing authority chairman said.

Sheriff, Highway, Defense Vehicles To Get Communication System

Authority was granted Wednesday by the Ulster county board of supervisors to enter into an agreement with the New York Bell Telephone Company for installation of a modern communications system for vehicles in the sheriff's department and for the extension of that telephone system to highway and Civil Defense.

Under the plan recommended by a special committee which had been named to make a study of the radio-telephone problem, the sheriff's office will be assigned a radio frequency by the FCC and that same frequency will be used by the county highway department and also by Civil Defense.

THE REPORT and recommendation was made by the special committee which included Supervisors Fitzgerald, Marshall, Eckert and Cousins.

During the past year the accident record of Ulster county employes has been "good" and as a result the county will receive a refund of approximately $1,511 from its compensation insurance, according to a report made to the board.

A report on an inspection of the new Ulster County Infirmary was received from the State Department of Social Welfare which gives provisional approval of the infirmary and makes it eligible for federal aid reimbursement.

THE BOARD ALSO went on record as favoring bills in the state legislature which would increase the fees charged by the county clerk for recording instruments, etc., and place the fee on a par with those charged in Dutchess, Orange and Rockland counties. These bills were offered by Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wilson.

The board also gave approval of the sale of county owned parcels of property, acquired at tax sales, which were offered for sale at public auctions on January 21 and February 21. The county realized $3,181 from one sale and $3,338.39 at the other sale. Quit claim deeds will be given purchasers by the county. At the January sale 70 parcels were offered and all but 7 were bid in. At the February sale 63 parcels were offered and all but two were bid in.

A report by the Ulster County

Two Men Are Accused Of Extorting $64,000

New York, March 9 (AP)—Two officials of Local 445 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters in Yonkers, N. Y., were accused by a federal grand jury today of conspiring to extort $64,000 from eleven members of the Dairy Transportation Association, Inc.

They were ordered held in $5,000 bail each by Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy. He scheduled May 9 for the setting of a trial date.

THE PAIR ARE Philip Masiello, 43, of Middletown, business agent of Local 445, and Francis Lester Stickel, 54, of Yonkers, secretary-treasurer of the local.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Peter M. Brown told the court that the men used their union positions to extort money from milk hauling members of the Dairy Transport Association by threatening labor trouble in the transportation of milk in interstate commerce.

"THESE MEN ARE venal labor officials who sold out their union members and collected booty totaling $64,000 between Jan. 1949 and the present," Brown said.

Named as alleged victims of the shakedown conspiracy were: Howard C. Lynch, of Lynch Brothers, New Hampton, N. Y.; Floyd Schwartz, of Corners Mills Transportation, Honesdale, Pa.; William E. Nye, of Kaufman and Minteer of New York, Inc., Middletown, N. Y.; Percy H. Redner, of the Redner Trucking Company, Central Valley, N. Y.; Paul F. Hillman, of the Canaan

Javits Will Have Meeting With Harriman on Issue

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Jacob K. Javits, the Republican attorney general, will compare notes with Gov. Harriman and the state youth commission on juvenile delinquency.

Javits, in a letter to the Democratic governor yesterday, accepted Harriman's invitation to talk over Javits' plans for coping with juvenile crime.

But he indicated that he would not go along with any suggestion that the problem be placed entirely in the hands of the commission. Javits said he would continue to press for what he has called a "crash program" to fight delinquency.

"The emergency transcends party of jurisdictional considerations," Javits wrote. "I seek only action, and if it is taken will be delighted."

In Syracuse, however, Lt. Gov. George B. DeLuca, a Democrat, declared that "the whole matter of juvenile delinquency is taking on unnecessary political implications."

DeLuca, speaking at a dinner of the Solvay Democratic Club, called for "a real contribution to the fight against this evil and more than a mere chasing of rainbows or tilting at windmills."

As one step, he proposed community experiments in block-by-block guidance and supervision of the young. He said such a system had been used with success in Liverpool, England.

Harriman has asked the Re-

Leader Says Investigation Beamed to National Goal

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Democratic Gov. Harriman hopes to use state investigations as stepping stones to the presidency, the leader of the Senate Republican majority says.

Sen. Walter J. Mahoney's assertion yesterday followed a Democratic threat to investigate the State Thruway, a project developed by the Republican administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

"It may be that the Thruway is the Achilles heel of the Republican party," Democratic Sen. Alfred Santangelo of Manhattan said. "There are 12 years of dry rot under the Republican administration that require investigation."

Santangelo disclosed that Harriman's investigation commissioner, J. Irwin Shapiro, planned 71 inquiries, possibly including the Thruway and the Public Works Department.

Speaking during debate on the budget, Santangelo urged restoration of $125,000 cut by Republicans from the $325,000 Harriman asked for Shapiro's office.

Democratic amendments to restore that and other cuts were defeated yesterday as GOP budget bills were passed in both Houses.

In reply, Mahoney declared that Harriman was trying to "ride into the presidency" on "threats and vindictive treatment." He said the GOP would

Love for Giselle, Hal Finds, Is Shared by Many Males

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—There are no people like show people.

But they are generally easier to love at a distance than they are to like after you get to know them. Seen up close, it is often hard to glimpse the human being beneath the shining ego.

An exception is Gisele MacKenzie, the sprightly young singing star of "The Hit Parade." She's a natural. Right now I'm desperately in love with her. So are at least a dozen guys I meet every day, from executives to counterman in drug stores.

THE FUNNY THING about us Giselle-lovers is that each of us thinks he "discovered" her all by himself. But we are united in a firm belief that a Hollywood or Broadway producer is a fellow who would starve to death in a gold mine, otherwise why hasn't some producer taken the scales off his eyes and starred our girl in a big film or musical show?

My wife has taken my autumnal adulation for Miss MacKenzie in great stride. She has been through this kind of thing before.

"Any day now I expect you to tumble for Lassie," Frances said philosophically. "After all you've been moon-eyed over Helen Hayes and Martha Scott for years. Does this mean you're throwing them over? What has Gisele got that's so different?"

"ABOUT EVERYTHING," I replied. "She can sing and dance and play the piano and the violin. All kinds of talent. She's wonderful at light comedy, and —"

"But what kind of girl is she? Why don't you take her to lunch?"

So I did. We met at the new celebrity filling station run by P. J. Moriarty, who is known on Sixth avenue as "the taxpayer's Toots Shor."

Gisele showed up in a fur coat. For some reason I showed up like a schoolboy with an apple in my hand, which Miss MacKenzie accepted very graciously. She is just over 5 feet 6 weighs 120 pounds, and has snapping dark brown eyes that are fun to let your mind wander in. Over a plate of corned beef hash topped with one of the most romantic looking eggs I've seen in years, I asked Gisele to tell me about herself.

AND SHE SAID:

"I'm from Canada, and my father is a doctor. I studied to be a concert violinist, and became a singer by accident. Never did take a lesson.

"I'm mad about trees. I live near Central Park because I like to walk there with my two Dachshunds.

"But I'd rather cook than do anything. I name my recipes after the friends who gave them to me—such as Chicken Morgan, Porkchops Paul, Casserole Aunt Esther, Meat Loaf Diane.

"My own favorite is a compote, but it is made with vegetables instead of fruit, and I never tell anyone all the ingredients I put into it. But it has mushrooms, bacon, scallions, fresh tomatoes, and all kinds of herbs.

"I'VE MADE about 38 records—my latest is an album of French nursery songs I learned as a child—but I've never had a really big hit. Sure I'd love to be in a Broadway show, but only a rich man's daughter can wait around for the right part.

"But I'm happy with what I'm doing now. I love living, and I believe in happiness. But doesn't happiness consist in liking what you get as much as getting what you like?

"What am I afraid of? Oh, spiders and all crawly things, but most of all I'm afraid of making a mistake while singing a lyric with about 30 million people watching. I don't sleep much the night before a show.

"My hobbies are movies, TV, and perfume. I spend four nights at home watching television and answering fan mail. I've learned to do both things at the same time, but sometimes I get the plot I'm watching mixed up in the letter I'm writing.

"I KEEP ABOUT 14 kinds of perfume, and douse myself with it before I fall asleep. When I get tired of several kinds of scents, I mix them all up and make a new one. My favorite right now is one called Vent Vert, or 'Green Wind.' It makes me feel like a Christmas tree."

She smelled like one, too, a nice clean spruce odor. And that's what Gisele has herself—A fresh forest zest. When I came home my wife took one look at me and said:

"I see you're really gone this time. What about poor little Helen Hayes?"

"I'm afraid," I replied caddishly, "Helen will have to struggle the rest of the way on her own."

There really hasn't been a case of theatrical puppy love like this in the family since grandpa wrote anonymous mash notes to Lillian Russell.

TIME OUT FOR PEACE—A warm, noonday sun removes the chilly fear of war long enough to allow this laborer to doze on a pier at Keelung, Formosa. The little girl innocently standing by adds to this serene scene on the not-so-serene stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—When police raided a bookie's office the phone continued to ring. The police would pick up the phone with the greeting, "Police Department, Vice Squad." But it failed to stop the determined horse players who continued to place bets with the policemen for more than 15 minutes.

Love for Giselle, Hal Finds, Is Shared by Many Males

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—There are no people like show people.

But they are generally easier to love at a distance than they are to like after you get to know them. Seen up close, it is often hard to glimpse the human being beneath the shining ego.

An exception is Gisele MacKenzie, the sprightly young singing star of "The Hit Parade." She's a natural. Right now I'm desperately in love with her. So are at least a dozen guys I meet every day, from executives to countermen in drug stores.

THE FUNNY THING about us Giselle-lovers is that each of us thinks he "discovered" her all by himself. But we are united in a firm belief that a Hollywood or Broadway producer is a fellow who would starve to death in a gold mine, otherwise why hasn't some producer taken the scales off his eyes and starred our girl in a big film or musical show?

My wife has taken my autumnal adulation for Miss MacKenzie in great stride. She has been through this kind of thing before.

"Any day now I expect you to tumble for Lassie," Frances said philosophically. "After all you've been moon-eyed over Helen Hayes and Martha Scott for years. Does this mean you're throwing them over? What has Gisele got that's so different?"

"ABOUT EVERYTHING," I replied. "She can sing and dance and play the piano and the violin. All kinds of talent. She's wonderful at light comedy, and—"

"But what kind of girl is she? Why don't you take her to lunch?"

So I did. We met at the new celebrity filling station run by P. J. Moriarty, who is known on Sixth avenue as "the taxpayer's Toots Shor."

Gisele showed up in a fur coat. For some reason I showed up like a schoolboy with an apple in my hand, which Miss MacKenzie accepted very graciously. She is just over 5 feet 6 weighs 120 pounds, and has snapping dark brown eyes that are fun to let your mind wander in. Over a plate of corned beef hash topped with one of the most romantic looking eggs I've seen in years, I asked Gisele to tell me about herself.

AND SHE SAID:

"I'm from Canada, and my father is a doctor. I studied to be a concert violinist, and became a singer by accident. Never did take a lesson.

"I'm mad about trees. I live near Central Park because I like to walk there with my two Dachshunds.

"But I'd rather cook than do anything. I name my recipes after the friends who gave them to me—such as Chicken Morgan, Porkchops Paul, Casserole Aunt Esther, Meat Loaf Diane.

GIRL SCOUT BIRTHDAY

The Girl Scouts will be 43 years old Saturday, March 12, and they have adopted "Believe, Belong, Build" as their theme. It is a happy phrase and one that Scouts and their leaders put into practice daily.

What the Scouts believe deeply is what they will work for devoutly. The women and men, too, of Ulster County who serve on the Girl Scout Council and its committees and those who assume the responsibility of leading troops are living examples of the truth of this statement. They work long and hard for Scouting because they believe in it with all their hearts. These grown-ups make it possible for Ulster County to sustain a flourishing, vital Girl Scout program.

As for the word "Belong", what better example can be given than the fact that there are over 1,300 Girl Scouts in Ulster County today? The continuous growth and spread of Girl Scouting is a matter of wonder and amazement. It began nationally with a handful of girls and today registers more than a million and a half girl members in every state, territory and possession. There also are U. S. A. Girl Scout troops in about 40 foreign lands, made up of youngsters whose parents have overseas military or business assignments.

In this community, as in other parts of the world, there are girls who want to belong but for whom leaders and meeting places are lacking. The council needs the support of more men and women in order to give Scouting to those girls who are asking for it.

"Build" is a good American word, typical of the energy and courage which has made our country strong. It is good that the young Scouts have included it in their theme for it shows that theirs is a dynamic program and one which is constantly looking forward. Because the Scouts believe in being good citizens they belong to an organization which prepares them for the important job ahead, and both believing and belonging they are building well for the future—their own and our country's.

A girl in the office says she can't understand all that fuss about security checks. The only kind she ever has trouble with are the ones the bank stamps "No Funds."

It's good to believe in yourself, but if you're the only one who does you can be sure there must be something wrong.

RED TAPE

Red Tape is a commonly used expression, but few people have a concrete idea of what it means. The Hoover Commission has performed a valuable service simply by showing what this term symbolizes.

They report that 4,000,000 letters are written daily within the Federal government, more than a billion a year. The average government employe writes 522 letters a year, compared with 55 in 1912. Governmental records in ordinary file cabinets would fill almost seven buildings the size of the Pentagon, and unless these records are cut down the government will have to build six more buildings as large as the giant National Archives structure. To keep these records, the government employs 159,000 persons, and another 25,000 federal employes do nothing but sort and route mail after it is delivered.

Cost of paper weight in the government today is five times as great as the size of the entire national budget of 1912. Federal agencies spend more than $100,000,000 a year for management directives and instructions.

In the face of these and similar facts, it is no wonder that the citizen is often lost to view. "Top federal executives are so enmeshed in paper," says the Hoover Commission, that "they cannot properly discharge their responsibilities."

Government service can be streamlined, as was done recently by the Navy and the Internal Revenue Service, with considerable saving of money. The Hoover Commission has made its report; now if the people, through Congress, implement the paperwork management program recommended, the Government will become more efficient.

'These Days'

CHURCHILL'S POSITION

Winston Churchill is in an extremely difficult position. Since 1946, every propagandistic weapon has been used by the British government to condemn Chiang Kai-shek and to ruin his reputation in the eyes of the British people. This propaganda has spread over the continent of Europe and has manifested itself in such a country as India. The political reason for this activity was to prevent Asiatic diversions from lessening the interest of the United States in the affairs of Europe. Even before 1946, General MacArthur suffered from Washington's concentration on European affairs. Frazier Hunt, in his book, "The Untold Story of Douglas MacArthur," details MacArthur's difficulties arising from lack of material while he was actually fighting the Asiatic war.

Now Churchill is faced by a prepared public opinion in his own country which is embarrassing because it cannot be turned. Great Britain is definitely anti-Chiang Kai-shek, whose side has never been properly presented to the British people. The situation is now such that it is developing into a widening breach between Great Britain and the United States at a time when such a breach can be damaging to both countries and to the unity of the West. On this subject, Churchill has served a warning to his own countrymen:

"The decision on whether or when these particular islands should be evacuated is not one the burden of which falls upon Her Majesty's Government, as we must recognize the natural preoccupation of other governments who are immediately affected by the threatened attack from Communist China.

"This is especially true at a time when the Chinese Communists keep stridently asserting that the islands are to be regarded as a stepping stone to the seizure of Formosa itself, with all that that must mean for the Chinese Nationalists under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who have been given shelter and protection there by the United States, and to whom the United States are bound by over 14 years comradeship in war, both against the Chinese Communists and the Japanese invaders of China."

Churchill's use of language is never casual. He is speaking not of Formosa, but of what he calls "the coastal islands" which today amount to Matsu and Quemoy. If, by any means, these two areas fall into the hands of the Chinese Communists, it is doubtful whether Formosa is defensible. But Formosa is only a phase of a broader situation which involves South Korea, Vietnam and Thailand. Regarding Vietnam and Thailand, there can be no doubt as to the British interest. But for Formosa, the British government cannot now get popular support to go along wholeheartedly with the American program which must include defense of Matsu and Quemoy or mean nothing.

The dilemma is not readily dissolvable and is of benefit to the Communists. The great fear of Europe, particularly in Great Britain, is that resistance to the imperialism of Red China may drag all the world into an atomic war in which Europe will be the speediest and most disastrous sufferer. In an earlier statement, Sir Anthony Eden undoubtedly expressed European opinion when he said:

"In this situation the first concern of Her Majesty's Government is to stop the fighting. They have therefore continued to urge on all concerned the importance of doing this and of preventing a wider conflagration. A solution of these delicate and difficult problems is not to be reached by force. A settlement can only be arrived at by the peaceful processes of patient negotiation."

Unfortunately, it is not to Chou En-lai's interest to negotiate for a cease-fire or a peace; it is to the advantage of the Chinese Communists to capture Formosa and to establish beyond doubt their hegemony over the states of Southeast Asia to the borders of India. Thus far, they have rejected the British and Indian efforts to establish a modus operandi for a cease-fire. If they accept such proposals now, it will only be if they are assured that the United States will recede from its unwillingness to recognize Red China and will vote for a seat on the Security Council of the United Nations. Chou En-lai cannot accept "the two Chinas" formula and survive.

As Eden says, it is a delicate and difficult problem and, for the moment, there seems to be no hope for a solution. Maybe, it would be wise to leave it that way.

That Body of Yours

WHEN FOOD LACKS VITAMINS

A few months ago a tragedy was aired in the press which may be more common than we know. Two small children were taken to a hospital and died as the result of an infection which they were unable to resist because they were in an advanced state of malnutrition. It was felt that they had been neglected by their parents but an investigation showed that the neglect was really ignorance since the children had been fed regularly but, unfortunately, not enough foods rich in vitamins which protect the body and enable it to combat infection.

Carefully conducted investigations have shown that when your diet is just slightly lacking in any one of the vitamins, your resistance to infections, such as colds, bronchitis, etc., is definitely lowered so that you catch these diseases easier and have greater difficulty in recovering than when your diet is adequate. This deficiency in the proper amount of vitamins in your diet probably will not produce any one special symptom but still you will not carry on at the highest possible level of vigor, resistance to disease and good health. Your vigor will be impaired and you probably will feel what is commonly known as "seedy" and, if this deficiency is marked and continues for any length of time, you may die.

How are we to be sure we are getting enough vitamins? Dr. Frederick Tisdall, outstanding Canadian specialist in nutrition, tells us that a daily diet built around milk, meat, eggs, vegetables and fruit will enable us to go a long way toward reaching the goal that we all desire — vigorous good health.

Vitamin A is distributed widely and abundantly among foods and if your diet contains a pint of milk a day, butter and two vegetables, besides potatoes, as well as an egg a day, you will certainly be receiving an adequate supply of vitamin A.

Vitamins B1 and B2 are not so abundant and we must watch carefully to get a sufficient amount of it. It is found in most vegetables and fruits, whole grain cereals, egg yolk, liver and kidney.

Vitamin C is readily destroyed by heat but is found in most fruits and vegetables, particularly tomatoes, either raw or factory-canned.

Vitamin D, found in fish oils, egg yolk and summer sunshine, is not easily obtained in the daily diet and it is thought advisable for everyone to take some vitamin D during the winter months. One teaspoonful of cod liver oil will give as much vitamin D as 14 egg yolks or 1500 servings of spinach.

Vitamin E, lack of which results in sterility, is found in wheat germ, green vegetables, corn, peas and oats.

Vitamin G, lack of which may result in pellagra (skin rash, sore mouth and tongue, digestive disturbances and diarrhoea), is found in yeast, eggs, milk, meat, fruits and vegetables.

Vitamin Chart

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The atmosphere of today's Senate investigation of the stock market is entirely different from the atmosphere of the last investigation of 1933, when the midget sat on J. P. Morgan's lap.

Twenty-two years ago the country had gone through the crash of 1929 and four years of deep depression. A lot of people—little people—had been hurt badly.

Today, nobody has been hurt by the stock market rise of the last 18 months. It has been doing well by many people who think—Boom!—It's wonderful.

Out of the 1933 investigation came the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934. It requires full disclosure on stock issue information, regulates the sale of securities and gives the investing public much more protection from market manipulators.

What will come out of the investigation of 1955, nobody knows—least of all the honorable Senate Committee on Banking and Currency before which hearings are being held. It is a kind of exercise in safety first to prevent anybody from being hurt before he finds it necessary to jump out the window or blow his brains out after the fashion of 1929.

AS SEN. J. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT (D., Ark.), chairman of the committee, declares, "The basic issue is whether the public interest is being faithfully and wisely served." The basic interest is not, he says, whether stock prices are now too high, whether they can go higher, or whether they should be driven down.

It is an investigating committee's business, however, to find something wrong. Wall Street is a convenient whipping boy.

If the committee finds nothing wrong, the committee itself may be hurt. If the stock market is given a clean bill of health, it would only encourage more people to take a flier when they should be keeping an ear to the ground.

The investigation gives the exchanges and their member brokerage and banking businesses the best publicity forum in the country from which to tell their story.

As pictured in the testimony of lead-off witness George Keith Funston, 45-year-old president of the New York Stock Exchange, nothing is wrong with the stock market today.

ADMITTING THAT THE stock exchange governors are just as much interested in a stable market as anyone else, and that they will be glad to have anything wrong pointed out to them, Mr. Funston brought to Washington no program of corrective action.

There is no comparison between the present market and the great bull market of 1929, he declares. Today's economy is twice as big as 25 years ago. Assets and profits of corporations are also double.

Today's dollar is worth only half as much. So in terms of stable dollar values of 1935-39, stock prices and stock averages today are now higher than they were in 1936 and far lower than they were in 1929.

The dollar volume of stock transactions is only one fifth as large as in 1929, says Mr. Funston. Stock transactions today are only 1/18 as great as in 1929, if measured on the basis of percentage of national income.

Today's market is pictured as a cash market — not a credit market. The borrowings of stock exchange member firms in 1929 rose to $8.5 billion, or 10 per cent of the value of listed stocks. At the end of 1954, borrowings were only $1.9 billion, or 1.1 per cent of listed value.

TODAY THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD has the power to limit margin requirements on stock purchases. This authority is approved so long as margin requirements are based on sound economics and not for political or psychological effect.

While exchange leaders say they do not want excessive credit for stock market purchases, they point out that last year 70 per cent of all autos were sold on credit and 80 per cent of all homes are mortgaged.

The great stock exchange mistake of 1929 is now analyzed as a failure by the board of governors to realize that the volume of that market was being built up by professionals who were trading with each other. They knew the rules. The public didn't know the rules.

The aim today is to prevent another runaway market like that of 1929. The greatest danger today is seen in the gullible public's buying on tips and rumors, instead of on sound values.

Last October, when cheap uranium and oil stocks were being bid up, the New York Stock Exchange started a publicity campaign against tips and rumors. How much good it did is questionable.

"An investor can be protected against virtually everything but himself," says Mr. Funston.

Stocks Go Up, So Some Senators Feel There Ought to Be Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 9—Someone is always taking the joy out of life—and now it's those members of Congress who would abolish the art of prophecy and the custom of "picking the winner" in all sorts of things, from baseball or horse racing to the ups and downs of the stock market.

For it seems that when Walter Winchell told a nationwide television audience that he thought certain stocks were worth buying, he involuntarily prompted some senators to come forth with the usual solution to almost everything—which is that "there ought to be a law."

NOW IT SO HAPPENS that national political campaigns are the subject of some lively betting just before election, and many of us for years have tried to pick the winner ahead of time. The national campaign managers do a lot of predicting, too. Maybe all this will be taboo now.

Also every Friday on the sports pages in the football season the editors give their list of prospective winners of Saturday's games, and a good deal of betting ensues. Already the baseball writers are predicting that the Giants and the Indians will be pennant winners. Maybe all this will come under the ban now—for fear somebody might lose money.

There are two fundamental rights involved—one is the right to speak freely and the other is the right to lose one's own money. If the man who gives the tip turns out to be wrong, he will find himself in disfavor. This provides the best corrective for the future.

But what about the brokerage houses that send out market letters every week suggesting that this or that stock is a "good buy?" Is this to be taboo also?

AND WHAT ABOUT the senators themselves who today are influencing the market and in a way causing losses to investors?

Anybody who has been reading the financial pages of the newspapers of the Press Association reports during the day has noticed for the last several days the direct effect on the stock market caused by reports of the investigation being conducted by the Senate subcommittee on Banking. Here are some excerpts.

Wednesday, March 3.—"The stock market turned cautious today when Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem., Arkansas) hinted at increased securities and exchange commission regulation of the stock exchange. Prices slipped off from early highs."

Later the same day—"Later he (Senator Fulbright) clarified his own statement and the market turned up again. There was no hasty selling, however, and the market appeared braced to absorb the testimony on its sharp rise."

March 8.—"A selling drive drove stocks down sharply in the last half hour of trading. . . . The break came suddenly and without warning after a moderate recovery movement had set in from an earlier decline. . . . Losses ranged beyond five points. . . . The most potent reason for the drop was a suggestion by a Harvard professor that margins be hiked to 100 per cent. The wide publicity which this suggestion received—made before the Senate committee investigating the stock market—accelerated the dumping."

WHY SHOULD IT BE necessary for the Senate Banking Committee to conduct its investigation in such an exhibitionist manner and during market hours? Originally some of the Democrats piously announced that they wouldn't think of carrying on an "investigation" in the ordinary sense. For theirs was to be a "study." But there are other Democrats in Congress who think that a study can be handled by a 12-member commission sitting in executive session, as, for example, on personnel problems of the government. All the facts necessary to reach legislative conclusions, if any, can be gathered in an orderly way without causing the stock market itself to be affected each day, bringing losses and gains not through any intrinsic change in the values of the securities themselves but because of psychological factors created by the senators.

Anyway, the broadcasters who feel they have an equal right with senators or financial writers to discuss the ups and downs of the market will be justified now in calling the kettle black. For unquestionably the Senate committee inquiry is having almost daily impact on the market, and the citizen who knows the names of future witnesses and the trend of their testimony based on past writings, or who has advance information as to whether the CIO is going to stop motorcar production soon with a strike, can make some money for himself. But maybe printing this—itself a kind of prophecy or "tip"—will soon be taboo in this strange era of attempted conformity of thought.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The "welfare" insurance racket imposed on much of American labor and industry by professional unioneers and greedy insurance operators actually imposes another payroll tax on much of our economy. Already we have the federal income tax, collected by "deduction" at the pay window. We have also the union dues and assessments deducted by union checkoff. There is some doubt whether the income tax deduction is a first lien on the enormous weekly flow of wages for about 60 million workers. To be sure, the worker never gets his grimy hands on his federal tax, but in many cases the checkoff also deducts union dues and incidentals so there would seem to be a dead-heat. Anyway, it is idle to argue which is the prior lien. And when you add to them four per cent, evenly divided between the worker and the boss, for social security, you have an enormous impost on the national payroll.

The union worker's burden is just that much heavier than that of the free toiler, but altogether we contemplate a payroll tax of terrible immensity, much of it wasted. The social security tax is dissipated at once, for going expenses of an extravagant government. There is no such thing as a social security fund anywhere in Washington. There are instead only I.O.U.'s which other branches of a parasitic political system drop into the cash drawer in place of money taken out for current expenses. In private business that would be embezzlement. The union "welfare" funds in many cases are paid to the union headquarters rather than to joint trusteeships representing the employers and the workers. The fate of the money after that is variable but, at very best, this rakeoff imposed on the worker without consultation of his desires is timid, sterilized money. And the amount is so great even now that in a few years this and other similar factors are going to cause great changes in the economy.

Many of these "insurance" funds have no actuarial basis, and President Eisenhower has voiced a demure intimation that the federal government should place a friendly, restraining hand on the administrators of all this cash. However, neither Congress nor the unions will comply until the situation has grown much worse. In this suggestion, Eisenhower reveals again either ignorance of the theory and principle of our form of government or knowing determination to pursue the late Roosevelt's program of a paternal, authoritarian state. For here the President assents to the claim of unions that they have a legitimate right to inflict insurance on their subjects and to harm all workers who hold back. And he even thinks the federal government should implicate itself in the deal.

Some months ago, David Dubinsky loosed one of his "press releases" to the effect that honest unioneers wanted federal supervision and cooperation so that crooked union officials would be thwarted. He is a sly one, that Dubinsky. Here, under a pretext of protecting the interests of the simple individual toiler, he was proposing that that toiler's national government should formally endorse the heretical proposal that unions have a right to compel citizens to buy insurance at rates established by Dubinsky.

There is no legitimate excuse for union "welfare," whether life insurance, unemployment insurance or insurance against illness and injury. All those kinds of insurance are available in other markets at cheaper rates. Insurance is not the business of unions. Many millions of individuals hold life insurance up to $10,000 written by the federal government for members of the many "armed services." The Veterans Administration also provides free hospital care, often for imaginary ailments of persons who never heard a shot fired in anger nor left the United States and never suffered so much as a hangnail in service. Millions of gold-bricks have drawn billions of dollars for fake disabilities, thanks, in some part, to the diligent activity of the disabled American veterans, whose conduct has been exposed, although to no appreciable effect, within the last year.

In a city in Massachusetts, I discovered an active policeman who had been drawing checks for "disability" for many years although the conditions of his job set up a presumption of able-bodied fitness. What practical good is a cop who is only two-thirds able? On the same day, I verified the case of a clerk in a state unemployment office, drawing pay as a fully qualified bureaucrat, who also had enjoyed 33 per cent disability ever since 1918 when he fell from a boom on a naval ship and hurt his head. He said he sometimes suffered spells of dizziness.

Only a few months back, a friend of mine whose service ended 40 years ago, came down of the shrieks and was pleasantly tucked away in a veterans hospital until he came out of the pit. He was more deserving than most cases of "non-service connected disability," for he had a record of supreme bravery in battle. But others, old or young, with nothing to their credit but a few months in uniform in some office or camp, can claim the same conveniences at public expense.

The federal Social Security provides retirement pay at a rate plainly insufficient to keep body and soul together. The unions and the civil service workers flatly hold that these pittances are not enough for them. The unions do not waive Social Security. They insist on it but they also claim "welfare" in its many phases to supplement the public doles. Congressmen get lavish pensions. Vincent Impelletteri, recently mayor of New York but now a judge biding his time to retirement, will collect $21,000 a year. Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States, is eligible even now for $12,000 from the state of California in addition to his pay, which recently was raised to $35,500. He does not even have to tell the people of California whether or not he is drawing the pension at their expense.

We tend toward "welfare" and "security," but it is a biting fact that princes of privilege and organized pressure groups are to get the cream, which may be soured, however, by unforeseen economic ferment.

GIRL SCOUT BIRTHDAY

The Girl Scouts will be 43 years old Saturday, March 12, and they have adopted "Believe, Belong, Build" as their theme. It is a happy phrase and one that Scouts and their leaders put into practice daily.

What the Scouts believe deeply is what they will work for devoutly. The women and men, too, of Ulster County who serve on the Girl Scout Council and its committees and those who assume the responsibility of leading troops are living examples of the truth of this statement. They work long and hard for Scouting because they believe in it with all their hearts. These grown-ups make it possible for Ulster County to sustain a flourishing, vital Girl Scout program.

As for the word "Belong", what better example can be given than the fact that there are over 1,300 Girl Scouts in Ulster County today? The continuous growth and spread of Girl Scouting is a matter of wonder and amazement. It began nationally with a handful of girls and today registers more than a million and a half girl members in every state, territory and possession. There also are U. S. A. Girl Scout troops in about 40 foreign lands, made up of youngsters whose parents have overseas military or business assignments.

In this community, as in other parts of the world, there are girls who want to belong but for whom leaders and meeting places are lacking. The council needs the support of more men and women in order to give Scouting to those girls who are asking for it.

"Build" is a good American word, typical of the energy and courage which has made our country strong. It is good that the young Scouts have included it in their theme for it shows that theirs is a dynamic program and one which is constantly looking forward. Because the Scouts believe in being good citizens they belong to an organization which prepares them for the important job ahead, and both believing and belonging they are building well for the future—their own and our country's.

A girl in the office says she can't understand all that fuss about security checks. The only kind she ever has trouble with are the ones the bank stamps "No Funds."

It's good to believe in yourself, but if you're the only one who does you can be sure there must be something wrong.

RED TAPE

Red Tape is a commonly used expression, but few people have a concrete idea of what it means. The Hoover Commission has performed a valuable service simply by showing what this term symbolizes.

They report that 4,000,000 letters are written daily within the Federal government, more than a billion a year. The average government employe writes 522 letters a year, compared with 55 in 1912. Governmental records in ordinary file cabinets would fill almost seven buildings the size of the Pentagon, and unless these records are cut down the government will have to build six more buildings as large as the giant National Archives structure. To keep these records, the government employs 159,000 persons, and another 25,000 federal employes do nothing but sort and route mail after it is delivered.

Cost of paper weight in the government today is five times as great as the size of the entire national budget of 1912. Federal agencies spend more than $100,000,000 a year for management directives and instructions.

In the face of these and similar facts, it is no wonder that the citizen is often lost to view. "Top federal executives are so enmeshed in paper," says the Hoover Commission, that "they cannot properly discharge their responsibilities."

Government service can be streamlined, as was done recently by the Navy and the Internal Revenue Service, with considerable saving of money. The Hoover Commission has made its report; now if the people, through Congress, implement the paperwork management program recommended, the Government will become more efficient.

'These Days'

CHURCHILL'S POSITION

Winston Churchill is in an extremely difficult position. Since 1946, every propagandistic weapon has been used by the British government to condemn Chiang Kai-shek and to ruin his reputation in the eyes of the British people. This propaganda has spread over the continent of Europe and has manifested itself in such a country as India. The political reason for this activity was to prevent Asiatic diversions from lessening the interest of the United States in the affairs of Europe. Even before 1946, General MacArthur suffered from Washington's concentration on European affairs. Frazier Hunt, in his book, "The Untold Story of Douglas MacArthur," details MacArthur's difficulties arising from lack of material while he was actually fighting the Asiatic war.

Now Churchill is faced by a prepared public opinion in his own country which is embarrassing because it cannot be turned. Great Britain is definitely anti-Chiang Kai-shek, whose side has never been properly presented to the British people. The situation is now such that it is developing into a widening breach between Great Britain and the United States at a time when such a breach can be damaging to both countries and to the unity of the West. On this subject, Churchill has served a warning to his own countrymen:

"The decision on whether or when these particular islands should be evacuated is not one the burden of which falls upon Her Majesty's Government, as we must recognize the natural preoccupation of other governments who are immediately affected by the threatened attack from Communist China.

"This is especially true at a time when the Chinese Communists keep stridently asserting that the islands are to be regarded as a stepping stone to the seizure of Formosa itself, with all that that must mean for the Chinese Nationalists under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who have been given shelter and protection there by the United States, and to whom the United States are bound by over 14 years comradeship in war, both against the Chinese Communists and the Japanese invaders of China."

Churchill's use of language is never casual. He is speaking not of Formosa, but of what he calls "the coastal islands" which today amount to Matsu and Quemoy. If, by any means, these two areas fall into the hands of the Chinese Communists, it is doubtful whether Formosa is defensible. But Formosa is only a phase of a broader situation which involves South Korea, Vietnam and Thailand. Regarding Vietnam and Thailand, there can be no doubt as to the British interest. But for Formosa, the British government cannot now get popular support to go along wholeheartedly with the American program which must include defense of Matsu and Quemoy or mean nothing.

The dilemma is not readily dissolvable and is of benefit to the Communists. The great fear of Europe, particularly in Great Britain, is that resistance to the imperialism of Red China may drag all the world into an atomic war in which Europe will be the speediest and most disastrous sufferer. In an earlier statement, Sir Anthony Eden undoubtedly expressed European opinion when he said:

"In this situation the first concern of Her Majesty's Government is to stop the fighting. They have therefore continued to urge on all concerned the importance of doing this and of preventing a wider conflagration. A solution of these delicate and difficult problems is not to be reached by force. A settlement can only be arrived at by the peaceful processes of patient negotiation."

Unfortunately, it is not to Chou En-lai's interest to negotiate for a cease-fire or a peace; it is to the advantage of the Chinese Communists to capture Formosa and to establish beyond doubt their hegemony over the states of Southeast Asia to the borders of India. Thus far, they have rejected the British and Indian efforts to establish a modus operandi for a cease-fire. If they accept such proposals now, it will only be if they are assured that the United States will recede from its unwillingness to recognize Red China and will vote for a seat on the Security Council of the United Nations. Chou En-lai cannot accept "the two Chinas" formula and survive.

As Eden says, it is a delicate and difficult problem and, for the moment, there seems to be no hope for a solution. Maybe, it would be wise to leave it that way.

That Body of Yours

WHEN FOOD LACKS VITAMINS

A few months ago a tragedy was aired in the press which may be more common than we know. Two small children were taken to a hospital and died as the result of an infection which they were unable to resist because they were in an advanced state of malnutrition. It was felt that they had been neglected by their parents but an investigation showed that the neglect was really ignorance since the children had been fed regularly but, unfortunately, not enough foods rich in vitamins which protect the body and enable it to combat infection.

Carefully conducted investigations have shown that when your diet is just slightly lacking in any one of the vitamins, your resistance to infections, such as colds, bronchitis, etc., is definitely lowered so that you catch these diseases easier and have greater difficulty in recovering than when your diet is adequate. This deficiency in the proper amount of vitamins in your diet probably will not produce any one special symptom but still you will not carry on at the highest possible level of vigor, resistance to disease and good health. Your vigor will be impaired and you probably will feel what is commonly known as "seedy" and, if this deficiency is marked and continues for any length of time, you may die.

How are we to be sure we are getting enough vitamins? Dr. Frederick Tisdall, outstanding Canadian specialist in nutrition, tells us that a daily diet built around milk, meat, eggs, vegetables and fruit will enable us to go a long way toward reaching the goal that we all desire — vigorous good health.

Vitamin A is distributed widely and abundantly among foods and if your diet contains a pint of milk a day, butter and two vegetables, besides potatoes, as well as an egg a day, you will certainly be receiving an adequate supply of vitamin A.

Vitamins B1 and B2 are not so abundant and we must watch carefully to get a sufficient amount of it. It is found in most vegetables and fruits, whole grain cereals, egg yolk, liver and kidney.

Vitamin C is readily destroyed by heat but is found in most fruits and vegetables, particularly tomatoes, either raw or factory-canned.

Vitamin D, found in fish oils, egg yolk and summer sunshine, is not easily obtained in the daily diet and it is thought advisable for everyone to take some vitamin D during the winter months. One teaspoonful of cod liver oil will give as much vitamin D as 14 egg yolks or 1500 servings of spinach.

Vitamin E, lack of which results in sterility, is found in wheat germ, green vegetables, corn, peas and oats.

Vitamin G, lack of which may result in pellagra (skin rash, sore mouth and tongue, digestive disturbances and diarrhoea), is found in yeast, eggs, milk, meat, fruits and vegetables.

Don't Go Too Fast, Son! Remember, I'm an Old Man!

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The atmosphere of today's Senate investigation of the stock market is entirely different from the atmosphere of the last investigation of 1933, when the midget sat on J. P. Morgan's lap.

Twenty-two years ago the country had gone through the crash of 1929 and four years of deep depression. A lot of people—little people—had been hurt badly.

Today, nobody has been hurt by the stock market rise of the last 18 months. It has been doing well by many people who think—Boom!—It's wonderful.

Out of the 1933 investigation came the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934. It requires full disclosure on stock issue information, regulates the sale of securities and gives the investing public much more protection from market manipulators.

What will come out of the investigation of 1955, nobody knows—least of all the honorable Senate Committee on Banking and Currency before which hearings are being held. It is a kind of exercise in safety first to prevent anybody from being hurt before he finds it necessary to jump out the window or blow his brains out after the fashion of 1929.

AS SEN. J. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT (D., Ark.), chairman of the committee, declares, "The basic issue is whether the public interest is being faithfully and wisely served." The basic interest is not, he says, whether stock prices are now too high, whether they can go higher, or whether they should be driven down.

It is an investigating committee's business, however, to find something wrong. Wall Street is a convenient whipping boy.

If the committee finds nothing wrong, the committee itself may be hurt. If the stock market is given a clean bill of health, it would only encourage more people to take a flier when they should be keeping an ear to the ground.

The investigation gives the exchanges and their member brokerage and banking businesses the best publicity forum in the country from which to tell their story.

As pictured in the testimony of lead-off witness George Keith Funston, 45-year-old president of the New York Stock Exchange, nothing is wrong with the stock market today.

ADMITTING THAT THE stock exchange governors are just as much interested in a stable market as anyone else, and that they will be glad to have anything wrong pointed out to them, Mr. Funston brought to Washington no program of corrective action.

There is no comparison between the present market and the great bull market of 1929, he declares. Today's economy is twice as big as 25 years ago. Assets and profits of corporations are also double.

Today's dollar is worth only half as much. So in terms of stable dollar values of 1935-39, stock prices and stock averages today are now higher than they were in 1936 and far lower than they were in 1929.

The dollar volume of stock transactions is only one fifth as large as in 1929, says Mr. Funston. Stock transactions today are only 1/18 as great as in 1929, if measured on the basis of percentage of national income.

Today's market is pictured as a cash market — not a credit market. The borrowings of stock exchange member firms in 1929 rose to $8.5 billion, or 10 per cent of the value of listed stocks. At the end of 1954, borrowings were only $1.9 billion, or 1.1 per cent of listed value.

TODAY THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD has the power to limit margin requirements on stock purchases. This authority is approved so long as margin requirements are based on sound economics and not for political or psychological effect.

While exchange leaders say they do not want excessive credit for stock market purchases, they point out that last year 70 per cent of all autos were sold on credit and 80 per cent of all homes are mortgaged.

The great stock exchange mistake of 1929 is now analyzed as a failure by the board of governors to realize that the volume of that market was being built up by professionals who were trading with each other. They knew the rules. The public didn't know the rules.

The aim today is to prevent another runaway market like that of 1929. The greatest danger today is seen in the gullible public's buying on tips and rumors, instead of on sound values.

Last October, when cheap uranium and oil stocks were being bid up, the New York Stock Exchange started a publicity campaign against tips and rumors. How much good it did is questionable.

"An investor can be protected against virtually everything but himself," says Mr. Funston.

Stocks Go Up, So Some Senators Feel There Ought to Be Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 9—Someone is always taking the joy out of life—and now it's those members of Congress who would abolish the art of prophecy and the custom of "picking the winner" in all sorts of things, from baseball or horse racing to the ups and downs of the stock market.

For it seems that when Walter Winchell told a nationwide television audience that he thought certain stocks were worth buying, he involuntarily prompted some senators to come forth with the usual solution to almost everything—which is that "there ought to be a law."

NOW IT SO HAPPENS that national political campaigns are the subject of some lively betting just before election, and many of us for years have tried to pick the winner ahead of time. The national campaign managers do a lot of predicting, too. Maybe all this will be taboo now.

Also every Friday on the sports pages in the football season the editors give their list of prospective winners of Saturday's games, and a good deal of betting ensues. Already the baseball writers are predicting that the Giants and the Indians will be pennant winners. Maybe all this will come under the ban now—for fear somebody might lose money.

There are two fundamental rights involved—one is the right to speak freely and the other is the right to lose one's own money. If the man who gives the tip turns out to be wrong, he will find himself in disfavor. This provides the best corrective for the future.

But what about the brokerage houses that send out market letters every week suggesting that this or that stock is a "good buy?" Is this to be taboo also?

AND WHAT ABOUT the senators themselves who today are influencing the market and in a way causing losses to investors?

Anybody who has been reading the financial pages of the newspapers of the Press Association reports during the day has noticed for the last several days the direct effect on the stock market caused by reports of the investigation being conducted by the Senate subcommittee on Banking. Here are some excerpts.

Wednesday, March 3.—"The stock market turned cautious today when Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem., Arkansas) hinted at increased securities and exchange commission regulation of the stock exchange. Prices slipped off from early highs."

Later the same day—"Later he (Senator Fulbright) clarified his own statement and the market turned up again. There was no hasty selling, however, and the market appeared braced to absorb the testimony on its sharp rise."

March 8.—"A selling drive drove stocks down sharply in the last half hour of trading. . . . The break came suddenly and without warning after a moderate recovery movement had set in from an earlier decline. . . . Losses ranged beyond five points. . . . The most potent reason for the drop was a suggestion by a Harvard professor that margins be hiked to 100 per cent. The wide publicity which this suggestion received—made before the Senate committee investigating the stock market—accelerated the dumping."

WHY SHOULD IT BE necessary for the Senate Banking Committee to conduct its investigation in such an exhibitionist manner and during market hours? Originally some of the Democrats piously announced that they wouldn't think of carrying on an "investigation" in the ordinary sense. For theirs was to be a "study." But there are other Democrats in Congress who think that a study can be handled by a 12-member commission sitting in executive session, as, for example, on personnel problems of the government. All the facts necessary to reach legislative conclusions, if any, can be gathered in an orderly way without causing the stock market itself to be affected each day, bringing losses and gains not through any intrinsic change in the values of the securities themselves but because of psychological factors created by the senators.

Anyway, the broadcasters who feel they have an equal right with senators or financial writers to discuss the ups and downs of the market will be justified now in calling the kettle black. For unquestionably the Senate committee inquiry is having almost daily impact on the market, and the citizen who knows the names of future witnesses and the trend of their testimony based on past writings, or who has advance information as to whether the CIO is going to stop motorcar production soon with a strike, can make some money for himself. But maybe printing this—itself a kind of prophecy or "tip"—will soon be taboo in this strange era of attempted conformity of thought.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The "welfare" insurance racket imposed on much of American labor and industry by professional unioneers and greedy insurance operators actually imposes another payroll tax on much of our economy. Already we have the federal income tax, collected by "deduction" at the pay window. We have also the union dues and assessments deducted by union checkoff. There is some doubt whether the income tax deduction is a first lien on the enormous weekly flow of wages for about 60 million workers. To be sure, the worker never gets his grimy hands on his federal tax, but in many cases the checkoff also deducts union dues and incidentals so there would seem to be a dead-heat. Anyway, it is idle to argue which is the prior lien. And when you add to them four per cent, evenly divided between the worker and the boss, for social security, you have an enormous impost on the national payroll.

The union worker's burden is just that much heavier than that of the free toiler, but altogether we contemplate a payroll tax of terrible immensity, much of it wasted. The social security tax is dissipated at once, for going expenses of an extravagant government. There is no such thing as a social security fund anywhere in Washington. There are instead only I.O.U.'s which other branches of a parasitic political system drop into the cash drawer in place of money taken out for current expenses. In private business that would be embezzlement. The union "welfare" funds in many cases are paid to the union headquarters rather than to joint trusteeships representing the employers and the workers. The fate of the money after that is variable but, at very best, this rakeoff imposed on the worker without consultation of his desires is timid, sterilized money. And the amount is so great even now that in a few years this and other similar factors are going to cause great changes in the economy.

Many of these "insurance" funds have no actuarial basis, and President Eisenhower has voiced a demure intimation that the federal government should place a friendly, restraining hand on the administrators of all this cash. However, neither Congress nor the unions will comply until the situation has grown much worse. In this suggestion, Eisenhower reveals again either ignorance of the theory and principle of our form of government or knowing determination to pursue the late Roosevelt's program of a paternal, authoritarian state. For here the President assents to the claim of unions that they have a legitimate right to inflict insurance on their subjects and to harm all workers who hold back. And he even thinks the federal government should implicate itself in the deal.

Some months ago, David Dubinsky loosed one of his "press releases" to the effect that honest unioneers wanted federal supervision and cooperation so that crooked union officials would be thwarted. He is a sly one, that Dubinsky. Here, under a pretext of protecting the interests of the simple individual toiler, he was proposing that that toiler's national government should formally endorse the heretical proposal that unions have a right to compel citizens to buy insurance at rates established by Dubinsky.

There is no legitimate excuse for union "welfare," whether life insurance, unemployment insurance or insurance against illness and injury. All those kinds of insurance are available in other markets at cheaper rates. Insurance is not the business of unions. Many millions of individuals hold life insurance up to $10,000 written by the federal government for members of the many "armed services." The Veterans Administration also provides free hospital care, often for imaginary ailments of persons who never heard a shot fired in anger nor left the United States and never suffered so much as a hangnail in service. Millions of gold-bricks have drawn billions of dollars for fake disabilities, thanks, in some part, to the diligent activity of the disabled American veterans, whose conduct has been exposed, although to no appreciable effect, within the last year.

In a city in Massachusetts, I discovered an active policeman who had been drawing checks for "disability" for many years although the conditions of his job set up a presumption of able-bodied fitness. What practical good is a cop who is only two-thirds able? On the same day, I verified the case of a clerk in a state unemployment office, drawing pay as a fully qualified bureaucrat, who also had enjoyed 33 per cent disability ever since 1918 when he fell from a boom on a naval ship and hurt his head. He said he sometimes suffered spells of dizziness.

Only a few months back, a friend of mine whose service ended 40 years ago, came down of the shrieks and was pleasantly tucked away in a veterans hospital until he came out of the pit. He was more deserving than most cases of "non-service connected disability," for he had a record of supreme bravery in battle. But others, old or young, with nothing to their credit but a few months in uniform in some office or camp, can claim the same conveniences at public expense.

The federal Social Security provides retirement pay at a rate plainly insufficient to keep body and soul together. The unions and the civil service workers flatly hold that these pittances are not enough for them. The unions do not waive Social Security. They insist on it but they also claim "welfare" in its many phases to supplement the public doles. Congressmen get lavish pensions. Vincent Impelletteri, recently mayor of New York but now a judge biding his time to retirement, will collect $21,000 a year. Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States, is eligible even now for $12,000 from the state of California in addition to his pay, which recently was raised to $35,500. He does not even have to tell the people of California whether or not he is drawing the pension at their expense.

We tend toward "welfare" and "security," but it is a biting fact that princes of privilege and organized pressure groups are to get the cream, which may be soured, however, by unforeseen economic ferment.

Resolution Asks Repair of R375

Woodstock, March 8—A resolution concerning the dangerous road conditions on New York State Route 375, was passed at the board meeting last Saturday night. Route 375 joins New New York State Route 212 at Woodstock and Route 28 at West Hurley. It was pointed out that there have been a great many automobile accidents along Route 375, resulting in personal injuries and property damages.

The resolution provides for a request to the New York State Department of Public Works to immediately reconstruct the highway, eliminating the dangerous and sharp curves and improve its sight distances. It was noted that the volume of traffic on the route is ever increasing and is likely to increase.

A certified copy of the resolution is being sent to Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, with a request that they intercede with the officials of the State Department of Public Works to bring about the highway reconstruction.

It is also requested that Supervisor Charles Relyea, of the Town of Hurley sponsor a similar resolution at the next meeting of the Town Board of that town.

Breaks Are Needed In Bridge Games

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Play today's hand at the slightly ambitious contract of four spades. You're bound to lose two aces, so you need quite a few breaks. For example, you have to find the king of spades, the ace of diamonds, and the jack of diamonds all favorably located; and you also need a 3-2 break in hearts.

Even though you bank on all these breaks, you can't just claim the contract. You must still time the play correctly.

When the hand was actually played, East took the first trick with the ace of clubs and returned a club. Declarer ruffed the queen of clubs in dummy because he wanted to be in dummy for a trump finesse. The queen of spades held, so South led a diamond to dummy's king and took another trump finesse.

South rejoiced when all seemed to be going well, but he celebrated too soon. He drew one more round of trumps with the ace, dropping East's king, and then led out three rounds of hearts.

East returned a club, forcing out South's last trump. Now South could enter dummy with a heart to try the diamond finesse, but West saved the ace of diamonds and a good club to defeat the contract.

South made his mistake after he successfully finessed the queen of spades. There was no need to lead diamonds at once. The correct play is to lead out three rounds of hearts first.

Or South could lead out the three rounds of hearts after taking the second spade finesse. The main point was to leave one trump in dummy when giving up the heart trick. Then dummy could accept the ruff if the enemy returned a club, and South could maintain his own trump length.

Follow the play through, and see for yourself. South ruffs the second club in dummy, finesses the queen of spades, and leads out three rounds of hearts. East's best return is a diamond, and South puts up the ten at once.

West can do nothing better than to take the ace of diamonds and return the suit. Now dummy steps up with the king of diamonds and returns another spade. South takes another finesse, and has no further problems.

His customers liked them and now he tries to put out a "new" one every month. A card goes with every one of the 500 or so orders that leave the shop monthly. Why do we offer 2 TYPES of Checking Accounts— Regular and ThriftiCheck ?

There is a good reason why we offer both Regular Checking Account and THRIFTICHECK Account services to our customers.

Some people draw many checks, make frequent deposits, keep substantial sums in their accounts and give the bank's name for credit reference. A Regular Checking Account is best for them because they ordinarily maintain an account balance large enough to cover operating expenses and consequently there is little or no charge for this kind of service.

Others keep less money in their account — some have just enough to take care of the checks they draw — and the number of checks is relatively few. These customers have a THRIFTICHECK Account which normally costs only pennies per check.

Both Regular Checking and THRIFTICHECK Account customers enjoy the advantages of convenience and safety.

Here you will find whichever checking account service is best for your own particular personal needs. May we tell you more about these services?

Comedy Favorite Is Coming With Gene Autry Show

PAT BUTTRAM, Gene Autry's pal on the range, will be with the cowboy star for the western show being brought here by the Kingston Lions Club for two performances at the Kate Walton Field House on Monday, March 14 at 4 and 8 p. m.

Tickets for the attraction, which will feature Annie Oakley, trick-shot artist, and the whole gang from Melody Ranch, are on sale at the Kingston Recreation Center, downtown, and at the Tommy Maines Sport Shop.

Dick Kalish, chairman of the committee promoting the big western show, reports a big demand for reservations, and advises that they be made early. Only 3,200 tickets will be sold for each show, he stressed.

"YOU MAY not know it," Kalish said, "but Pat Buttram was well on his way to becoming a preacher, when he turned to making people laugh as a livelihood."

Buttram came into his own by way of radio. He had acted in a few college plays and attracted the attention of a station manager in Birmingham, Ala., who gave him a job being funny on the air. He got $6 a week for a half hour a day, beginning at 6 a. m.—a rather tough beginning.

HE WAS so funny during an interview at the World's Fair in Chicago that he landed a spot on the National Barn Dance. Pat stayed 13 years, proving he was no flash in the pan as a comic.

Buttram, although he gets plenty of laughs in his hillbilly role, never pokes fun at the rural in sharp fashion. He says he has a healthy respect for them, and appreciates their philosophy of life.

PAT RANKS with Anne Oakley in the supporting cast to Autry, and his part in the show coming here gives him as much prominence as he gets in the TV plays.

Autry's show is packed with western novelties, rope spinning, trick shooting, bullwhip exhibitions, instrumental and vocal entertainment to please the youngsters and adults.

Kalish said the Lions are looking for large crowds at the two shows in Kate Walton Field House, and the club's expectations are that a sizeable amount will be raised for its program of charities.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time I am asked various questions such as when was the curfew law first adopted. According to records it was just about 49 years ago this coming month or April 1906. It required all persons under 16 years of age to be off the street after 9 p. m. in the summer, and 8 in the fall and winter. Every police officer, parent and child were well aware of it, believe me, I can still remember it, and no doubt can many others. When the curfew used to ring in the summer at 9 p. m. every youngster came to attention for they knew that from then on they were on borrowed time on the street. It all depended on how strict their parents were, how fast their little feet took them home. It also depended on how far away was the local patrolman. If he was in sight, one look at him and no one had to say a word, there was a definite understanding as to what was the next step. Seldom did the patrolman have to raise his voice and remind the young ones. Those were the days they feared the law, their parents and the school teacher, and in spite of this old fashioned training they grew up very well.

As my father's drug store downtown was open after the curfew rang, I stayed around the store but could see other youngsters racing home. Sometimes I ventured out, and if I met Patrolman White, he would look at me with busy eyebrows and I would make fast headway for my Pop's store. That is the way we respected the curfew bell, the police and law in general. I knew most of the patrolman as they were friends of my father and when on the beat in the downtown section they would drop in for a chat. Many of the teachers were also our customers, however still in school, there was no let down of discipline because I knew them outside. Although I have never seen a policeman really take a night stick to a youngster in full force, I have seen youngsters being gently shoved along home, especially if the young ones were found along the dock and missing from home for any length of time. But the old time policeman could certainly raise their voices if necessary and glare in no uncertain manner. They all seemed like such big men to me, perhaps because I was little, perhaps because their hats were of the high blower type, or perhaps their mustaches and eyebrows seemed to add to their dignity. When they would say to a bunch of youngsters, "Come on break it up!" the boys went and fast.

I did not follow too closely the new law that places the curfew at 11 o'clock. I do not understand, was the 9 and 8 ever repealed and what happens when there are two laws on the books? Does the old hold over the new or what? In those years of the Mary Powell when its whistle in the summer gave us a clew that it was time to go home, many of us had gas lights, no radio, and of course no television. We went home and to bed as a rule. Today an average home has so much more to entertain the youngster. There is TV and good lights and good heat. Folks have more mechanical devices for comfort and conveniences. There are cold drinks in an electrical refrigerator and all sort of desserts. Kids have more money for candy, potato chips and soda, still I think in years gone by they were more content. We worried less at meals and perhaps are better, because food was less artificial colored and synthetic and we had our games and fun, too.

Children Are Bitten

Gary, Ind., March 8 (AP)—Gary health officials are inoculating 22 children bitten by a rabid dog while playing in the yard of the Horace Mann School. Technicians at the State Board of Health in Indianapolis said yesterday tests showed the dog, a two-month-old German shepherd, was rabid. School officials said the dog was in the area a week before it attacked the pupils. Officials said they had the names of 48 persons known to have handled the dog, including the 22 bitten.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time I am asked various questions such as when was the curfew law first adopted. According to records it was just about 49 years ago this coming month or April 1906. It required all persons under 16 years of age to be off the street after 9 p. m. in the summer, and 8 in the fall and winter. Every police officer, parent and child were well aware of it, believe me, I can still remember it, and no doubt can many others. When the curfew used to ring in the summer at 9 p. m. every youngster came to attention for they knew that from then on they were on borrowed time on the street. It all depended on how strict their parents were, how fast their little feet took them home. It also depended on how far away was the local patrolman. If he was in sight, one look at him and no one had to say a word, there was a definite understanding as to what was the next step. Seldom did the patrolman have to raise his voice and remind the young ones. Those were the days they feared the law, their parents and the school teacher, and in spite of this old fashioned training they grew up very well.

As my father's drug store downtown was open after the curfew rang, I stayed around the store but could see other youngsters racing home. Sometimes I ventured out, and if I met Patrolman White, he would look at me with busy eyebrows and I would make fast headway for my Pop's store. That is the way we respected the curfew bell, the police and law in general. I knew most of the patrolman as they were friends of my father and when on the beat in the downtown section they would drop in for a chat. Many of the teachers were also our customers, however still in school, there was no let down of discipline because I knew them outside. Although I have never seen a policeman really take a night stick to a youngster in full force, I have seen youngsters being gently shoved along home, especially if the young ones were found along the dock and missing from home for any length of time. But the old time policeman could certainly raise their voices if necessary and glare in no uncertain manner. They all seemed like such big men to me, perhaps because I was little, perhaps because their hats were of the high blower type, or perhaps their mustaches and eyebrows seemed to add to their dignity. When they would say to a bunch of youngsters, "Come on break it up!" the boys went and fast.

I did not follow too closely the new law that places the curfew at 11 o'clock. I do not understand, was the 9 and 8 ever repealed and what happens when there are two laws on the books? Does the old hold over the new or what? In those years of the Mary Powell when its whistle in the summer gave us a clew that it was time to go home, many of us had gas lights, no radio, and of course no television. We went home and to bed as a rule. Today an average home has so much more to entertain the youngster. There is TV and good lights and good heat. Folks have more mechanical devices for comfort and conveniences. There are cold drinks in an electrical refrigerator and all sort of desserts. Kids have more money for candy, potato chips and soda, still I think in years gone by they were more content. We worried less at meals and perhaps are better, because food was less artificial colored and synthetic and we had our games and fun, too.

Marine Station Has New Officer At Poughkeepsie

A new officer-in-charge has been named for the U. S. Marine Corps recruiting station in Poughkeepsie, which covers the Kingston territory, it was announced today.

T/S Robert R. Sturman, a veteran of the First Marine Division in Korea, with nine and a half years of service, has taken over the assignment formerly held by M/S Richard E. Zendzian since 1952.

SGT. STURMAN is an experienced recruiter, having served 18 months in Glens Falls on that detail. A native of Rock Springs, Wyo., he served in the South Pacific and spent two years in China, besides seeing action in Korea.

Assisting Sturman are two marines familiar with the local area, Sgt. Eugene Wedge and Sgt. Lynn H. Rutter, who served with Zendzian. They will continue to serve in Kingston, visiting the station in the central post office, second floor, Mondays and Fridays, for interviews with young men and women relative to joining the marines.

ANYONE interested may contact the Poughkeepsie office weekdays from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

M/S Zendzian went from the Poughkeepsie station to the U. S. Navy Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn., Sturman said, with the comment that he was leaving many friends made since 1952, when he came to the local area with T/S Charles Awkerman, who made his home in this city and was in charge of the station at the post office until several months ago.

Zendzian, a native of Hartford, Conn., has more than 12 years of active service, having been in the South Pacific during World War 2, and with the First Marine Air Wing in Korea. A technical sergeant when he joined the Poughkeepsie station, he was promoted to master sergeant in 1953.

Man Is Expected North 'Any Time'

A Poughkeepsie man apparently kidnapped Sunday and driven to Georgia by hitchhikers was expected back "almost anytime," Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close told The Freeman early this afternoon.

Sheriff Close said he believed the man might be driving his own automobile.

The man, John Hauck, 35, telephone his wife Monday night saying he is safe and would return home sometime today.

Few details were known of the incident, and authorities could not say where Hauck had been freed or where he might be today.

Close pieced together this story:

Hauck concluded a business discussion around 1:30 p. m. Sunday and drove off for his home, about three miles away.

En route he picked up two hitchhikers, identified only as sailors.

"The next thing Mr. Hauck knew he was in Georgia," Close said. Apparently he had been slugged unconscious. The next word was his phone call advising his wife he had been set free.

Close issued an all-state alarm Sunday night after Mrs. Hauck reported her husband missing.

Five Die in Fire

Portland, Ore., March 9 (AP)—At least five persons died in a fire which swept through an old frame upstairs hotel early today. The bodies of four elderly men were received before dawn. The fifth body, unidentified, was taken from a huge pile of rubble hours later as firemen continued to probe to determine whether others of the nearly 80 guests had perished. The hotel, The Lind, occupied the second and third floors of a three-story building on the Willamette river fringe of the business district. Shops occupied the first floor. The fire cause was not determined.

Compromise May Come

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Senate Democrats were reported tinkering today with a compromise proposal to combine a $10-a-person income tax cut with other revenue law changes. But Senate Republicans remained set against any tax reductions now. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, called an afternoon news conference to disclose details of a minority report by six Senate Finance Committee Democrats who supported a House-approved $20-a-person tax reduction rejected by that committee last week.

One Plate in 1956

Albany, March 9 (AP)—New York state motorists will get only one license plate for their automobiles again next year. Despite a split in Republican party ranks, the Assembly today gave final approval to a bill directing the commissioner of motor vehicles to issue one registration tag per vehicle in 1956. Gov. Harriman's signature is not required.

Must Show Cause

New York, March 9 (AP)—The district attorney's office today ordered William J. Keating, counsel to the New York City Anti-crime Committee, to show cause Friday why he should not be cited for contempt of a grand jury.

Cases Are Settled In Supreme Court

Among the cases disposed of from the March calendar of Supreme Court are:

No. 25, J. M. Hepworth and A. H. Hepworth against Milton Cold Storage Co., Inc., negligence. Rusk and Rusk for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant. Stricken from the calendar.

Settled was No. 470, Hyman Gruber against Abraham Levine and another. Kooperman and Kooperman for plaintiff and Stanley B. Johnson for defendants.

Four Jurors Challenged

New York, March 9 (AP)—Four prospective jurors, one a woman, were challenged in rapid succession today in the task of selection of a jury for the second trial of Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke on vice charges. The four dismissals left fewer than 30 persons in the original panel called as possible jurors. The woman rejected today was Mrs. Constance S. Williams, Fifth avenue housewife whose husband is an advertising executive. She said she would not be embarrassed and would have "no trouble at all in discussing any of the seamy details" of testimony, if necessary, with fellow jurors. However, she was excused when the prosecution challenged her. Two others of grown children became jurors yesterday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 9 (AP)—The stock market declined today, but strong resistance to the fall developed in the early afternoon.

Yesterday's market broke sharply when heavy selling hit late in the session.

The decline today was concentrated in the first hour. Prices were down between 1 and 3 points at the outside.

A recovery movement toward the end of the first hour and through the second hour brought betterment to many key issues and produced some plus signs that went to around 2 points at times.

Trading hit an exceedingly fast pace, and the tape was continuously late during the first hour and 15 minutes.

Tax Form Assailed

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—Circuit Judge Dale Souter, who wrote his congressman that this year's income tax form is "atrocious," says he has been flooded with congratulatory mail from across the nation since his published blast. He wrote: "Whoever is responsible for this form of statement should be looking for a job elsewhere."

Miss Jane Ann Bower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Bower of Hurley, received a fractured ankle while skiing at Stowe, Vt., on Sunday. She is recuperating at her home.

Firemen Called For Two Blazes

Firemen were called to two fires, only four minutes apart early today, one in a tavern, and the other in a bedroom of a West Chestnut street house.

A fire in a hot air register in the floor of the restaurant and bar of Francis Gallagher, Foxhall avenue and Stephan street, caused some damage and smoke in the building.

MEN AND equipment from Central station and Wicks Engine Company answered a call there at 1:44 a. m. A cigarette had apparently ignited lint and other material in the register, firemen said.

The register and part of the heat duct in the cellar were removed, and the fire was quenched with an Indian pump.

At 1:48 a. m., Cornell station and a unit from Central station were sent to the house of William and Alice Flynn, 112 West Chestnut street, where a mattress, bed and carpet in a second-floor bedroom were damaged. The fire was believed to have been started by a spark from a match. A Central station truck was sent to the house from the other fire.

Onteora School Board Meeting

The Onteora Central School Board of Education at its regular March meeting adopted a policy to present "in appreciation" awards to former school board members and other persons who have rendered public service to the Central School District. These awards will be appropriate in design and suitably inscribed and will be presented at the school's 1955 commencement exercises. The board further decided that this policy should become a future policy for Onteora boards of education because they felt there is a need for recognition to persons who have rendered outstanding public service to the school district.

PHILIP GORDON, Phoenicia, president of the board of education, said "by adopting this policy the present board of education hopes that any person who has rendered meritorious service to advance or contribute to the educational program of this school district should be recognized. Such recognition is long overdue."

The type of award to be presented will be an attracive gray leatherbound certificate with the individual's name embossed in gold leaf on the front cover.

Plattekill Issue Is Created Over Reappraisal Way

For the past three years there has been much talk in the township of Plattekill about the prospect for reappraising of properties in Plattekill, Modena, Clintondale and Ardonia.

It has become and is the dominant issue because the town board has projected it as a subject of discussion by their recently more conciliatory attitude toward reappraisal.

RESIDENTS of the town feel the subject of taxes and reappraisal is highly controversial. As usual in matters of reappraisal, the controversy is centered around who should do the job. Local tax assessors or an outside appraisal firm?

The Town of Plattekill Civic Association has gone on record that an outside professional firm do the reappraisal work in the township. Some of the members of the board favor an outside firm to bring the assessments up to date as quickly as possible. An informal vote conducted recently by the town board favored reappraisal by professionals.

OPPOSING that an outside firm do the job of reappraisal is Angelo DeLewis, 17 year resident and taxpayer of Bog Meadow Road, Plattekill.

DeLewis said, "We have three elected assessors who for many years past have performed the duty for which they have been elected, now, however, the question is raised as to the advisability of having an outside firm making the appraisals."

"The reasoning behind this move is that an outside firm would act free from any partiality or favoritism as could be the case with the elected officials who might be inclined to favor friends," said DeLewis.

DE LEWIS and Justice of the Peace Hobart Smalley and other taxpayers feel that an assessor's job is one of delicacy and their judgment is perhaps often challenged whether justified or not. Smalley's attitude in that the reappraisal should be conducted locally, and that no matter how the appraisal may be made it will be impossible to satisfy everyone.

"The same monies that an outside firm would take for doing the job," added DeLewis," could be utilized to pay the local elected assessors".

DeLewis's attitude toward local tax assessors is that their work should not be delegated to anyone else. If there is doubt as to the qualifications of the local assessors, they could seek assistance of an local advisory committee who could well be taxpayers selected from the community by the various fraternal and civic organizations.

"Reports from other neighboring townships," concluded DeLewis, "where employing an outside firm was practiced, were unfavorable In any case, alertness is advisable. Attending town board meetings where the decisions are made won't hurt."

Marine Station Has New Officer At Poughkeepsie

A new officer-in-charge has been named for the U. S. Marine Corps recruiting station in Poughkeepsie, which covers the Kingston territory, it was announced today.

T/S Robert R. Sturman, a veteran of the First Marine Division in Korea, with nine and a half years of service, has taken over the assignment formerly held by M/S Richard E. Zendzian since 1952.

SGT. STURMAN is an experienced recruiter, having served 18 months in Glens Falls on that detail. A native of Rock Springs, Wyo., he served in the South Pacific and spent two years in China, besides seeing action in Korea.

Assisting Sturman are two marines familiar with the local area, Sgt. Eugene Wedge and Sgt. Lynn H. Rutter, who served with Zendzian. They will continue to serve in Kingston, visiting the station in the central post office, second floor, Mondays and Fridays, for interviews with young men and women relative to joining the marines.

ANYONE interested may contact the Poughkeepsie office weekdays from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

M/S Zendzian went from the Poughkeepsie station to the U. S. Navy Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn., Sturman said, with the comment that he was leaving many friends made since 1952, when he came to the local area with T/S Charles Awkerman, who made his home in this city and was in charge of the station at the post office until several months ago.

Zendzian, a native of Hartford, Conn., has more than 12 years of active service, having been in the South Pacific during World War 2, and with the First Marine Air Wing in Korea. A technical sergeant when he joined the Poughkeepsie station, he was promoted to master sergeant in 1953.

Man Is Expected North 'Any Time'

A Poughkeepsie man apparently kidnapped Sunday and driven to Georgia by hitchhikers was expected back "almost anytime," Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close told The Freeman early this afternoon.

Sheriff Close said he believed the man might be driving his own automobile.

The man, John Hauck, 35, telephone his wife Monday night saying he is safe and would return home sometime today.

Few details were known of the incident, and authorities could not say where Hauck had been freed or where he might be today.

Close pieced together this story:

Hauck concluded a business discussion around 1:30 p. m. Sunday and drove off for his home, about three miles away.

En route he picked up two hitchhikers, identified only as sailors.

"The next thing Mr. Hauck knew he was in Georgia," Close said. Apparently he had been slugged unconscious. The next word was his phone call advising his wife he had been set free.

Close issued an all-state alarm Sunday night after Mrs. Hauck reported her husband missing.

Five Die in Fire

Portland, Ore., March 9 (AP)—At least five persons died in a fire which swept through an old frame upstairs hotel early today. The bodies of four elderly men were received before dawn. The fifth body, unidentified, was taken from a huge pile of rubble hours later as firemen continued to probe to determine whether others of the nearly 80 guests had perished. The hotel, The Lind, occupied the second and third floors of a three-story building on the Willamette river fringe of the business district. Shops occupied the first floor. The fire cause was not determined.

Compromise May Come

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Senate Democrats were reported tinkering today with a compromise proposal to combine a $10-a-person income tax cut with other revenue law changes. But Senate Republicans remained set against any tax reductions now. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, called an afternoon news conference to disclose details of a minority report by six Senate Finance Committee Democrats who supported a House-approved $20-a-person tax reduction rejected by that committee last week.

One Plate in 1956

Despite a split in Republican party ranks, the Assembly today gave final approval to a bill directing the commissioner of motor vehicles to issue one registration tag per vehicle in 1956. Gov. Harriman's signature is not required.

Four Jurors Challenged

New York, March 9 (AP)—Four prospective jurors, one a woman, were challenged in rapid succession today in the task of selection of a jury for the second trial of Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke on vice charges. The four dismissals left fewer than 30 persons in the original panel called as possible jurors. The woman rejected today was Mrs. Constance S. Williams, Fifth avenue housewife whose husband is an advertising executive. She said she would not be embarrassed and would have "no trouble at all in discussing any of the seamy details" of testimony, if necessary, with fellow jurors. However, she was excused when the prosecution challenged her. Two others of grown children became jurors yesterday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 9 (AP)—The stock market declined today, but strong resistance to the fall developed in the early afternoon.

Yesterday's market broke sharply when heavy selling hit late in the session.

The decline today was concentrated in the first hour. Prices were down between 1 and 3 points at the outside.

A recovery movement toward the end of the first hour and through the second hour brought betterment to many key issues and produced some plus signs that went to around 2 points at times.

Trading hit an exceedingly fast pace, and the tape was continuously late during the first hour and 15 minutes.

Firemen Called For Two Blazes

Firemen were called to two fires, only four minutes apart early today, one in a tavern, and the other in a bedroom of a West Chestnut street house.

A fire in a hot air register in the floor of the restaurant and bar of Francis Gallagher, Foxhall avenue and Stephan street, caused some damage and smoke in the building.

MEN AND equipment from Central station and Wicks Engine Company answered a call there at 1:44 a. m. A cigarette had apparently ignited lint and other material in the register, firemen said.

The register and part of the heat duct in the cellar were removed, and the fire was quenched with an Indian pump.

At 1:48 a. m., Cornell station and a unit from Central station were sent to the house of William and Alice Flynn, 112 West Chestnut street, where a mattress, bed and carpet in a second-floor bedroom were damaged. The fire was believed to have been started by a spark from a match. A Central station truck was sent to the house from the other fire.

The board further decided that this policy should become a future policy for Onteora boards of education because they felt there is a need for recognition to persons who have rendered outstanding public service to the school district.

PHILIP GORDON, Phoenicia, president of the board of education, said "by adopting this policy the present board of education hopes that any person who has rendered meritorious service to advance or contribute to the educational program of this school district should be recognized. Such recognition is long overdue."

The type of award to be presented will be an attracive gray leatherbound certificate with the individual's name embossed in gold leaf on the front cover.

Plattekill Issue Is Created Over Reappraisal Way

For the past three years there has been much talk in the township of Plattekill about the prospect for reappraising of properties in Plattekill, Modena, Clintondale and Ardonia.

It has become and is the dominant issue because the town board has projected it as a subject of discussion by their recently more conciliatory attitude toward reappraisal.

RESIDENTS of the town feel the subject of taxes and reappraisal is highly controversial. As usual in matters of reappraisal, the controversy is centered around who should do the job. Local tax assessors or an outside appraisal firm?

The Town of Plattekill Civic Association has gone on record that an outside professional firm do the reappraisal work in the township. Some of the members of the board favor an outside firm to bring the assessments up to date as quickly as possible. An informal vote conducted recently by the town board favored reappraisal by professionals.

OPPOSING that an outside firm do the job of reappraisal is Angelo DeLewis, 17 year resident and taxpayer of Bog Meadow Road, Plattekill.

DeLewis said, "We have three elected assessors who for many years past have performed the duty for which they have been elected, now, however, the question is raised as to the advisability of having an outside firm making the appraisals."

"The reasoning behind this move is that an outside firm would act free from any partiality or favoritism as could be the case with the elected officials who might be inclined to favor friends," said DeLewis.

DE LEWIS and Justice of the Peace Hobart Smalley and other taxpayers feel that an assessor's job is one of delicacy and their judgment is perhaps often challenged whether justified or not. Smalley's attitude in that the reappraisal should be conducted locally, and that no matter how the appraisal may be made it will be impossible to satisfy everyone.

"The same monies that an outside firm would take for doing the job," added DeLewis," could be utilized to pay the local elected assessors".

DeLewis's attitude toward local tax assessors is that their work should not be delegated to anyone else. If there is doubt as to the qualifications of the local assessors, they could seek assistance of an local advisory committee who could well be taxpayers selected from the community by the various fraternal and civic organizations.

"Reports from other neighboring townships," concluded DeLewis, "where employing an outside firm was practiced, were unfavorable In any case, alertness is advisable. Attending town board meetings where the decisions are made won't hurt."

Metcalf-Baker Bill

Editor, The Freeman

The advent of Brotherhood Week, February 20th-27th, has pointed up the advantages of improved community relations. People are increasingly aware of the complex issues arising from the central fact of our nation's diverse population makeup. We are indeed a nation of minorities and our moral strength rests on the recognition of the basic rights of all the people.

The road to "a more perfect Union" envisioned by the founding fathers is, nonetheless beset with obstacles. Our political leadership in New York state has recognized the specific need for legislation concerning the rights of minorities. Senator Arthur Wicks co-sponsored the Wicks-Austin law which prohibits discrimination in publicly assisted housing. Implementation and extension of this pioneer legislation is now before the New York State Legislature. The Metcalf-Baker Bill endorsed by Governor Harriman provides for

1. Jurisdiction for the enforcement by the State Commission Against Discrimination of the Wicks-Austin Lak (S.I. 137): (A.I. 14).

2. Extension of the Wicks-Austin Law to include all multiple dwellings and building developments of ten or more homes which receive any kind of government mortgage or guarantee (S.I. 140); (A.I. 13).

Enactment of the Metcalf-Baker proposals will be a long step forward in the unceasing effort to accomplish the ideals of Brotherhood Week. Furthermore, passage of this legislation will reflect due credit on the leadership of the state Legislature.

As a matter of foremost civic importance we recommend individual support of the Metcalf-Baker legislative proposals. Your readers should urge their legislative representatives to support these measures.

Corned Beef Loaf Is Perfect Dish for St. Patrick's Day

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CORNED BEEF LOAF is served with cabbage wedges and soda bread.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

MARCH 17, St. Patrick's Day, is a great day for the Irish. And, of course, corned beef and cabbage, being popular with the proud sons and daughters of the fair green isle, they belong on the menu for March 17.

Mrs. Bridget Clancy, of New York, serves traditional corned beef but with a modern labor-saving twist. She makes a corned beef loaf, covers it with horseradish cream sauce and decorates it with shamrocks cut from pimento-stuffed olives.

St. Patrick's Day Corned Beef Loaf
(Makes 6-8 servings)

Four cups cooked ground corned beef, 1½ cups diced cooked potatoes, ¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 egg, slightly beaten; 1 medium-sized onion, chopped; ½ cup chopped pimento-stuffed green olives, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1 cup milk.

Combine beef, potatoes, crumbs, egg, onion and olives; mix well. Melt butter or margarine over low heat; add flour and blend. Gradually add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add to beef-olive mixture and mix well. Turn mixture into greased 9x5x3-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 1 hour to 1½ hours, or until firm. Serve with horseradish cream sauce and garnish with olives as desired.

Cheese-Olive Surprise Rolls
(Make about 32 small rolls)

One 14¼-ounce package hot roll mix, 1/3 cup chopped pimento-stuffed green olives, 32½-inch cubes processed Cheddar cheese.

Combine hot roll mix and olives; mix well. Prepare dough according to package directions. When ready to shape, form dough around cheese cubes to make balls about 1 to 1½ inches in diameter. Arrange in greased shallow baking pan and bake according to package directions for pan rolls.

ST. PATRICK'S DINNER: Green vegetable juice cocktail, St. Patrick's Day corned beef loaf, buttered cabbage wedges, soda bread, butter or margarine, molded lime gelatin salad with green peppers in shamrock molds, walnut chocolate cake with green peppermint frosting, coffee, tea, milk.

AMERICAN MENU

Corned Beef Loaf Is Perfect Dish for St. Patrick's Day

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CORNED BEEF LOAF is served with cabbage wedges and soda bread.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

MARCH 17, St. Patrick's Day, is a great day for the Irish. And, of course, corned beef and cabbage, being popular with the proud sons and daughters of the fair green isle, they belong on the menu for March 17.

Mrs. Bridget Clancy, of New York, serves traditional corned beef but with a modern labor-saving twist. She makes a corned beef loaf, covers it with horseradish cream sauce and decorates it with shamrocks cut from pimento-stuffed olives.

St. Patrick's Day Corned Beef Loaf
(Makes 6-8 servings)

Four cups cooked ground corned beef, 1½ cups diced cooked potatoes, ¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 egg, slightly beaten; 1 medium-sized onion, chopped; ½ cup chopped pimento-stuffed green olives, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1 cup milk.

Combine beef, potatoes, crumbs, egg, onion and olives; mix well. Melt butter or margarine over low heat; add flour and blend. Gradually add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add to beef-olive mixture and mix well. Turn mixture into greased 9x5x3-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 1 hour to 1½ hours, or until firm. Serve with horseradish cream sauce and garnish with olives as desired.

Cheese-Olive Surprise Rolls
(Make about 32 small rolls)

One 14¼-ounce package hot roll mix, 1/3 cup chopped pimento-stuffed green olives, 32½-inch cubes processed Cheddar cheese.

Combine hot roll mix and olives; mix well. Prepare dough according to package directions. When ready to shape, form dough around cheese cubes to make balls about 1 to 1½ inches in diameter. Arrange in greased shallow baking pan and bake according to package directions for pan rolls.

ST. PATRICK'S DINNER: Green vegetable juice cocktail, St. Patrick's Day corned beef loaf, buttered cabbage wedges, soda bread, butter or margarine, molded lime gelatin salad with green peppers in shamrock molds, walnut chocolate cake with green peppermint frosting, coffee, tea, milk.

Metcalf-Baker Bill

Editor, The Freeman

The advent of Brotherhood Week, February 20th-27th, has pointed up the advantages of improved community relations. People are increasingly aware of the complex issues arising from the central fact of our nation's diverse population makeup. We are indeed a nation of minorities and our moral strength rests on the recognition of the basic rights of all the people.

The road to "a more perfect Union" envisioned by the founding fathers is, nonetheless beset with obstacles. Our political leadership in New York state has recognized the specific need for legislation concerning the rights of minorities. Senator Arthur Wicks co-sponsored the Wicks-Austin law which prohibits discrimination in publicly assisted housing. Implementation and extension of this pioneer legislation is now before the New York State Legislature. The Metcalf-Baker Bill endorsed by Governor Harriman provides for

1. Jurisdiction for the enforcement by the State Commission Against Discrimination of the Wicks-Austin Lak (S.I. 137): (A.I. 14).

2. Extension of the Wicks-Austin Law to include all multiple dwellings and building developments of ten or more homes which receive any kind of government mortgage or guarantee (S.I. 140); (A.I. 13).

Enactment of the Metcalf-Baker proposals will be a long step forward in the unceasing effort to accomplish the ideals of Brotherhood Week. Furthermore, passage of this legislation will reflect due credit on the leadership of the state Legislature.

As a matter of foremost civic importance we recommend individual support of the Metcalf-Baker legislative proposals. Your readers should urge their legislative representatives to support these measures.

Margaret to Wed, Informant Says

London, March 9 (AP)—Princess Margaret intends to marry 40-year-old RAF group Capt. Peter Townsend this fall, an informant in touch with the royal family said today.

Townsend himself, a divorced man, was quoted as saying:

"There can be nothing said until the time is ready or somebody else does something."

The 24-year-old princess is expected to renounce her right of succession to the throne to smooth the way for her wedding to a commoner, according to the informant, who refused to permit use of his name.

MARGARET'S MARRIAGE to the war hero, 16 years her senior and father of two children, would defy the Church of England's ban on the remarriage of divorced persons.

Buckingham Palace maintained its traditional silence on reports concerning the royal family's personal plans. But available information tended to corroborate the report that Margaret and Townsend are going ahead with wedding plans.

Even a princess can change her mind, however, and Townsend himself presumably could erect great obstacles to the marriage by indiscreet remarks.

THERE ARE suggestions — naturally not confirmed — that news about the royal romance is being leaked deliberately to the British press.

The aim of that apparently would be to determine how the British people react to word that the gay princess has chosen a divorced commoner. Such publicity also would avoid the public shock which developed when Edward VIII's romance with Mrs. Wallis Simpson got in the British papers only just before his abdication to marry her.

National Guard Pay Roll, Other Items Total $165,000

The 156th Armored Field Artillery Battalion of the New York National Guard recently released some interesting figures that closely approach those of an industrial concern.

More than $165,000 was brought into the city during the past year through the normal channels of military procedures relative to the training and administrative activities of the local guardsmen.

THE QUARTERLY payrolls for the units stationed in the Kingston Armory on North Manor avenue totaled $63,000 with an additional Field Training payroll of $22,000 for the summer maneuvers at Camp Drum. These figures take into consideration only the payments due the personnel of the battalion for the performance of ordered military duty. Guardsmen of the battalion are paid every three months, on what is known as quarterly payrolls for duty performed at drill on Monday and Tuesday evenings at the local armory.

ANOTHER $31,000 is brought into the city by virtue of salaries paid to the full time federal employes connected with organization. Salaries of the state employes totaled $32,000. These are men employed by the State of New York and are responsible to the commanding officer for the maintenance and upkeep of the entire installation. Another $12,900 is spent locally for fuel, light, telephone and other miscellaneous items pertaining to the proper functioning of the organization. This includes materials for repairs, painting, plumbing and electrical work, along with the upkeep of the service center, located in rear of the armory, and which is operated on a full time basis in vehicle maintenance and repair work. Military and unit funds account for another $5,000 expenditure toward stationery supplies, foodstuffs and the many other items used throughout the year for the conduct of the command.

These figures are interesting in that they reveal what might be termed a minimum amount of an expenditure for a maximum amount of effort toward national defense, considering the local guardsmen are rated "tops" as a first line of defense unit within the First Army area. Considering that all the personnel of the battalion are located or living in the city and its immediate vicinity, much of this is returned by way of the men spending the money here.

Why We Say--

This extremely popular song during World War I was written on New Years Day 1912 on a wager. The songwriter Jack Judge made a bet that he could write the words and music of a song and produce it the same day. The result was "Tipperary" (a county in Ireland) which he sang that night in an English theatre.

Forest Fire Slows Bodies' Removal From Plane Wreck

Mexico City, March 9 (AP)—Rescue workers battled a raging forest fire today in an effort to reach the bodies of 26 persons killed in Mexico's worst plane crash. The dead included four Californians.

The ill-fated airliner, a two-engine DC3 of the Compania Mexicana de Aviacion, crashed into a wooded mountain yesterday shortly after taking off from Puerto Vallarto, on the Pacific coast. It burst into flames, touching off the forest fire.

A rancher who reached the scene before the surrounding trees caught fire said there were no survivors among the 23 passengers and three crewmen. The passengers included two children.

THE U.S. CITIZENS aboard were identified as:

Edd Johnson, a staff member of the San Francisco Chronicle who had been on leave at Puerto Villarto. He formerly was an editor of the New Republic Magazine and a foreign correspondent for a Chicago newspaper.

Dr. Clifford Hays, 32, a dentist, of Arcadia, Calif.

Dr. Russell Inge, Jr., 31, a dentist, of Montebello, Calif.

R. S. Hall, 47, a grocer, of Whittier, Calif.

IN WHITTIER, a friend of Mrs. Hall said the grocer left there last Friday with the two dentists for a fishing trip in Mexico. She said they were expected home next Tuesday.

The plane was en route from Puerto Vallarto to Guadalajara when it hit the mountain 16 miles north of Mascota, in the state of Jalisco. The area is about 400 miles west of Mexico City.

CMA spokesmen said weather conditions at the time were good. They were unable to give any cause for the crash. The pilot of the plane was Capt. Oscar Iriarte, one of the line's most experienced men. CMA is a subsidiary of Pan American World Airways.

The crash was the second major air accident in Mexico within 24 hours. Five persons, including millionaire Mexican sportsman Jorge Pasquel, were killed Monday night when Pasquel's private plane crashed in the northern state of San Luis Potosi.

Practical Nurses Press for Vote On State Board

Basis for opposition by registered nurse groups to voting powers by practical nurses on the New York State Board of Examiners is "economic fears," according to Miss Margaret L. Bowen, president of the Ulster County Division of Practical Nurses of New York, Inc.

She made the statement in reference to pending legislation sponsored by the practical nurses state organization which would make it mandatory that two licensed practical nurses be included on the board of seven examiners with full voting privileges.

PRACTICAL nurses serve on an advisory council to the nurse examining board, but have no voice or vote, Miss Bowen said.

She termed as misleading to legislators and the public, a statement by the New York State Nurses Association that practical nurse representation on the nurse examining board would deprive New Yorkers of protection from "unqualified practitioners."

Miss Bowen stressed that if the current bill is defeated at this session of the Legislature, her organiaztion would have no alternative but to press for creation of an entirely separate board.

"WE FULLY realize that the real reason for the opposition of some registered nurses is economic fear," Miss Bowen declared.

Stressing the constantly growing need for more nurses, President Bowen said, "Some voice in the establishment of curricula for the practical nurse training schools throughout the state is one of our main reasons for seeking voting privileges on state examining board."

Certain Auto Costs Deductible

Motorists may deduct most business expenses and some personal expenses incurred in driving their cars when filing their 1954 Federal income tax returns, the Automobile Club of New York advised yesterday (Tuesday, March 8, 1955).

Among the deductible items for all car owners are: state gasoline tax; license and registration fees; the $5 or $10 auto use tax in New York city and other municipal taxes on autos; interest on money borrowed on the security of an automobile; losses from fire, accident, storm or theft not otherwise compensated for by insurance or otherwise, and damages to an automobile which does not result from the willful act of negligence of the taxpayer.

IF THE CAR IS USED partly or entirely for business, other deductions are possible, the auto club pointed out. These include depreciation, costs of gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, insurance and AAA membership, losses sustained on the sale of an automobile, and many other necessary costs of upkeep and operation.

When cars are used for both business and pleasure, a proportionate part of the operating expense—based on business use only may be deducted. Driving to and from work is not considered a "business use."

MOTORISTS WHO DO NOT keep records of the amount of gasoline they bought last year may estimate the state gasoline tax by dividing the average number of miles the car travels per gallon into its total mileage for the year and multiplying the resulting figure by 4 cents—the per gallon amount of the state gas tax.

Federal gasoline and automotive excise taxes are not deductible.

The AAA has prepared a special booklet dealing with automotive income tax deductions which is now available from the Automobile Club of New York, AAA Building, Madison avenue at 78th street, New York 21, N. Y.

The United States had 1,066,000 classroom teachers in elementary and high schools in the fall of 1954.

Your Federal Reserve—1

(This is the first of two stories showing how the Federal Reserve System, by controlling money and credit, affects the daily lives of the nation's citizens.)

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The other day, John Smith, proprietor of a thriving little hardware store in Centerville, U.S.A., went to see his banker, as he does each year about this time.

Smith wanted to arrange his annual $20,000 inventory loan. Like most businessmen, he borrows to stock up his shelves, and repays the loan out of his sales. Hundreds of thousands of other businessmen make the same call on their banks, once a year or more.

Smith runs a neat little store, well located and profitable. He always gets his loan. He got it this year, too, but there was a surprise. He had to pay a quarter of a per cent higher interest than last year.

"YOU KNOW, John, the Reserve Board has been tightening things up," his banker told him, "money's scarcer than it was." Smith wanted the loan for six months, so the added interest cost him $25. Smith has trimmed most of his prices this year, but that added $25 cost of doing business kept the price of many things in his shop a penny or so higher than might have been.

Whether you borrow money or merely buy from a merchant who does, you are affected by the policies of the Federal Reserve system.

As the nation's central bank, it can control the amount of money and credit, can make it harder or easier for you to buy things, and to some extent can determine how far your pay check will stretch.

TAKE ANOTHER example:

Joe Jones went to see his broker. Jones had his eye on a certain blue-ribbon industrial stock. He had so much faith in this stock that he wanted to buy as much of it as he possibly could.

If he paid cash for it, he would only be able to buy three shares. But by buying on margin (like making a down payment on a refrigerator, the rest to be paid later), he could get title to five shares.

"A month ago, before 'the Fed' raised the margin requirement from 50 to 60 per cent, you could have bought six shares on margin for the same money," Jones' broker told him.

Or maybe you are a housewife like Mrs. James Johnson, who had wanted a new living room suite. Mrs. Johnson favored saving up the money, so they could pay cash and save interest and handling charges. Mr. Johnson wanted to buy the furniture when they had about half the cost saved up, over a year ago.

"THE WAY PRICES keep going up, we can buy now, pay the charge account costs, and come out ahead," he argued at the time. But his wife prevailed.

When the post-Christmas sales came around this year, the Johnsons bought the suite they wanted, for cash. Johnson thought he might just prove a litle point, so he looked up last year's sale price for the same goods. Virtually no change.

Mrs. Johnson didn't know it, but 'the Fed' had been working for her all year long, playing a big part in keeping most prices just about unchanged.

Congress established the Federal Reserve System in 1913. The system has one simply stated, basic reason for existence—to regulate the supply of money and currency.

IN A LITTLE BOOK describing itself last year, the Reserve System said its basic purposes are:

". . . To help counteract inflationary (boom) and deflationary (bust) movements and to share in creating conditions favorable to sustained high employment, stable values, growth of the economy, and a rising level of consumption."

The system has its headquarters in Washington, where its seven man board of governors sits. The President of the United States appoints its governors to 14-year terms, with the consent of the Senate, and names one governor to be chairman. The present chairman is William McChesney Martin Jr., son of the man who was the first president of the St. Louis Reserve Bank, at the inception of the Reserve System. The elder Martin died last week.

THERE ARE 12 Reserve banks, in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Va., Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Mo., Dallas and San Francisco.

These banks have 24 branches, and some 7,000 members. The members are commercial banks—the kind where you have your checking account. Only about half the nation's commercial banks are Federal Reserve System members but they make up the half that holds 85 per cent of the nation's checking accounts. All National banks—chartered by Congress—must be members. State-chartered banks may belong if they wish.

The Reserve System put elasticity into the picture, providing through the 12 Reserve Banks a mechanism for quick increases iin the currency supply.

BUT CURRENCY — actual money—is only a small part of the economic bloodstream. The big part is credit.

The bank actually lends more money than it has, but how much more is determined by the Reserve Board. It may do this by simply increasing the balance of your checking account. The board does this by determining the ratio between deposits and reserves.

If the board fixes the reserve ratio at 20 per cent, the bank may lend five times as much as the reserve it deposits with a federal reserve bank.

But the board may find that there is too much credit, and that as a result prices are rising too fast. It can change the ratio to 25 per cent — meaning the banks may lend only four times the amount of reserves. The bank then must put up more reserve or lend less money, which would make it harder for you to get a loan.

In the same way, the board can make more credit available by cutting the required reserve.

Gift Boxes Make Friends

German Red Cross nurses show a German youngster the contents of an American Junior Red Cross gift box just received. Last year more than 360,000 of these gifts—containing toys, health and educational supplies—went to children around the world from American school children through the Junior Red Cross.

First Aid Squad Will Operate

Harold Ray was elected squad captain, top road officer in the organization, at a business meeting held in the high school last week. He will be responsible for the efficient functioning of the squad in its daily operations, as well as for the training of personnel.

Betty Russell was elected to the post of secretary in the squad. She was also designated to handle squad publicity and pubilc relations.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Auchmoody of Poughkeepsie were dinner guests of William Minard Jr.

Harold Minard has been confined to his home on Crescent avenue by illness.

Members of Allied Communities fire company will sponsor a card and game party at the firehouse on Wednesday night.

Miss Helen Sutton of Wallkill has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Hattie M. Elliott.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will sponsor a clam chowder supper in the church parlor on Friday, March 25. Hours for the sale will be from 2:30 to 5 p. m. Orders may be left with Mrs. Freston Coy or Mrs. Freston Atkins.

Several men of the Methodist Church attended the ham supper given by the Walden Methodist Church on Tuesday night.

Family Booms

Georgetown, Tex.—Mrs. Orville Maynard was expecting her seventh child. About 10 a. m., things began to happen. The seventh child was born. At 1 p. m., the eighth was born. Her doctor decided she should be taken from nearby Cedar Creek to Georgetown for "further treatment." The treatment consisted of delivery of a ninth child. All are girls.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, district manager Social Security Administration, submits the following article on the new Social Security Act:

People who continue to work after becoming eligible for old-age and survivors insurance payments will find two provisions of the 1954 amendments to the social security law of vital importance to them. Both of the new provisions are effective for 1955 and later years.

THE FIRST OF THESE new provisions exempts beneficiaries who have attained the age of 72 from the "retirement test" in the law. Under the old law, a beneficiary had to be 75 to be exempt. This means that persons eligible for payments who are 72 or older need not retire from active employment in order to receive regular monthly social security checks. Social security payments to them are like a straight annuity. For these workers payments will continue for life without interruption. This new provision of the law is important too for persons over 72 who are already receiving payments and who may want to return to work. They may do so without fear that their social security payments will be withheld from them, except that, for the year in which age 72 is attained, benefits for months before a person reaches age 72 and in which he earned wages of over $80 or worked in self-employment, may be withheld if the year's earnings exceed $1200.

THE OTHER NEW provision in the law affects those under 72 years of age. For this group the "retirement test" provision still applies. However, it has been modified so that seasonal or part-time work by beneficiaries will not require withholding of benefit checks as frequently as in the past.

Under the old law a wage earner lost benefits for any month in which his earnings were more than $75, and a self-employed beneficiary lost some benefits if his annual earnings exceeded $900. The new law puts both wage earners and self-employed persons on the same annual basis and increases the amount that can be earned without loss or benefit payments from $900 to $1200. If the total of a person's earnings (including all wages and self-employment income whether covered or not) is $1200 or less in a year, he is entitled to 12 months benefits. One month's benefit will be withheld for each $80 (or part thereof) in excess of $1200, but no benefit will be withheld for any month in which the individual neither earned wages of more than $80 nor rendered substantial services as a self-employed person in his trade or business.

A WAGE EARNER will now be able to take intermittant full-time work or more regular part-time work without loss of benefits, or with loss of only a few months' benefits, depending on his earnings and the number of months worked. For example, a beneficiary may work four months during the year at $300 a month and lose no benefits; under the previous law, he would have lost four months payments. If he works the entire year at $110 a month, he will still receive 10 months payments. In this situation, the earnings in excess of $1200 amount to $120. Using the $80 rule described above, two months suspension of payments is required. If a person's total earnings in the year exceed $2080, he will usually receive no social security payments. However, payments will not be withheld for months in which he neither earns wages of over $80 or works in self-employment. For example, a person who works 8 months and earns $2400 will receive payments for four months.

The Kingston, N. Y. District Office services all of Ulster and Sullivan counties and is located in the Central Post Office Bldg., Broadway. Telephone Kingston 7307.

Aid to Service Folk Reported

Mrs. Gerard W. Betz, home service chairman of the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, said today, "In Ulster county alone, Ulster County Chapter Home Service helped 900 servicemen or their families last year. The world-wide total was 109,000 cases a month at military installations and hospitals and 213,000 a month in the 3,700 hometown chapters."

The types of service varied widely, she said, from response to a simple request for information to months-long searches for birth records of servicemen-fathers.

SERVICES INCLUDE rapid replies to urgent welfare inquiries at both ends. A serviceman is worried by the news that his mother is about to undergo a serious operation or that his wife, expecting a baby, has developed complications.

At the hometown end a mother is concerned because she has not heard from her son who formerly wrote her regularly, and begins imagining that terrible things have happened to him. In the first case, the chapter procures the information and transmits it to the field director overseas. In the latter instance just the reverse occurs.

"RED CROSS HELP is most important on those occasions of real tragedy, where death, critical illness, or other sudden emergency is involved," Mrs. Betz said. "We can verify the home conditions in such instances. It is then up to the military authorities to decide whether the serviceman should be granted an emergency leave, a hardship discharge, or a transfer to a station near his home."

The Red Cross, she said, also extends emergency financial assistance to servicemen and their families. A total of $11,778,600 was disbursed in loans and grants last year by chapters and field directors to members of the armed forces and their families. An additional $799,800 was given out in loans and grants by chapters to war veterans and their surviving dependents.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

General Ike has said, "get Government out of business"; and it is in up to its neck. About 95% show losses every year.

Who's tapped? The taxpayers — the Joe Doaks.

What kind of business is it in? All kinds—ice cream, lenders of money, insurance, crops and cargoes, clothing, rope, rum, electricity, management of hotels, — not forgetting the roasting of coffee — and the roasting of taxpayers.

Mr. Button

Have you had enough?

How did Government get in?

There is not a word in our Constitution which grants that right. The ghost clause in the Constitution, written there by the "Dealer" during his administration, reads: "It shall be the right and duty of the Federal Government to engage in the production of goods and services of every kind, heretofore left to the initiative of its citizens, as an inalienable freedom." That is how Government got in.

General Ike says — "get 'em out!" If we fail, it means the slow decay of our liberty.

Socialism is deodorized Communion — perfumed to drown its stench.

The "Dealer" made it plain that "practically all authority and controls be centralized in our National Government," — N.R.A., A.A.A., E.T.C.

That's what the "Dealer" said, neighbor!

Many Americans Watch Senate's Study of Stocks

New York, March 9 (AP) — Many an American is watching the Senate's "friendly study" of the bull market in stocks today to see if he can pick up any tips on the market.

This is only natural, human nature being what it is.

The Senate Banking Committee's aim is to see if prices rose too fast and are in danger of going too high.

But many a stock buyer or would-be buyer is watching the testimony of the witnesses — men who ought to know about the market — to see if they believe stock prices are about as high now as they're likely to be, or whether bargains are still to be had.

When the presidents of the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange testified that they had been buying stocks and planned to continue to do so as their personal budgets permit, many another stockholder probably felt reassured.

THE PRESIDENTS of the Midwest Stock Exchange of Chicago and the San Francisco Stock Exchange chimed in with their belief that the stock market is still quite healthy. They, however, added the warning that stock prices can go down as well as up — a truism with which all active traders in stocks have been made aware at some time or other.

The general reassurance by the heads of the exchanges that stock prices aren't out of line with the economy was given as a defense of the ways in which the markets are now regulating themselves. It doubtless wasn't intended as a tip on whether you too should buy stocks.

The Senators also doubtless aren't intending to influence the prices of stocks by their "friendly study."

But, human nature being what it is, the public will be watching the direction the senatorial questions take and the implifications, if any, of future congressional action that might affect the course of the market.

AN EXAMPLE can be found in the senatorial request that the Pentagon turn over data on defense contracts. On the stock market the shares of a number of companies having large defense contracts immediately took a tumble. Market observers were quick to link the senatorial curiosity to the stock traders' timidity.

Those stock buyers who have tended to turn nervous since prices have climbed above the 1929 level—with all the dread memories which 1929 holds for the stock market—will watch to see what the reaction will be to Harvard economist Galbraith's testimony that it's still possible for another 1929-style crash to be in the making.

The upcoming testimony of the chairman of the National Assn. of Investment Companies on what effect, if any, the buying and selling by the mutual funds has had on the market, will also be watched closely by the many holders of these shares.

DEFENDERS OF the bull market have been making much of the point that stock prices have simply been catching up belatedly with the general rise in other prices.

War and postwar inflation have built up the dollar totals of prices, wages, assets, earnings—and debts. Stock prices, the presidents of the exchanges seem to be saying, have just been adjusting themselves to this general upward trend of values stated in dollars and to the lower purchasing power of the dollar itself.

Prices will fluctuate as long as the markets are free. Senatorial questioning will just be another factor added to all the others that make stock prices go up—and down.

Chemical Coin Dates

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—Chemistry can date ancient Greek coins even when wear or corrosion make the dates on them illegible say Dr. Earle R. Caley and Wallace H. Deeble of Ohio State University. Dr. Caley has charted systematic changes in lead and tin content of Greek bronze coins. Using his figures, a chemist can date a coin with a possible error of 25 years each way, he says. He began assemblying his data when he operated a chemical laboratory on the site of the Athens Agora during excavations in the late 30's.

Film Festival Juror

Donald P. Ely, director of Audio-Visual Education at the State University Teachers College at New Paltz, has been selected to act as a juror in the education category of the Golden Reel Film Festival, to be held in New York April 4 through April 8. Producers, sponsors, and distributors have submitted their best current productions for competitive showing before carefully selected professional juries. The Golden Reel Award will be presented to that film, in each category of competition, which the judges feel has come the closest to its purpose.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, district manager Social Security Administration, submits the following article on the new Social Security Act:

People who continue to work after becoming eligible for old-age and survivors insurance payments will find two provisions of the 1954 amendments to the social security law of vital importance to them. Both of the new provisions are effective for 1955 and later years.

THE FIRST OF THESE new provisions exempts beneficiaries who have attained the age of 72 from the "retirement test" in the law. Under the old law, a beneficiary had to be 75 to be exempt. This means that persons eligible for payments who are 72 or older need not retire from active employment in order to receive regular monthly social security checks. Social security payments to them are like a straight annuity. For these workers payments will continue for life without interruption. This new provision of the law is important too for persons over 72 who are already receiving payments and who may want to return to work. They may do so without fear that their social security payments will be withheld from them, except that, for the year in which age 72 is attained, benefits for months before a person reaches age 72 and in which he earned wages of over $80 or worked in self-employment, may be withheld if the year's earnings exceed $1200.

THE OTHER NEW provision in the law affects those under 72 years of age. For this group the "retirement test" provision still applies. However, it has been modified so that seasonal or part-time work by beneficiaries will not require withholding of benefit checks as frequently as in the past.

Under the old law a wage earner lost benefits for any month in which his earnings were more than $75, and a self-employed beneficiary lost some benefits if his annual earnings exceeded $900. The new law puts both wage earners and self-employed persons on the same annual basis and increases the amount that can be earned without loss or benefit payments from $900 to $1200. If the total of a person's earnings (including all wages and self-employment income whether covered or not) is $1200 or less in a year, he is entitled to 12 months benefits. One month's benefit will be withheld for each $80 (or part thereof) in excess of $1200, but no benefit will be withheld for any month in which the individual neither earned wages of more than $80 nor rendered substantial services as a self-employed person in his trade or business.

A WAGE EARNER will now be able to take intermittant full-time work or more regular part-time work without loss of benefits, or with loss of only a few months' benefits, depending on his earnings and the number of months worked. For example, a beneficiary may work four months during the year at $300 a month and lose no benefits; under the previous law, he would have lost four months payments. If he works the entire year at $110 a month, he will still receive 10 months payments. In this situation, the earnings in excess of $1200 amount to $120. Using the $80 rule described above, two months suspension of payments is required. If a person's total earnings in the year exceed $2080, he will usually receive no social security payments. However, payments will not be withheld for months in which he neither earns wages of over $80 or works in self-employment. For example, a person who works 8 months and earns $2400 will receive payments for four months.

The Kingston, N. Y. District Office services all of Ulster and Sullivan counties and is located in the Central Post Office Bldg., Broadway. Telephone Kingston 7307.

Aid to Service Folk Reported

Mrs. Gerard W. Betz, home service chairman of the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, said today, "In Ulster county alone, Ulster County Chapter Home Service helped 900 servicemen or their families last year. The world-wide total was 109,000 cases a month at military installations and hospitals and 213,000 a month in the 3,700 hometown chapters."

The types of service varied widely, she said, from response to a simple request for information to months-long searches for birth records of servicemen-fathers.

SERVICES INCLUDE rapid replies to urgent welfare inquiries at both ends. A serviceman is worried by the news that his mother is about to undergo a serious operation or that his wife, expecting a baby, has developed complications.

At the hometown end a mother is concerned because she has not heard from her son who formerly wrote her regularly, and begins imagining that terrible things have happened to him. In the first case, the chapter procures the information and transmits it to the field director overseas. In the latter instance just the reverse occurs.

"RED CROSS HELP is most important on those occasions of real tragedy, where death, critical illness, or other sudden emergency is involved," Mrs. Betz said. "We can verify the home conditions in such instances. It is then up to the military authorities to decide whether the serviceman should be granted an emergency leave, a hardship discharge, or a transfer to a station near his home."

The Red Cross, she said, also extends emergency financial assistance to servicemen and their families. A total of $11,778,600 was disbursed in loans and grants last year by chapters and field directors to members of the armed forces and their families. An additional $799,800 was given out in loans and grants by chapters to war veterans and their surviving dependents.

Seitz Is Leaving As Deputy Clerk For IBM Position

HARRY C. SEITZ

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer announced at last night's Common Council meeting that Harry C. Seitz, deputy city clerk, has accepted a position with the local IBM plant, and will begin his duties there Monday.

THE COUNCIL adopted a resolution, offered by Tenth Ward Alderman James K. Ryan, commending him for his record of service and he was commended by Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly as "a very thorough and capable man" in his work for the city.

Ryan's resolution noted that Seitz had "devoted long and arduous hours on duty as deputy city clerk for the past 10 years," and resolved that the council as a body commend him for "his fine record of service." The alderman requested that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to Thomas J. Watson, Sr., chairman of the IBM board of directors.

SEITZ, who served during the administrations of Mayor William F. Edelmuth, Oscar V. Newkirk and the incumbent, Frederick H. Stang, will do secretarial work for IBM. His successor has not been named.

City Clerk Kramer, noting that Seitz would no longer appear at council sessions as deputy city clerk, turned over the clerkship of the meeting to him. Kramer also commended him for his years of service and noted his office was losing "a very fine gentleman."

Civil Service Commission was received and filed.

REPORTS WERE made by the committee on errors in assessments and refunded taxes.

A contract was entered into with Otis Elevator Company for maintenance and service to the elevator at the County Infirmary.

A communication was received from the Association for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals asking that the association be given an opportunity to meet with the board or representatives of the board to discuss matters. Chairman Relyea appointed Supervisors Bush, Bertrand and Borcherding as a committee to meet with the association and hear their suggestions.

CLERK SNYDER announced that the new machine tabulating department was in operation and supervisors were invited to make an inspection. This is a new department equipped with IBM machines which will do county work, including tax bills, payrolls and other work of all county departments.

The board adjourned subject to call of the chair.

Brown said the racketeering indictment was the result of an investigation by the FBI, the grand jury and the office of U. S. Attorney J. Edward Lumbard.

If convicted the defendants could receive maximum prison sentences of 20 years each and be fined $10,000 each, Brown said.

Escaping Chlorine Causes Fire Call

Escaping chlorine from containers stored in a small building on the IBM plant property at 5 o'clock this morning called members of the Ulster Hose Company No. 5, to the grounds where use of gas masks was necessary.

A call was sent to the Kingston fire department and under Mutual Aid, Ulster Hose was dispatched by Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford.

John F. Peer, of Kingston, a guard at the plant observed vapor coming from a small building where chlorine tanks for water chlorination were stored. Apparently a defect in one of the tanks permitted the liquid to escape and form a gas. Peer inhaled some of the fumes when he opened the door and was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment and observation. Chlorine in liquid form for use in the event it becomes necessary to chlorinate drinking water, was stored in a building near the disposal area.

Gavin A. Cullen, general manager of the plant stated chlorine is not used in any manner in the manufacturing plant, but was temporarily stored in the small building for emergency use in the water system. Chlorine when inhaled is irritating to the respiratory system. Peer was expected to be released from the hospital later today.

The program of activities include such important activities as promotion of adequate planning and zoning both within the city of Kingston and on an area basis. Problems which will receive continued attention are adequate area arteries of travel, parking and traffic, school facilities, water supply, recreation facilities and equitable real estate assessments for tax purposes.

The program also includes promotion of established industries, as well as business and commercial promotion. An active interest in the legislative affairs is also included. The public information office or headquarters will be continued in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

THE ACTION favoring a specific name for the new Hudson river bridge was based partly on the fact that tourists and all others could locate the bridge more easily and specifically if the names of the nearest centers of population are used as found on all maps. It was the concensus of opinion that the name Kingston-Rhinebeck would actually increase the use of the bridge, give the area much greater publicity and encourage area development.

The off-street parking resolution said, "We believe that adequate parking is a public problem. The maintenance or expansion of all property values for tax purposes affects every taxpayer. Modern highways and streets must be coupled with adequate and convenient accessible parking if present property values are to be maintained or expanded. In cities where adequate parking and steady traffic flow are not provided, development and expansion are encouraged elsewhere." The resolution also favored the development of the parking program to consist of projects planned on a self liquidation basis. It was also agreed that after a careful study is made projects should be developed first in the areas where the parking problem is found to be most acute.

The executive committee will prepare a proposed chamber budget for 1955-56 for consideration at the regular board meeting on April 12.

Dies Imitating TV

Tempe, Ariz., March 9 (AP)—Linda F. Stanley, blonde and blue-eyed 5-year-old, is dead of strangulation apparently as the result of an attempt to imitate lynchings she had seen on cowboy television shows. The child was found lying in her grandmother's front yard, her neck clinched in an electric cord attached to a large milk can. Sheriff's Capt. Bob Heck said Linda probably wrapped the cord around her neck, climbed onto the can and jumped or fell off. The fall apparently tightened the cord. An aunt, Mrs. Viola Biddlecome, said Linda "was trying to do like the cowboys on television. All the kids do."

Security Laws Asked

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The Defense Department's general counsel said today potential spies and saboteurs are employed in industries "of basic importance to the support of any mobilization effort." Wilber M. Brucker, testifying before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee, said this is because of "a serious gap" in the laws to protect internal security. He urged Congress to plug it.

32 Persons Killed

Seoul, March 9 (AP)—Thirty-eight persons were killed and 17 injured today when a crowded bus plunged off a bridge 17 miles south of Seoul, police reported. Police blamed careless driving. It was the third major vehicle accident in South Korea in a week. The dead total 101; wounded 67. A train fire took 42 lives in Pusan a week ago and 21 persons were killed in a bus fire yesterday at Hongchow east of Seoul.

Birth and Death

Fayetteville, Ark. (AP)—An assisting physician successfully completed a Cesearian section after Dr. Richard W. Miller, 48, the attending surgeon, died of a heart attack in the operating room. Mother and child are "doing fine."

Committee Votes Carrier

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The House Armed Services committee today voted 34-0 for a fifth super-carrier and a billion-dollar navy shipbuilding program for the year ending in mid-1956.

The vote climaxed two days of hearings during which top navy officials called the giant flattops "indispensable" to a modern fleet. Some congressmen have called them too vulnerable to atomic attack.

Chairman Vinson said he will send the $1,317,000,000 measure to Congress as soon as possible.

It calls for construction of the new 60,000 ton supercarrier, at an estimated cost of 200 million dollars, and 33 other vessels, including three atom-powered submarines.

A MATCH FOR ANYONE— It took Guenter Schikora, a Wedel, Germany, dockworker, 9,723 matches and three months to build this three-foot model of a 12,000-ton tanker.

Port Ewen

Port Ewen, March 9—Mrs. Tracy Jordan is a patient at General Hospital in Albany.

The meeting of the Hope Social Club scheduled for Saturday has been postponed until April. The date will be announced.

The Port Ewen Fire Company will hold a special meeting today at 7:30 p. m. at the firehouse. All members are requested to attend. Uniforms and Ulster county fire conditions will be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Donnell and family have moved into their new home on Schryver street.

Mrs. A. H. Short of Port Ewen and Mrs. Edward Scully of Kingston called on Mrs. Alanson W. Short at her home in Newburgh Tuesday.

The Anderson 4-H Homemaking Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, leader, immediately after school on Friday.

Seitz Is Leaving As Deputy Clerk For IBM Position

HARRY C. SEITZ

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer announced at last night's Common Council meeting that Harry C. Seitz, deputy city clerk, has accepted a position with the local IBM plant, and will begin his duties there Monday.

THE COUNCIL adopted a resolution, offered by Tenth Ward Alderman James K. Ryan, commending him for his record of service and he was commended by Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly as "a very thorough and capable man" in his work for the city.

Ryan's resolution noted that Seitz had "devoted long and arduous hours on duty as deputy city clerk for the past 10 years," and resolved that the council as a body commend him for "his fine record of service." The alderman requested that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to Thomas J. Watson, Sr., chairman of the IBM board of directors.

SEITZ, who served during the administrations of Mayor William F. Edelmuth, Oscar V. Newkirk and the incumbent, Frederick H. Stang, will do secretarial work for IBM. His successor has not been named.

City Clerk Kramer, noting that Seitz would no longer appear at council sessions as deputy city clerk, turned over the clerkship of the meeting to him. Kramer also commended him for his years of service and noted his office was losing "a very fine gentleman."

Civil Service Commission was received and filed.

REPORTS WERE made by the committee on errors in assessments and refunded taxes.

A contract was entered into with Otis Elevator Company for maintenance and service to the elevator at the County Infirmary.

A communication was received from the Association for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals asking that the association be given an opportunity to meet with the board or representatives of the board to discuss matters. Chairman Relyea appointed Supervisors Bush, Bertrand and Borcherding as a committee to meet with the association and hear their suggestions.

CLERK SNYDER announced that the new machine tabulating department was in operation and supervisors were invited to make an inspection. This is a new department equipped with IBM machines which will do county work, including tax bills, payrolls and other work of all county departments.

The board adjourned subject to call of the chair.

Brown said the racketeering indictment was the result of an investigation by the FBI, the grand jury and the office of U. S. Attorney J. Edward Lumbard.

If convicted the defendants could receive maximum prison sentences of 20 years each and be fined $10,000 each, Brown said.

Escaping Chlorine Causes Fire Call

Escaping chlorine from containers stored in a small building on the IBM plant property at 5 o'clock this morning called members of the Ulster Hose Company No. 5, to the grounds where use of gas masks was necessary.

A call was sent to the Kingston fire department and under Mutual Aid, Ulster Hose was dispatched by Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford.

John F. Peer, of Kingston, a guard at the plant observed vapor coming from a small building where chlorine tanks for water chlorination were stored. Apparently a defect in one of the tanks permitted the liquid to escape and form a gas. Peer inhaled some of the fumes when he opened the door and was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment and observation. Chlorine in liquid form for use in the event it becomes necessary to chlorinate drinking water, was stored in a building near the disposal area.

Gavin A. Cullen, general manager of the plant stated chlorine is not used in any manner in the manufacturing plant, but was temporarily stored in the small building for emergency use in the water system. Chlorine when inhaled is irritating to the respiratory system. Peer was expected to be released from the hospital later today.

The program of activities include such important activities as promotion of adequate planning and zoning both within the city of Kingston and on an area basis. Problems which will receive continued attention are adequate area arteries of travel, parking and traffic, school facilities, water supply, recreation facilities and equitable real estate assessments for tax purposes.

The program also includes promotion of established industries, as well as business and commercial promotion. An active interest in the legislative affairs is also included. The public information office or headquarters will be continued in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

THE ACTION favoring a specific name for the new Hudson river bridge was based partly on the fact that tourists and all others could locate the bridge more easily and specifically if the names of the nearest centers of population are used as found on all maps. It was the concensus of opinion that the name Kingston-Rhinebeck would actually increase the use of the bridge, give the area much greater publicity and encourage area development.

The off-street parking resolution said, "We believe that adequate parking is a public problem. The maintenance or expansion of all property values for tax purposes affects every taxpayer. Modern highways and streets must be coupled with adequate and convenient accessible parking if present property values are to be maintained or expanded. In cities where adequate parking and steady traffic flow are not provided, development and expansion are encouraged elsewhere." The resolution also favored the development of the parking program to consist of projects planned on a self liquidation basis. It was also agreed that after a careful study is made projects should be developed first in the areas where the parking problem is found to be most acute.

The executive committee will prepare a proposed chamber budget for 1955-56 for consideration at the regular board meeting on April 12.

Dies Imitating TV

Tempe, Ariz., March 9 (AP)—Linda F. Stanley, blonde and blue-eyed 5-year-old, is dead of strangulation apparently as the result of an attempt to imitate lynchings she had seen on cowboy television shows. The child was found lying in her grandmother's front yard, her neck clinched in an electric cord attached to a large milk can. Sheriff's Capt. Bob Heck said Linda probably wrapped the cord around her neck, climbed onto the can and jumped or fell off. The fall apparently tightened the cord. An aunt, Mrs. Viola Biddlecome, said Linda "was trying to do like the cowboys on television. All the kids do."

Security Laws Asked

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The Defense Department's general counsel said today potential spies and saboteurs are employed in industries "of basic importance to the support of any mobilization effort." Wilber M. Brucker, testifying before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee, said this is because of "a serious gap" in the laws to protect internal security. He urged Congress to plug it.

32 Persons Killed

Seoul, March 9 (AP)—Thirty-eight persons were killed and 17 injured today when a crowded bus plunged off a bridge 17 miles south of Seoul, police reported. Police blamed careless driving. It was the third major vehicle accident in South Korea in a week. The dead total 101; wounded 67. A train fire took 42 lives in Pusan a week ago and 21 persons were killed in a bus fire yesterday at Hongchow east of Seoul.

Birth and Death

Fayetteville, Ark. (AP)—An assisting physician successfully completed a Cesarian section after Dr. Richard W. Miller, 48, the attending surgeon, died of a heart attack in the operating room. Mother and child are "doing fine."

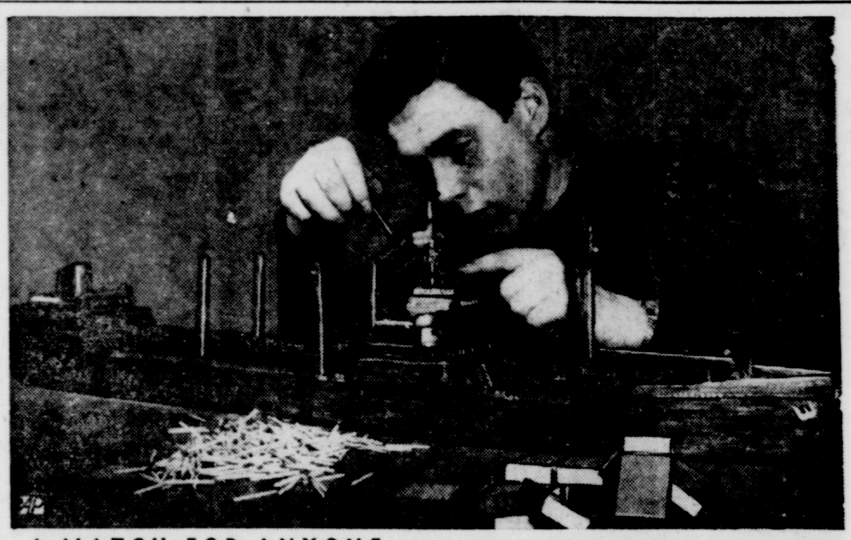

Committee Votes Carrier

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The House Armed Services committee today voted 34-0 for a fifth super-carrier and a billion-dollar navy shipbuilding program for the year ending in mid-1956.

The vote climaxed two days of hearings during which top navy officials called the giant flattops "indispensable" to a modern fleet. Some congressmen have called them too vulnerable to atomic attack.

Chairman Vinson said he will send the $1,317,000,000 measure to Congress as soon as possible.

It calls for construction of the new 60,000 ton supercarrier, at an estimated cost of 200 million dollars, and 33 other vessels, including three atom-powered submarines.

A MATCH FOR ANYONE— It took Guenter Schikora, a Wedel, Germany, dockworker, 9,723 matches and three months to build this three-foot model of a 12,000-ton tanker.

Port Ewen

Port Ewen, March 9—Mrs. Tracy Jordan is a patient at General Hospital in Albany.

The meeting of the Hope Social Club scheduled for Saturday has been postponed until April. The date will be announced.

The Port Ewen Fire Company will hold a special meeting today at 7:30 p. m. at the firehouse. All members are requested to attend. Uniforms and Ulster county fire conditions will be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Donnell and family have moved into their new home on Schryver street.

Mrs. A. H. Short of Port Ewen and Mrs. Edward Scully of Kingston called on Mrs. Alanson W. Short at her home in Newburgh Tuesday.

The Anderson 4-H Homemaking Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, leader, immediately after school on Friday.

AN EMBARRASSING QUESTION

A bride-to-be writes me as follows: "When people ask me point blank what I would like for a wedding present, is it proper to give them a direct answer by telling them what I really need or should I answer casually by saying, 'we could use almost anything?' My fiance thinks it is correct to tell people what I want and says that they wouldn't ask me if they didn't want to know. I find it embarrassing to mention a specific item as I do not know what people can afford to spend and if I do say something definite they might feel obliged to give it to me. We would both appreciate having your opinion on this matter."

With no idea of what they want to spend, I think your own suggested answer, "we could use almost anything," is perfect, or you might perhaps name several items varying in price from the inexpensive on up to the expensive.

Letters of Introduction

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter's husband has just been transferred to the West Coast and she is going out there to live. Some of our friends and acquaintances have given her letters to their friends on the Coast. Exactly what does she do with these letters?

Answer: She mails the letters when she arrives on the Coast and the people who receive them are expected to go to see her and show her some hospitality, or at least what courtesies they can.

Singing at Her Own Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and I would like to know if it would be proper for me to entertain at my own wedding reception. I've been studying voice for a number of years and I thought it would be nice to sing "I Love You Truly" to my husband and then sing a second song which I would dedicate to my parents. Will you please give me your opinion of this?

Answer: This would be most unusual, and as weddings should be conventional, I strongly advise against your singing.

Where do the bride and groom stand in the receiving line? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Questions on wedding procedure, the receiving line and other details are answered in leaflet E-2. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

AN EMBARRASSING QUESTION

A bride-to-be writes me as follows: "When people ask me point blank what I would like for a wedding present, is it proper to give them a direct answer by telling them what I really need or should I answer casually by saying, 'we could use almost anything?' My fiance thinks it is correct to tell people what I want and says that they wouldn't ask me if they didn't want to know. I find it embarrassing to mention a specific item as I do not know what people can afford to spend and if I do say something definite they might feel obliged to give it to me. We would both appreciate having your opinion on this matter."

With no idea of what they want to spend, I think your own suggested answer, "we could use almost anything," is perfect, or you might perhaps name several items varying in price from the inexpensive on up to the expensive.

Letters of Introduction

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter's husband has just been transferred to the West Coast and she is going out there to live. Some of our friends and acquaintances have given her letters to their friends on the Coast. Exactly what does she do with these letters?

Answer: She mails the letters when she arrives on the Coast and the people who receive them are expected to go to see her and show her some hospitality, or at least what courtesies they can.

Singing at Her Own Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and I would like to know if it would be proper for me to entertain at my own wedding reception. I've been studying voice for a number of years and I thought it would be nice to sing "I Love You Truly" to my husband and then sing a second song which I would dedicate to my parents. Will you please give me your opinion of this?

Answer: This would be most unusual, and as weddings should be conventional, I strongly advise against your singing.

Text of Statement

county garage on Gage street is bulging at the seams. The department has equipment, materials and supplies stored in many places. It costs considerable for watchmen to protect this county property at these scattered locations. The personnel, equipment and material of the department should be centralized in a modern plant. The Gage street property can be sold at a good price and put back on the city tax rolls. The expected increased responsibilities which our future growth will impose on the highway department require that its plant be modernized, centralized and enlarged.

Of course, there are other problems facing this county besides the improvement of its physical plant and structure. As the majority leader of the Board of Supervisors, I can assure you that the Republican county leader, the Republican members of this board and our other county officials are aware of their responsibility to meet this challenge of present day conditions. We are anxious and ready to plan and act to insure that our county government will be able to satisfactorily and economically furnish the service required by our people in the important years ahead.

TO CARRY OUT that purpose, we must give a careful and searching look at our governmental structure and organization, to find if it is geared to modern needs and whether it is prepared to meet the new and increased demands we expect the future to place upon it.

As you all know, Ulster county is one of the 10 original shires or "countys" of the Empire State. So far as American history is concerned, we have in this county, created in 1683, an ancient civilization. And while new functions and new departments have been added throughout the years, the form of our county government has not materially changed since our early days. The American system of government usually comprises three branches — the executive, the legislative and the judicial. In the city of Kingston we have those three branches, but not in the county. In the county we have no executive branch. We have no county mayor or county manager of any kind. We have only two branches of government — the legislative, composed of the board of supervisors, but in actual practice the county government has no central administrative control or direction. For that reason, our county government lacks coordination. It is an organization without an operating head.

SEVERAL OF the larger counties of the state have, by public referendum, adopted an optional form of county government, which is permitted by state law, under which they have provided for the election of a county executive or the appointment of a county manager, who acts in the same capacity in the county government as a mayor does in a city. In each of the counties which have adopted this optional form, the quality of government has greatly improved.

One of the improvements which could be expected to result from such a form of government would be the adoption of a uniform method of assessing real estate. Under an optional form of county government, it would be possible to provide for a county board of assessors, whose duty it would be to make all assessments in the county, excepting perhaps the city of Kingston. This would insure a uniform system of assessing and would eliminate the crazy-quilt system of assessment now in use in this county and many other counties in the state. The recently promulgated state equalization table points up the wide variety of assessing systems being employed in the various towns of the county, with the highest equalization rate fixed at 42 per cent and the lowest at 11 per cent of actual value.

A UNIFORM SYSTEM of assessment would be insured by a county board, and taxpayers throughout the county would pay only their just and fair share of operating the county government. This troublesome problem of assessment and equalization would be eliminated. It has plagued the county and the towns and the city of Kingston for many years.

Under an optional form of government, a county planning board could be organized to furnish over-all planning for the future growth of our county. The advice and assistance of such a board could be made available to the towns of the county in planning for water, sewer, fire and lighting districts; in providing off-street parking recreational facilities; in laying out streets and housing developments; in preparing zoning ordinances or formulating movements by deed restrictions to prevent the depreciation of real estate values in residential areas by improper installations, such as bars and grills, trailer camps, junkyards, etc. A planning board could also be a stimulating influence to awaken all citizens to the needs of our educational system, so that our school districts will be equipped to give our children the kind of education to which they are entitled and which we in the Republican party want them to have.

I SUGGEST that a qualified person be invited to address a meeting sponsored by the board of supervisors on the advantages or disadvantages of an optional form of government for Ulster county, for the purpose of stimulating thought, discussion and debate not only among the members of this board but among the public.

Gentlemen, I hope that these are some thought-provoking proposals. They are so intended. Since this county is on the threshold of a new era of expansion and development, we must plan and prepare for it. To do otherwise would be to fail the people whose servants we are and who have elected us to act in their behalf.

I have discussed these suggestions with the leaders of the Republican party and with citizens generally, and they are in complete accord with the need for bringing these matters to your attention for your consideration.

If the future should bring the adoption of any or all of them, we cordially invite the cooperation of our friends in the minority party in their accomplishment. All men of good will should work together for the best interest of the county we all love and for the future happiness, prosperity and well-being of our people.

Leader Says . . .

Mahoney cited Shapiro's investigation of the State Liquor Authority and said it had "the whole personnel of the SLA quaking . . . because of one man's ambition."

Shapiro mailed out 29-page questionnaires—to be returned by April 1—to SLA commissioners, deputy commissioners, investigators and employes of the counsel's office.

The probe has been under attack from Republican leaders and officers of the Civil Service Employes Assn., who accuse Shapiro of conducting a "political inquisition."

The association contends that a question about political contributions violates a section of the civil service law that forbids questions, direct or indirect, as to political affiliations.

Shapiro is to meet tomorrow with representatives of the association to discuss the questionnaire. Of the probe, Shapiro has said "an honest man has nothing to fear. . . ."

SLA Chairman John F. O'Connell and Arthur F. Robertson, another GOP member, resigned last week after receiving the questionnaires.

Shapiro, in Albany yesterday, was asked whether he thought the resignations stemmed from the investigation. He replied: "The facts speak for themselves."

Santangelo declared that the Thruway cost had soared from about 200 million to a final cost of "nearly one billion." Costs have gone up since the Thruway was conceived, Santangelo said, "but not that much."

Santangelo said the Democrats wanted to know what made the Thruway costs go up and whether there was any "graft" in the SLA. They also wanted to look into public works department procedures, he added.

Shapiro said the information Santangelo disclosed did not come from the investigation office. He had no further comment yesterday. The statute creating his office forbids him to talk about the investigations.

McHugh Proposes

cally; he felt that problem could be remedied.

Gaffney suggested we move slowly before we grant to the federal, state or county governments any more of our rights. He said he did not believe in state aid and concluded by saying: "It comes from here, went there and then some gets back," referring to state aid moneys.

McHUGH REPLIED that he had no intention of suggesting only the Republican party was responsible for the good things.

"Some time ago the Democratic party was the majority party in the board, now it is the Republicans, but in any event it is the party in control which receives the benefit of good things and the criticism of that which is bad," he explained.

The report was simply "thrown out to give you something to think about," McHugh said.

Supervisor Burton Marshall of Rochester said he had recently attended a conference where former Comptroller Moore had suggested keeping assessments localized within the towns and had stated that where the assessment problem had been taken over by the county or state there had been "poor results." Marshall said if the town does not "get on the ball" the state will take over assessments and he advised retention of that matter locally. This idea of keeping assessments within the town power, had been Moore's suggestion.

Annoyed Husband!

Houston, Tex. (AP)—A woman who said she had just been whipped by her husband called police and asked they pick him up in a hurry. "I left after he whipped me," she explained. "I want you to arrest him quick and hold him until I can go back and get my clothes. After I get them turn him loose or he'll be mad at me."

Psychologist Talks On Problems Facing Parents of Afflicted

Addressing a meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Mothers Club, Monday, Henry Lampl, consultant psychologist at the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Center, dealt with adjustments that become necessary to average parents when they are faced with the problem of providing a healthy home atmosphere for a handicapped child.

Besides the group of parents at the meeting, board and staff members of the CP Center heard the talk.

Mr. Lampl said that although most people learn to adjust to problems and disappointments as they arise, few are mentally prepared to cope with the added responsibility and anxiety which are ever present for parents of handicapped children.

Mr. Lampl offered his help and advice to these families, when needed, whether the question is directly concerned with the disabled member or merely related by association. An interesting question and answer period followed his talk.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee consisting of Mrs. Sylvester Smith, Mrs. Kenneth Latham, Mrs. Charles Edwards, Mrs. Franklin Estes.

Tramway Tunnel Burns Today at Cementon Plant

Fire this morning at 7:35 o'clock damaged a tramway tunnel at the Alpha Cement plant, Cementon, used as a weather protection for conveyors running between the quarry and mill.

Oscar Schlenker, trustee of the Malden-West Camp Fire Co., which fought the blaze, was of the opinion that a tarpaper covering, fastened to wooden supports, caught fire from a salamander burner used to heat the tunnel.

SCHLENKER said it appeared as though some of the covering fell from position onto the burner, kindling a blaze that spread to the rest of the paper and wooden uprights.

The cement plant fire was just across the line of the Malden-West Camp fire district, Schlenker advised, and permission was sought from several trustees before the company moved in to fight the blaze.

SIX OR EIGHT firemen on the truck, assisted by workmen at the plant, labored a half hour on quenching the fire, it was reported.

Taylor Unaware What Happened, He Tells Officials

Robert John Taylor, 19, of Hoboken, N. J., who was found along Route 9W in Port Ewen early on the morning of February 28, has no recollection of what happened to him, the Ulster county sheriff's office reported today.

Taylor, who was unconscious when found about 2 a. m. lying on the side of the highway just south of the Tropical Inn, received severe head injuries, it was reported.

He was reported in good condition today at Kingston Hospital and "still improving."

He was found by Charles "Chappie" Perry who operates a taxi service in Port Ewen. Perry notified the sheriff's office.

County Investigator Arthur Brown said Taylor had spent some time in a tavern in Port Ewen and had left alone to walk toward Kingston about a half hour before he was found.

Javits Will . . .

publican-controlled Legislature to strengthen the state youth commission and make it a permanent agency of government.

He has called also for a governor's conference to formulate programs for dealing with juvenile delinquency.

Javits "crash program" proposes marshalling all the state's resources through a conference similar to Harriman's. He also has announced his intention to set up a network of summer institutes to instruct law enforcement officers in new techniques for handling young lawbreakers.

In inviting Javits to discuss his plans, Harriman said it would be "unfortunate" if one state department or agency "should attempt to overlap or compete with the activities of the youth commission."

Javits replied that the "crash program"—not "reliance alone" on the commission—was the way to meet the problem.

"This is no discredit, necessarily, to the commission," Javits said, "but it does call for a major, and not the same, attack on the problem."

Meanwhile, Harriman declared he would push forward with plans for the governor's conference, regardless of whether the Legislature granted his request for a commission to organize it.

In a letter to Kenneth A. Roardarmel, general secretary of the New York State Council of Churches, the governor said he expected that the conference would be convened in early fall.

And while new functions and new departments have been added throughout the years, the form of our county government has not materially changed since our early days. The American system of government usually comprises three branches — the executive, the legislative and the judicial. In the city of Kingston we have those three branches, but not in the county. In the county we have no executive branch. We have no county mayor or county manager of any kind. We have only two branches of government — the legislative, composed of the board of supervisors, but in actual practice the county government has no central administrative control or direction. For that reason, our county government lacks coordination. It is an organization without an operating head.

SEVERAL OF the larger counties of the state have, by public referendum, adopted an optional form of county government, which is permitted by state law, under which they have provided for the election of a county executive or the appointment of a county manager, who acts in the same capacity in the county government as a mayor does in a city. In each of the counties which have adopted this optional form, the quality of government has greatly improved.

One of the improvements which could be expected to result from such a form of government would be the adoption of a uniform method of assessing real estate. Under an optional form of county government, it would be possible to provide for a county board of assessors, whose duty it would be to make all assessments in the county, excepting perhaps the city of Kingston. This would insure a uniform system of assessing and would eliminate the crazy-quilt system of assessment now in use in this county and many other counties in the state. The recently promulgated state equalization table points up the wide variety of assessing systems being employed in the various towns of the county, with the highest equalization rate fixed at 42 per cent and the lowest at 11 per cent of actual value.

A UNIFORM SYSTEM of assessment would be insured by a county board, and taxpayers throughout the county would pay only their just and fair share of operating the county government. This troublesome problem of assessment and equalization would be eliminated. It has plagued the county and the towns and the city of Kingston for many years.

Under an optional form of government, a county planning board could be organized to furnish over-all planning for the future growth of our county. The advice and assistance of such a board could be made available to the towns of the county in planning for water, sewer, fire and lighting districts; in providing off-street parking recreational facilities; in laying out streets and housing developments; in preparing zoning ordinances or formulating movements by deed restrictions to prevent the depreciation of real estate values in residential areas by improper installations, such as bars and grills, trailer camps, junkyards, etc. A planning board could also be a stimulating influence to awaken all citizens to the needs of our educational system, so that our school districts will be equipped to give our children the kind of education to which they are entitled and which we in the Republican party want them to have.

I SUGGEST that a qualified person be invited to address a meeting sponsored by the board of supervisors on the advantages or disadvantages of an optional form of government for Ulster county, for the purpose of stimulating thought, discussion and debate not only among the members of this board but among the public.

Gentlemen, I hope that these are some thought-provoking proposals. They are so intended. Since this county is on the threshold of a new era of expansion and development, we must plan and prepare for it. To do otherwise would be to fail the people whose servants we are and who have elected us to act in their behalf.

I have discussed these suggestions with the leaders of the Republican party and with citizens generally, and they are in complete accord with the need for bringing these matters to your attention for your consideration.

If the future should bring the adoption of any or all of them, we cordially invite the cooperation of our friends in the minority party in their accomplishment. All men of good will should work together for the best interest of the county we all love and for the future happiness, prosperity and well-being of our people.

Leader Says . . .

welcome a probe of the Thruway.

Mahoney cited Shapiro's investigation of the State Liquor Authority and said it had "the whole personnel of the SLA quaking . . . because of one man's ambition."

Shapiro mailed out 29-page questionnaires—to be returned by April 1—to SLA commissioners, deputy commissioners, investigators and employes of the counsel's office.

The probe has been under attack from Republican leaders and officers of the Civil Service Employes Assn., who accuse Shapiro of conducting a "political inquisition."

The association contends that a question about political contributions violates a section of the civil service law that forbids questions, direct or indirect, as to political affiliations.

Shapiro is to meet tomorrow with representatives of the association to discuss the questionnaire. Of the probe, Shapiro has said "an honest man has nothing to fear. . . ."

SLA Chairman John F. O'Connell and Arthur F. Robertson, another GOP member, resigned last week after receiving the questionnaires.

Shapiro, in Albany yesterday, was asked whether he thought the resignations stemmed from the investigation. He replied: "The facts speak for themselves."

Santangelo declared that the Thruway cost had soared from about 200 million to a final cost of "nearly one billion." Costs have gone up since the Thruway was conceived, Santangelo said, "but not that much."

Santangelo said the Democrats wanted to know what made the Thruway costs go up and whether there was any "graft" in the SLA. They also wanted to look into public works department procedures, he added.

Shapiro said the information Santangelo disclosed did not come from the investigation office. He had no further comment yesterday. The statute creating his office forbids him to talk about the investigations.

McHugh Proposes

cally; he felt that problem could be remedied.

Gaffney suggested we move slowly before we grant to the federal, state or county governments any more of our rights. He said he did not believe in state aid and concluded by saying: "It comes from here, went there and then some gets back," referring to state aid moneys.

McHUGH REPLIED that he had no intention of suggesting only the Republican party was responsible for the good things.

"Some time ago the Democratic party was the majority party in the board, now it is the Republicans, but in any event it is the party in control which receives the benefit of good things and the criticism of that which is bad," he explained.

The report was simply "thrown out to give you something to think about," McHugh said.

Supervisor Burton Marshall of Rochester said he had recently attended a conference where former Comptroller Moore had suggested keeping assessments localized within the towns and had stated that where the assessment problem had been taken over by the county or state there had been "poor results." Marshall said if the town does not "get on the ball" the state will take over assessments and he advised retention of that matter locally. This idea of keeping assessments within the town power, had been Moore's suggestion.

Annoyed Husband!

Houston, Tex. (AP)—A woman who said she had just been whipped by her husband called police and asked they pick him up in a hurry. "I left after he whipped me," she explained. "I want you to arrest him quick and hold him until I can go back and get my clothes. After I get them turn him loose or he'll be mad at me."

Psychologist Talks On Problems Facing Parents of Afflicted

Addressing a meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Mothers Club, Monday, Henry Lampl, consultant psychologist at the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Center, dealt with adjustments that become necessary to average parents when they are faced with the problem of providing a healthy home atmosphere for a handicapped child.

Besides the group of parents at the meeting, board and staff members of the CP Center heard the talk.

Mr. Lampl said that although most people learn to adjust to problems and disappointments as they arise, few are mentally prepared to cope with the added responsibility and anxiety which are ever present for parents of handicapped children.

Mr. Lampl offered his help and advice to these families, when needed, whether the question is directly concerned with the disabled member or merely related by association. An interesting question and answer period followed his talk.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee consisting of Mrs. Sylvester Smith, Mrs. Kenneth Latham, Mrs. Charles Edwards, Mrs. Franklin Estes.

Tramway Tunnel Burns Today at Cementon Plant

Fire this morning at 7:35 o'clock damaged a tramway tunnel at the Alpha Cement plant, Cementon, used as a weather protection for conveyors running between the quarry and mill.

Oscar Schlenker, trustee of the Malden-West Camp Fire Co., which fought the blaze, was of the opinion that a tarpaper covering, fastened to wooden supports, caught fire from a salamander burner used to heat the tunnel.

SCHLENKER said it appeared as though some of the covering fell from position onto the burner, kindling a blaze that spread to the rest of the paper and wooden uprights.

The cement plant fire was just across the line of the Malden-West Camp fire district, Schlenker advised, and permission was sought from several trustees before the company moved in to fight the blaze.

SIX OR EIGHT firemen on the truck, assisted by workmen at the plant, labored a half hour on quenching the fire, it was reported.

Taylor Unaware What Happened, He Tells Officials

Robert John Taylor, 19, of Hoboken, N. J., who was found along Route 9W in Port Ewen early on the morning of February 28, has no recollection of what happened to him, the Ulster county sheriff's office reported today.

Taylor, who was unconscious when found about 2 a. m. lying on the side of the highway just south of the Tropical Inn, received severe head injuries, it was reported.

He was reported in good condition today at Kingston Hospital and "still improving."

He was found by Charles "Chappie" Perry who operates a taxi service in Port Ewen. Perry notified the sheriff's office.

County Investigator Arthur Brown said Taylor had spent some time in a tavern in Port Ewen and had left alone to walk toward Kingston about a half hour before he was found.

Javits Will . . .

publican-controlled Legislature to strengthen the state youth commission and make it a permanent agency of government.

He has called also for a governor's conference to formulate programs for dealing with juvenile delinquency.

Javits "crash program" proposes marshalling all the state's resources through a conference similar to Harriman's. He also has announced his intention to set up a network of summer institutes to instruct law enforcement officers in new techniques for handling young lawbreakers.

In inviting Javits to discuss his plans, Harriman said it would be "unfortunate" if one state department or agency "should attempt to overlap or compete with the activities of the youth commission."

Javits replied that the "crash program"—not "reliance alone" on the commission—was the way to meet the problem.

"This is no discredit, necessarily, to the commission," Javits said, "but it does call for a major, and not the same, attack on the problem."

Meanwhile, Harriman declared he would push forward with plans for the governor's conference, regardless of whether the Legislature granted his request for a commission to organize it.

In a letter to Kenneth A. Roardarmel, general secretary of the New York State Council of Churches, the governor said he expected that the conference would be convened in early fall.

The Protestant church group had urged Harriman to call such a conference immediately.

Nott Terrace Gains Finals, Turning Back Middletown, 78-46

HOW THEY MEASURE UP—Here are the Tale-of-the-Tape figures on world bantamweight champion Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand and challenger Raul Macias of Mexico who are scheduled to meet in a 12-round title fight, tonight in the Cow Palace at San Francisco. (AP Wirephoto)

Upstate Cagers Play DUSO Loop Champs Here on Friday Night

Nott Terrace and Newburgh Free Academy will battle it out for the New York state intersectional championship Friday night at the Kate Walton Field House.

While NFA was taking care of Albany High here last night, Nott Terrace of Schenectady had little trouble in disposing of another DUSO League entry, Middletown, with a 78 to 46 victory.

Minus two of their regulars, Steve Tomkin, ace center and Bob Redifer, high-scoring guard, the Middies trailed from the start as the taller Nott Terrace quintet pulled away to a 22-12 lead at the first half and held a 39-21 edge at the halfway mark.

NOTT TERRACE continued to pile it on in the second half, compiling 19 points in the third quarter and a final gusto of 20 markers in the final stanza.

George Nye, center for Middletown, led his club with 12 markers while Joel Smith, center for Nott Terrace, canned 18 points. Bob Brantz collected 13, Tom Mossey 15 and Murray Melton 12.

Lions Are Favored

New Brunswick, N. J., March 9 (AP)—The red-hot Columbia Lions are favored to defeat Princeton tonight in the Rutgers gym in a playoff for the Ivy League basketball title. The winner of the game will meet La-Salle in the second round of the NCAA tournament in Philadelphia Friday night.

Bob Burrow, 6 foot 7 center for the Kentucky Wildcats, played two years of basketball at Lon Morris Junior College in Jacksonville, Tex.

Woman Champion Forced to Share Medalist Honors

St. Augustine, Fla., March 9 (AP)—A long putt that fell, and a short one that didn't forced defending champion Grace DeMoss Smith and Marjorie Lindsay McMillen to share medalist honors in the 27th annual Florida east coast golf tournament.

The short putt was Mrs. Smith's. The Miami housewife-golfer needed to sink a three-footer on the 18th green to win the medal all alone. But the ball rolled around the rim of the cup and hung on the back lip.

Mrs. McMillen, last year's runnerup from Decatur, Ill., finished ahead of Mrs. Smith, sinking a 10-footer on the 18th for a 77—five over par for the 6,485-yard Ponce De Leon Club course.

A stiff cold wind whipping in from over the ocean sent scores soaring particularly on the unprotected front nine. Mrs. McMillen's one over par 36 on the back side was the best nine-hole score of the qualifying round.

Match play was slated today through Saturday. Today's matches included Barbara Romack of Sacramento, national amateur champion, who had an 80 qualifying round and Mrs. John Englund of White Plains, N. Y., who qualified with a 98. A score of 105 was needed to qualify.

The International Tuna Cup Match will be held on Sept. 7, 8, and 9 at Wedgeport, Nova Scotia.

Elston Howard May Be First Negro in Yankee Club Lineup

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 9 (AP)—The most talked-about rookie in the camp of the New York Yankees is Elston Howard, a 6-2 Negro outfielder-catcher-first baseman who probably will be the first of his race to wear a Yankee uniform.

Because no Negro ever made the club that has won 20 pennants and 16 World Series while others have thrived with Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Larry Doby and Willie Mays. There is unusual interest in Howard's battle. His .330 batting average at Toronto, and his 22 homers and 109 runs batted in add special emphasis to his bid.

A year ago the Yanks brought Howard to their pre-camp rookie school, determined to make him over from an outfielder to a catcher.

Howard remained with the Yanks during spring training last year and then was optioned to Toronto to learn more about catching under Manager Luke Sewell, a veteran receiver.

During the winter, Howard went to Puerto Rico, playing under Harry Craft, a former major league outfielder who has managed in the Yankee chain until this year. Howard found himself back in the outfield where he hit .348 in about 35 games.

Howard is a catcher on the Yankee roster. He warms up the pitchers and takes his turn in batting practice but he probably will do his playing in the outfield.

"I don't know where I'll play or if I'll make the club," he said today at Miller Huggins field. "I don't feel any pressure. After all, I played with most of these fellows before at Kansas City. I just feel like playing ball."

Casey Stengel, the Yanks manager, has been a little more vague than usual when talking about Howard. He does admit he'll probably play him in the outfield in some of the exhibitions "to see how he hits."

Bantam Title Fight Slated in Frisco Ring

San Francisco, March 9 (AP)—Raul Macias of Mexico, the No. 1 contender, and Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand, rated No. 2 boy, battle at the Cow Palace tonight for the World Bantamweight Boxing Championship.

The State of California has refused to give world title status to the bout, but the National Boxing Assn. will present a championship belt to the winner. The scheduled 12-round match, cut from the usual 15 by the State Athletic Commission, will be televised nationally (CBS, 10 p. m. EST).

Macias, a 2-1 favorite in this red-hot boxing town, is unbeaten in 11 successive bouts since turning professional.

Eastern Glovers Move Into Garden For Finals Tonight

New York, March 9 (AP)—The Eastern Golden Gloves championships move into Madison Square Garden tonight with 32 young men battling for eight prized crowns in the semifinals and finals of the 18th annual tournament.

Eager amateurs from Florida, New York, Massachusetts and other Atlantic seaboard states will have to win twice in one night to earn their spurs—and a trip to Chicago.

Last night in Sunnyside Garden the cast was reduced to 32 with Roy Bullock of New York scoring the quickest knockout of the evening. Bullock, a heavyweight, decked Tony Smith of Huntington, N. Y., in 53 seconds of the second round.

Nott Terrace Gains Finals, Turning Back Middletown, 78-46

HOW THEY MEASURE UP—Here are the Tale-of-the-Tape figures on world bantamweight champion Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand and challenger Raul Macias of Mexico who are scheduled to meet in a 12-round title fight, tonight in the Cow Palace at San Francisco. (AP Wirephoto)

Upstate Cagers Play DUSO Loop Champs Here on Friday Night

Nott Terrace and Newburgh Free Academy will battle it out for the New York state intersectional championship Friday night at the Kate Walton Field House.

While NFA was taking care of Albany High here last night, Nott Terrace of Schenectady had little trouble in disposing of another DUSO League entry, Middletown, with a 78 to 46 victory.

It was simply a case of being outclassed for the hopeful Middletown charges in the spacious Troy gym.

Minus two of their regulars, Steve Tomkin, ace center and Bob Redifer, high-scoring guard, the Middies trailed from the start as the taller Nott Terrace quintet pulled away to a 22-12 lead at the first half and held a 39-21 edge at the halfway mark.

NOTT TERRACE continued to pile it on in the second half, compiling 19 points in the third quarter and a final gusto of 20 markers in the final stanza.

George Nye, center for Middletown, led his club with 12 markers while Joel Smith, center for Nott Terrace, canned 18 points. Bob Brantz collected 13, Tom Mossey 15 and Murray Melton 12.

Lions Are Favored

New Brunswick, N. J., March 9 (AP)—The red-hot Columbia Lions are favored to defeat Princeton tonight in the Rutgers gym in a playoff for the Ivy League basketball title. The winner of the game will meet LaSalle in the second round of the NCAA tournament in Philadelphia Friday night.

Bob Burrow, 6 foot 7 center for the Kentucky Wildcats, played two years of basketball at Lon Morris Junior College in Jacksonville, Tex.

Woman Champion Forced to Share Medalist Honors

St. Augustine, Fla., March 9 (AP)—A long putt that fell, and a short one that didn't forced defending champion Grace DeMoss Smith and Marjorie Lindsay McMillen to share medalist honors in the 27th annual Florida east coast golf tournament.

The short putt was Mrs. Smith's. The Miami housewife-golfer needed to sink a three-footer on the 18th green to win the medal all alone. But the ball rolled around the rim of the cup and hung on the back lip.

Mrs. McMillen, last year's runnerup from Decatur, Ill., finished ahead of Mrs. Smith, sinking a 10-footer on the 18th for a 77—five over par for the 6,485-yard Ponce De Leon Club course.

A stiff cold wind whipping in from over the ocean sent scores soaring particularly on the unprotected front nine. Mrs. McMillen's one over par 36 on the back side was the best nine-hole score of the qualifying round.

Match play was slated today through Saturday. Today's matches included Barbara Romack of Sacramento, national amateur champion, who had an 80 qualifying round and Mrs. John Englund of White Plains, N. Y., who qualified with a 98. A score of 105 was needed to qualify.

The International Tuna Cup Match will be held on Sept. 7, 8, and 9 at Wedgeport, Nova Scotia.

Elston Howard May Be First Negro in Yankee Club Lineup

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 9 (AP)—The most talked-about rookie in the camp of the New York Yankees is Elston Howard, a 6-2 Negro outfielder-catcher-first baseman who probably will be the first of his race to wear a Yankee uniform.

Because no Negro ever made the club that has won 20 pennants and 16 World Series while others have thrived with Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Larry Doby and Willie Mays. There is unusual interest in Howard's battle. His .330 batting average at Toronto, and his 22 homers and 109 runs batted in add special emphasis to his bid.

A year ago the Yanks brought Howard to their pre-camp rookie school, determined to make him over from an outfielder to a catcher.

Howard remained with the Yanks during spring training last year and then was optioned to Toronto to learn more about catching under Manager Luke Sewell, a veteran receiver.

During the winter, Howard went to Puerto Rico, playing under Harry Craft, a former major league outfielder who has managed in the Yankee chain until this year. Howard found himself back in the outfield where he hit .348 in about 35 games.

Howard is a catcher on the Yankee roster. He warms up the pitchers and takes his turn in batting practice but he probably will do his playing in the outfield.

"I don't know where I'll play or if I'll make the club," he said today at Miller Huggins field. "I don't feel any pressure. After all, I played with most of these fellows before at Kansas City. I just feel like playing ball."

Casey Stengel, the Yanks manager, has been a little more vague than usual when talking about Howard. He does admit he'll probably play him in the outfield in some of the exhibitions "to see how he hits."

Eastern Glovers Move Into Garden For Finals Tonight

New York, March 9 (AP)—The Eastern Golden Gloves championships move into Madison Square Garden tonight with 32 young men battling for eight prized crowns in the semifinals and finals of the 18th annual tournament.

Eager amateurs from Florida, New York, Massachusetts and other Atlantic seaboard states will have to win twice in one night to earn their spurs—and a trip to Chicago.

Last night in Sunnyside Garden the cast was reduced to 32 with Roy Bullock of New York scoring the quickest knockout of the evening. Bullock, a heavyweight, decked Tony Smith of Huntington, N. Y., in 53 seconds of the second round.

Bantam Title Fight Slated in Frisco Ring

San Francisco, March 9 (AP)—Raul Macias of Mexico, the No. 1 contender, and Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand, rated No. 2 boy, battle at the Cow Palace tonight for the World Bantamweight Boxing Championship.

The State of California has refused to give world title status to the bout, but the National Boxing Assn. will present a championship belt to the winner. The scheduled 12-round match, cut from the usual 15 by the State Athletic Commission, will be televised nationally (CBS, 10 p. m. EST).

Macias, a 2-1 favorite in this red-hot boxing town, is unbeaten in 11 successive bouts since turning professional.

Goldbacks Hold Lead From Second Period; Burkoski Tallies 25

Newburgh Free Academy's unbeaten DUSO League champions, led by the irrepressible Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski, added Albany High to their long list of vanquished foes in a thrilling opener of the 1955 New York state intersectionals Tuesday night.

Never headed after taking over the lead in the late stages of the second period, the Goldbacks weathered a final period uprising to win, 58 to 53, for their 19th in a row, before a jammed-pack crowd at the Kate Walton Field House.

Newburgh goes after its 20th straight verdict of the year Friday night in the finals of the intersectionals against Nott Terrace of Schenectady at the Field House.

THE DORPIAN CAGERS moved into the titular clash with Newburgh after disposing of Middletown in Troy last night, 78 to 46.

BURKOSKI, the DUSO League's Player of the Year, left little to be desired with his performance last night against Albany.

"The Marvel," who scored 25 points, 14 in the first half and 11 in the final two periods, tied up the game, 23-all, in the second period and came right back with a tap, giving NFA a 25-23 lead, which was never relinquished from then on in.

Jimmy Smith, sparking forward for the upstaters, paced Albany in the scoring ledger, with 22 markers. Smith pumped in two deuces at the 1:47 mark of the final quarter, slicing Newburgh's lead at that time to 54-53.

It was Burkoski leading the hustling Goldbacks again. Harold Kaplan, another All-Duso choice, played a terrific floor game and amassed 13 points in the bargain. Johnny Schoenberger, the fine Newburgh guard, canned 16 points, eight from the short stripe.

Coach George "Lanky" Masterson's crew was on the short end of a 19-16 score at the first quarter gun but nine straight points gave NFA a 30-25 edge at half time.

NEWBURGH ENJOYED its biggest lead of the game, moving ahead by seven points, 36-29, in the middle of the third period when the fast pace of the first two periods slowed down somewhat. Albany, however, narrowed the margin to 41-39 on Anderson's jumper with 3:20 left of the third canto.

After Johnny Schoenberger converted two fouls, Ed DiGuay registered three for Albany to make it 43-43 before Schoenberger and Harold Kaplan hit with set shots from the corner, advancing the score to 47-42. Bob DiNova added two fouls for Albany as the period ended with NFA still ahead, 47-44.

SMITH HIT for two fouls early in the fourth, making it 47-46, but Kaplan added a singleton for Newburgh. George Holt missed tying the score when he lost one of his two foul tries with NFA still ahead, 48-47, at the 4:22 mark.

Again Burkoski removed some of the strain with a tap and Schoenberger converted two fouls, pushing Newburgh in front, 52-47, before Smith broke through for a layup. Dick Clark made it 54-49 with a layup only to have Smith hit from the side and again on a layup to cut the lead to a squeaky 54-53 with 1:23 left.

Burkoski added a layup and two fouls to complete the scoring in the last minute and 13 seconds of the hectic struggle.

Series Batting Prowess Is No Help to Rhodes

Phoenix, Ariz., March 9 (AP)—Being the batting hero of the World Series hasn't brought Dusty Rhodes any closer to being a regular outfielder with the champion New York Giants.

On the other hand, there is no chance Manager Leo Durocher will suggest that Mr. Rhodes be peddled. Leo says he made such a suggestion last spring.

DUSTY ISN'T too happy about it, yet that fact remains—he's the team's No. 1 pinch hitter, but he won't be playing regularly in the outfield since his defensive ability has drawn no rave notices.

"In center field we have Willie Mays," says Dusty. "In right field Don Mueller. In left field Monte Irvin. I think I should get a pillow for the bench. It gets awfully hard in some parks."

When the big southerner came off the bench as a pinch hitter last season he was the scourge of the National League and Cleveland pitchers. His homer that won the first World Series game won't soon be forgotten. He hit a single and a homer in the second game—and incidently caught the fly that ended the contest. All told he knocked in seven runs with four hits and six times at bat.

YOU MIGHT think Dusty, whose first name, Jim, is hardly ever used got his biggest thrill from winning that opener against Cleveland.

"No," he said, "I didn't get the thrill from that I did from a single in the 13th inning with the bases loaded that won a game from Brooklyn. Two days later I got another hit that won. You always get a kick when you beat Brooklyn." For the regular season his batting average was .341.

Rhodes would like nothing better than to play all the time, but declares, "I'm with Leo, whatever he says."

They were joined in the second round by Canisius, Villanova, Marquette, Penn State, Bradley and Seattle who in turn eliminated Williams, Duke, Miami of Ohio, Memphis State, Oklahoma City and Idaho State.

The eight winning teams along with eight others, who received first round byes, play next in Philadelphia, Evanston, Ill., Manhattan, Kan., and Corvallis, Ore.—the sites of the second round games on Friday. The winners come to grips Saturday to determine the four teams for the semifinals and final in Kansas City March 18 and 19.

HERE'S HOW the second round shapes up:

At Philadelphia—Ivy League champion Princeton (12-10) or Columbia (17-7) vs. La Salle (23-4) and Canisius (17-6) vs. Villanova (17-9).

At Evanston—Kentucky (22-2), Southeastern Conference champion, vs. Marquette (23-2) and Iowa (17-4) Big 10 champion, vs. Penn State (18-8).

At Manhattan — Southern Methodist (16-7) Southwest Conference champion, vs. Bradley (8-19) and Colorado (16-5), Big Seven champion, vs. Tulsa (20-6), selected to represent the Missouri Valley after finishing in a tie for first place with St. Louis.

At Corvallis — Oregon State (21-7) Pacific Coast Conference champion, vs. Seattle (22-5) and Utah (23-3) Skyline Conference champion, vs. San Francisco (24-1).

The Ivy League title, which wound up in a three-way deadlock, will be determined tonight when Columbia faces Princeton at the Rutgers gym in New Brunswick, N. J. Columbia eliminated Penn Monday night to earn the right to meet Princeton.

La Salle's Explorers eliminated West Virginia, the southern conference champions 95-61 in the windup of a Madison Square Garden tripleheader in New York. Earlier Canisius downed Williams 73-60 and Villanova outlasted Duke, the Atlantic coast conference representative, 74-73.

IN A LEXINGTON, KY., doubleheader, Marquette was extended into overtime before subduing stubborn Miami of Ohio, the mid-American conference kingpin, 90-79 and Penn State withstood a late rally to dispose of Memphis State 59-55.

All America Bill Russell collected 29 points in 29 minutes as the San Francisco Dons, the nation's No. 1 team, coasted to an 89-66 victory in the second game of a twinbill at the San Francisco Cow Palace. In the opener Seattle spurted in the second half to thrash Idaho State, the Rocky Mountain titleholder, 80-63. It was the Don's 22nd straight victory.

At El Reno, Okla., Bradley turned back Oklahoma City 69-65. The Braves, who were runnerup to La Salle in last season's tourney, led most of the way and were paced by Harvey Babetch's 21 points.

WITH ALL-AMERICA Tom Gola providing the impetus, La Salle set an NCAA tournament scoring record of 95 points in a single game. The Explorers held the previous mark of 92, set in last year's final against Bradley. Gola, limited to one field goal in the first half, clicked for 18 points after intermission and finished with 24.

Terry Rand, a 6-8 star, sparked Marquette with five field goals in the overtime period and ended with 37 points. Penn State, ahead by 33-19 at halftime, was led by Jesse Arnelle's 20 points.

College Tourney In Second Round

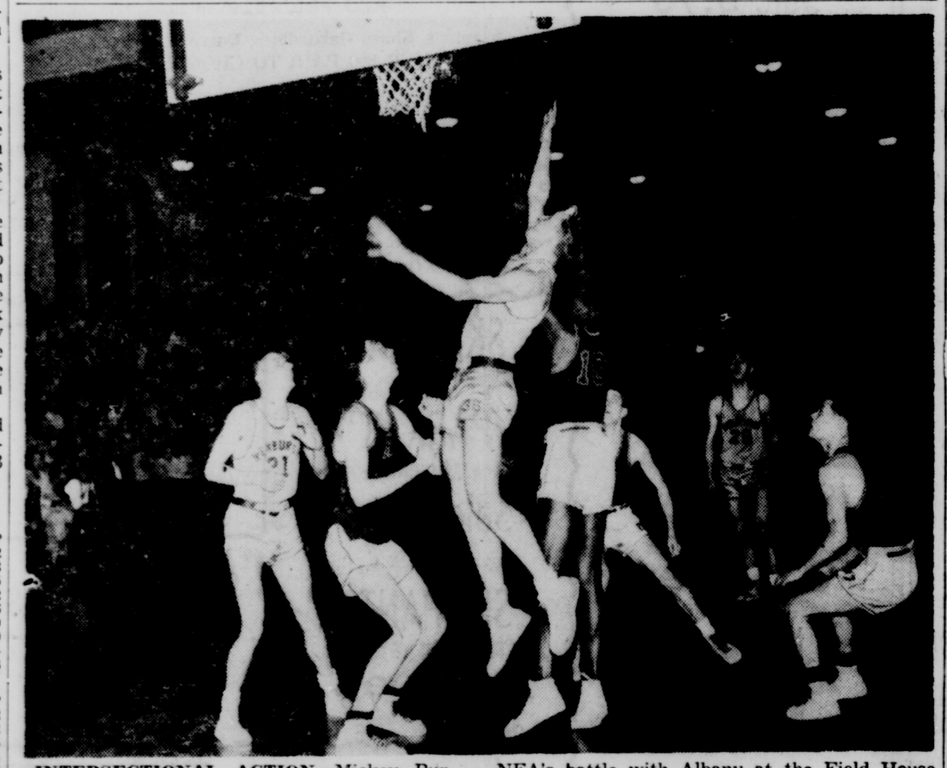

Kansas City, March 9 (AP)—The 17th National Intercollegiate basketball tournament entered its second round today with a fairly classy field.

Most outstanding feat in the windup of the first round yesterday was the Southeastern Oklahoma Savages' record breaking 120-67 victory over Georgetown (Ky.) College. It beat by seven points the previous team total shared by Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., in 1947 and Eastern Illinois of Charleston in 1952.

Eight games were on today's card, four afternoon and four night.

Yesterday's games saw three of the more highly favored teams bounced from the tournament and top seeded Western Illinois of Macomb rally to beat Regis of Denver, 76-60. Favorites ousted were St. Francis of Brooklyn, 84-82 by Quincy, Ill. College; Geneva (Pa.), 86-80 by Nebraska Wesleyan in overtime and Evansville (Ind.), 95-88 by Atlantic Christian of Philippi, W. Va.

Newburgh Captures 19th With 58 to 53 Win Over Albany

Goldbacks Hold Lead From Second Period; Burkoski Tallies 25

Newburgh Free Academy's unbeaten DUSO League champions, led by the irrepressible Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski, added Albany High to their long list of vanquished foes in a thrilling opener of the 1955 New York state intersectionals Tuesday night.

Never headed after taking over the lead in the late stages of the second period, the Goldbacks weathered a final period uprising to win, 58 to 53, for their 19th in a row, before a jammed-pack crowd at the Kate Walton Field House.

Newburgh goes after its 20th straight verdict of the year Friday night in the finals of the intersectionals against Nott Terrace of Schenectady at the Field House.

THE DORPIAN CAGERS moved into the titular clash with Newburgh after disposing of Middletown in Troy last night, 78 to 46.

Albany and Middletown will play in the consolation game prior to the Newburgh-Nott Terrace contest.

"The Marvel," who scored 25 points, 14 in the first half and 11 in the final two periods, tied up the game, 23-all, in the second period and came right back with a tap, giving NFA a 25-23 lead, which was never relinquished from then on in.

Jimmy Smith, sparking forward for the upstaters, paced Albany in the scoring ledger, with 22 markers. Smith pumped in two deuces at the 1:47 mark of the final quarter, slicing Newburgh's lead at that time to 54-53.

It was Burkoski leading the hustling Goldbacks again. Harold Kaplan, another All-Duso choice, played a terrific floor game and amassed 13 points in the bargain. Johnny Schoenberger, the fine Newburgh guard, canned 16 points, eight from the short stripe.

Coach George "Lanky" Masterson's crew was on the short end of a 19-16 score at the first quarter gun but nine straight points gave NFA a 30-25 edge at half time.

NEWBURGH ENJOYED its biggest lead of the game, moving ahead by seven points, 36-29, in the middle of the third period when the fast pace of the first two periods slowed down somewhat. Albany, however, narrowed the margin to 41-39 on Anderson's jumper with 3:20 left of the third canto.

After Johnny Schoenberger converted two fouls, Ed DiGuay registered three for Albany to make it 43-43 before Schoenberger and Harold Kaplan hit with set shots from the corner, advancing the score to 47-42. Bob DiNova added two fouls for Albany as the period ended with NFA still ahead, 47-44.

SMITH HIT for two fouls early in the fourth, making it 47-46, but Kaplan added a singleton for Newburgh, George Holt missed tying the score when he lost one of his two foul tries with NFA still ahead, 48-47, at the 4:22 mark.

Again Burkoski removed some of the strain with a tap and Schoenberger converted two fouls, pushing Newburgh in front, 52-47, before Smith broke through for a layup. Dick Clark made it 54-49 with a layup only to have Smith hit from the side and again on a layup to cut the lead to a squeaky 54-53 with 1:23 left.

Burkoski added a layup and two fouls to complete the scoring in the last minute and 13 seconds of the hectic struggle.

Series Batting Prowess Is No Help to Rhodes

Phoenix, Ariz., March 9 (AP)—Being the batting hero of the World Series hasn't brought Dusty Rhodes any closer to being a regular outfielder with the champion New York Giants.

On the other hand, there is no chance Manager Leo Durocher will suggest that Mr. Rhodes be peddled. Leo says he made such a suggestion last spring.

DUSTY ISN'T too happy about it, yet that fact remains—he's the team's No. 1 pinch hitter, but he won't be playing regularly in the outfield since his defensive ability has drawn no rave notices.

"In center field we have Willie Mays," says Dusty. "In right field Don Mueller. In left field Monte Irvin. I think I should get a pillow for the bench. It gets awfully hard in some parks."

When the big southerner came off the bench as a pinch hitter last season he was the scourge of the National League and Cleveland pitchers. His homer that won the first World Series game won't soon be forgotten. He hit a single and a homer in the second game—and incidently caught the fly that ended the contest. All told he knocked in seven runs with four hits and six times at bat.

YOU MIGHT think Dusty, whose first name, Jim, is hardly ever used got his biggest thrill from winning that opener against Cleveland.

"No," he said, "I didn't get the thrill from that I did from a single in the 13th inning with the bases loaded that won a game from Brooklyn. Two days later I got another hit that won. You always get a kick when you beat Brooklyn." For the regular season his batting average was .341.

Rhodes would like nothing better than to play all the time, but declares, "I'm with Leo, whatever he says."

Training Camp Briefs

(By Associated Press)

ORLANDO, FLA., March 9 (AP)—The Washington Senators tried out the new and smaller catcher's box yesterday, drawing a comment from Manager Chuck Dressen that "we're going to need a lot of practice on this phase."

After instructing his pitchers to try walking batters intentionally, Dressen told the hitters to swing at anything close. With the catcher's box reduced this year to 43 inches, the drill proved to Dressen's satisfaction that the intentional pass is going to take practice.

VERO BEACH, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Joe Black, hoping to return to the Brooklyn Dodgers' bullpen after a year of exile in Montreal of the International League, flashed a half speed curve in yesterday's workout that caught Manager Walt Alston's eye.

That's the best curve I've seen him throw," commented the manager. "It's bigger than the fast curve he's always had and gives him another pitch to fool the batters with."

PHOENIX, ARIZ., March 9 (AP)—The Giants' regulars will be split up when the New Yorkers play two exhibition games Saturday. One squad will play the Cleveland Indians at Tucson and another will face the Cubs at Mesa.

Paul Giel, Don Liddle and Larry Jansen will pitch against the Tribe, while Johnny Antonelli, Al Corwin and Jim Constable go against Chicago.

The Giants play their exhibition opener against Cleveland Friday with Jim Hearn, Joe Margoneri and Ruben Gomez sharing the hurling assignment.

ST. PETERSBURGH, FLA., March 9 (AP)—First baseman Joe Collins has been shifted to the outfield by Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees.

"I guess I better throw away the big glove and get the fielder's mitt," Collins said yesterday after being informed he was to play the outfield in today's intrasquad game. Stengel plans to use him in right field through most of the exhibition schedule.

CLEARWATER, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Del Ennis made his first hit of 1955 yesterday, a 340-foot home run over the fence in right center field in the Philadelphia Phillies first intrasquad game.

Ennis' home run helped coach Whit Wyatt's team defeat coach Wally Moses' squad, 4-1, in five innings.

FT. MYERS, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Bob Garber, 26-year-old rookie right hand pitcher, will take the mound for the Pittsburgh Pirates here tomorrow as they play their first exhibition against Kansas City.

Garber last year had an impressive 19-8 record with Denver of the Class A Western League.

BRADENTON, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm says he is "pleased with the way things are going" for his Milwaukee Braves in the first week of spring training.

After the heavy rain of two days ago Grimm said the players had been pushing hard in getting in shape for the season and the series of exhibition games.

However, some of the players apparently are off to slow starts at bat. Joe Adcock has been hitless in seven trips to the plate during two intrasquad games. Bobby Thompson has one for five. Danny O'Connell one for six and Johnny Logan one for four.

A large squad will leave for Miami, Fla., tomorrow for the first exhibition game with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Grimm said he plans to start Gene Conley, Ernie Johnson and Chet Nichols against the Dodgers. The two teams also meet Friday night.

DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Willie Miranda, the lone Baltimore Oriole missing from spring training camp, has sent word he will report tomorrow.

The former Yankee shortstop who figures prominently in Manager Paul Richard's plans for 1955, sent word last night he has been delayed in Cuba by the illness of his son.

Lions Win Over Kiwanis; Cops Turn Back Firemen

Despite the lend-lease of two of their ace players, Andy Murphy and Doc Murray Fletcher to the Kiwanis Club, the Kingston Lions today are the proud possessors of a handsome two-game winning skein and already have made arrangements to try for No. 3 this week.

Flushed with a 39-30 victory over their service club rivals (they also beat them last year 25-21), the Lions will play at the Onteora Central School Friday night against the faculty squad.

DIVIDING the honors in the big benefit doubleheader for the palsy and heart funds Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium before about 500 fans, Manager Bill Hanley's Cops got revenge for last year's loss, with a snappy 61 to 55 triumph over Clayton Stalter's Firemen.

Both Dr. Saul Goldfarb, manager of the Lions, and Hanley today made post-game statements to the effect that the results were pleasing but not unexpected.

"We had our squads primed for these games," the managers claimed "and we think the results prove it."

AS FAR AS the lend-lease matter is concerned, the Lions Club loaned Murphy and Fletcher when the Kiwanis team complained of the bad weather, saying two of their alleged stars had failed to make train connections from nearby resorts.

Goldfarb agreed to shift his franchise of Murphy and Fletcher to the Kiwanis quintet and the move nearly backfired.

Murphy paced the Kiwanis Club, in nearly a one-man show, with 19 markers, 14 on fields and five from the short stripe. Fletcher, while being held scoreless, played a terrific floor game.

Lou Schafer trailed Murphy in the scoring column with six markers.

HUBIE RICHTER, who was spotted by several scouts last night, emerged as high scorer for the Lions with a total of 13. Jack Gilligan followed with 12.

With the concern of all players the No. 1 target of all connected with the game, nothing was left untouched in making sure all were able to continue in the ball game. After a hectic first half, with the Lions on top, 18 to 14, Dr. John Olivet arrived on the scene and checked the heart beats of both squads. He pronounced most of the warriors in tip-top shape despite the grueling play.

JACK HABER, meanwhile, led the Firemen in a losing cause with 20 points. Lou Sapp of the Police cagers canned 18.

The Police fought back doggedly after a 35-31 deficit.

Cousy Honored, Responds With 40 Against Warriors

(By The Associated Press)

Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics is an appreciative basketball player.

Named as the outstanding pro player yesterday by New York sportswriters, Cousy said "thank you" last night the best way he could—by scoring lots of points.

The 6-1 Boston backcourt ace scored 40, enough to enable the Celts to cool off the Philadelphia Warriors 112-103 in the first half of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader at White Plains.

THE DEFEAT just about crushed any hopes the Warriors had for an eastern division playoff berth. With four games remaining, they're three games behind Boston and three and a half behind the New York Knickerbockers.

Training Camp Briefs

(By Associated Press)

ORLANDO, FLA., March 9 (AP)—The Washington Senators tried out the new and smaller catcher's box yesterday, drawing a comment from Manager Chuck Dressen that "we're going to need a lot of practice on this phase."

After instructing his pitchers to try walking batters intentionally, Dressen told the hitters to swing at anything close. With the catcher's box reduced this year to 43 inches, the drill proved to Dressen's satisfaction that the intentional pass is going to take practice.

VERO BEACH, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Joe Black, hoping to return to the Brooklyn Dodgers' bullpen after a year of exile in Montreal of the International League, flashed a half speed curve in yesterday's workout that caught Manager Walt Alston's eye.

That's the best curve I've seen him throw," commented the manager. "It's bigger than the fast curve he's always had and gives him another pitch to fool the batters with."

PHOENIX, ARIZ., March 9 (AP)—The Giants' regulars will be split up when the New Yorkers play two exhibition games Saturday. One squad will play the Cleveland Indians at Tucson and another will face the Cubs at Mesa.

Paul Giel, Don Liddle and Larry Jansen will pitch against the Tribe, while Johnny Antonelli, Al Corwin and Jim Constable go against Chicago.

The Giants play their exhibition opener against Cleveland Friday with Jim Hearn, Joe Margoneri and Ruben Gomez sharing the hurling assignment.

ST. PETERSBURGH, FLA., March 9 (AP)—First baseman Joe Collins has been shifted to the outfield by Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees.

"I guess I better throw away the big glove and get the fielder's mitt," Collins said yesterday after being informed he was to play the outfield in today's intrasquad game. Stengel plans to use him in right field through most of the exhibition schedule.

CLEARWATER, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Del Ennis made his first hit of 1955 yesterday, a 340-foot home run over the fence in right center field in the Philadelphia Phillies first intrasquad game.

Ennis' home run helped coach Whit Wyatt's team defeat coach Wally Moses' squad, 4-1, in five innings.

FT. MYERS, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Bob Garber, 26-year-old rookie right hand pitcher, will take the mound for the Pittsburgh Pirates here tomorrow as they play their first exhibition against Kansas City.

Garber last year had an impressive 19-8 record with Denver of the Class A Western League.

BRADENTON, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm says he is "pleased with the way things are going" for his Milwaukee Braves in the first week of spring training.

After the heavy rain of two days ago Grimm said the players had been pushing hard in getting in shape for the season and the series of exhibition games.

However, some of the players apparently are off to slow starts at bat. Joe Adcock has been hitless in seven trips to the plate during two intrasquad games. Bobby Thompson has one for five. Danny O'Connell one for six and Johnny Logan one for four.

A large squad will leave for Miami, Fla., tomorrow for the first exhibition game with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Grimm said he plans to start Gene Conley, Ernie Johnson and Chet Nichols against the Dodgers. The two teams also meet Friday night.

DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., March 9 (AP)—Willie Miranda, the lone Baltimore Oriole missing from spring training camp, has sent word he will report tomorrow.

The former Yankee shortstop who figures prominently in Manager Paul Richard's plans for 1955, sent word last night he has been delayed in Cuba by the illness of his son.

Cousy Honored, Responds With 40 Against Warriors

(By The Associated Press)

Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics is an appreciative basketball player.

Named as the outstanding pro player yesterday by New York sportswriters, Cousy said "thank you" last night the best way he could—by scoring lots of points.

The 6-1 Boston backcourt ace scored 40, enough to enable the Celts to cool off the Philadelphia Warriors 112-103 in the first half of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader at White Plains.

THE DEFEAT just about crushed any hopes the Warriors had for an eastern division playoff berth. With four games remaining, they're three games behind Boston and three and a half behind the New York Knickerbockers.

Coming from behind, the Knicks kept pace with Boston by defeating Rochester 99-96 in the second game.

Lions Win Over Kiwanis; Cops Turn Back Firemen

Despite the lend-lease of two of their ace players, Andy Murphy and Doc Murray Fletcher to the Kiwanis Club, the Kingston Lions today are the proud possessors of a handsome two-game winning skein and already have made arrangements to try for No. 3 this week.

Flushed with a 39-30 victory over their service club rivals (they also beat them last year 25-21), the Lions will play at the Onteora Central School Friday night against the faculty squad.

DIVIDING the honors in the big benefit doubleheader for the palsy and heart funds Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium before about 500 fans, Manager Bill Hanley's Cops got revenge for last year's loss, with a snappy 61 to 55 triumph over Clayton Stalter's Firemen.

Both Dr. Saul Goldfarb, manager of the Lions, and Hanley today made post-game statements to the effect that the results were pleasing but not unexpected.

"We had our squads primed for these games," the managers claimed "and we think the results prove it."

AS FAR AS the lend-lease matter is concerned, the Lions Club loaned Murphy and Fletcher when the Kiwanis team complained of the bad weather, saying two of their alleged stars had failed to make train connections from nearby resorts.

Goldfarb agreed to shift his franchise of Murphy and Fletcher to the Kiwanis quintet and the move nearly backfired.

Murphy paced the Kiwanis Club, in nearly a one-man show, with 19 markers, 14 on fields and five from the short stripe. Fletcher, while being held scoreless, played a terrific floor game.

Lou Schafer trailed Murphy in the scoring column with six markers.

HUBIE RICHTER, who was spotted by several scouts last night, emerged as high scorer for the Lions with a total of 13. Jack Gilligan followed with 12.

With the concern of all players the No. 1 target of all connected with the game, nothing was left untouched in making sure all were able to continue in the ball game. After a hectic first half, with the Lions on top, 18 to 14, Dr. John Olivet arrived on the scene and checked the heart beats of both squads. He pronounced most of the warriors in tip-top shape despite the grueling play.

George Svirsky, of the Lions Club, arrived early at the auditorium with a car load of liniment bottles. After the warmup session prior to the game, the shipment had dwindled considerably. He wound up with one bottle, which he used to iron out his own aches and pains.

The Police fought back doggedly after a 35-31 deficit.

For the purpose of paying the cost of the acquisition of a school site and the construction and equipment thereon of a new elementary school building in said School District, including incidental expenses in connection therewith, as authorized at the aforesaid special district meeting, there are hereby authorized to be issued $396,000 SCHOOL DISTRICT (SERIAL) BONDS, 1955, to be dated July 15, 1955, of the denomination of $1,000 each, numbered from 1 to 396, both inclusive, maturing in numerical order in the amount of $16,000 on January 15, 1957, and $20,000 on January 15 in each of the years 1958 to 1976, both inclusive, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually January 15 and July 15. Such bonds shall be in bearer coupon form with the privilege of conversion into bonds registered as to both principal and interest, and shall be payable as to both principal and interest in lawful money of the United States of America at State of New York National Bank, in Kingston, New York, which by contract is the paying agent of the issuer. Such bonds shall be signed in the name of said School District by the President of its Board of Education and by its School District Treasurer, sealed with its corporate seal, attested by its School District Clerk, and the interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of said President.

Section 2. All other matters, except as provided herein relating to such bonds, shall be determined by the President of the Board of Education. Plenty of Takers

Reading, Pa., March 9 (AP)—The post of dog catcher is usually regarded as the bottom of the political ladder but there are plenty of takers in Berks county. Thirty-five applicants had filed by yesterday for the $3,800 a year job which had been held by John D. Moll for the past 25 years.

Council Favors

the necessity for the passage of said bills, is received."

A MAIN PURPOSE of adding to the route plan would be elimination of the Washington avenue viaduct as a traffic bottleneck, and pending legislation at Albany would be a major step toward fulfillment of the project. The route plan would give the city a wide traffic spur to connect with the thruway and would make Broadway and other city streets part of a state-maintained arterial route system.

Plans for the route are being prepared by consulting engineers and the project is tentatively scheduled to start in 1956.

The mayor is expected to explain to the alderman in a letter to be read at the March 15 meeting that purchase of the Kingston Point Park property would be a benefit to the city at large and would "open the door to vast improvement" in the whole downtown area.

IN FORMER YEARS, he notes, the park was "one of the show places of the Hudson river, and was enjoyed by many people of Kingston." Purchase of the property, he feels, would be in keeping with the city's "march of progress."

The mayor is also expected to explain to the aldermen at the next meeting that the Wilbur avenue dumping area soon will be of no further use to the city and the refuse-disposal problem should be considered with "utmost dispatch."

The Board of Public Works at a meeting March 7 adopted a resolution asking for "utilization of the swamp area" near Kingston Point for disposal of waste material in a project that would also reclaim the wasteland for later usefull purposes.

A DETAILED "BREAKDOWN of the manner in which the funds sought to be acquired will be expended," was forwarded to the aldermen prior to last night's meeting. The mayor noted that unless action were taken by March 15, it would be necessary for him to request the council to make available $4,000 for additional pipe so that the Wilbur avenue dump may continue in use. He indicated that more pipe would be required after that "from time to time." if dumping is to continue there.

After facilities are used up on the Wilbur avenue dump, he advises, action to decide on another means of refuse disposal will be necessary, or "the city will reach an impasse."

Collection and disposal of waste material, he emphasized, "is an obligation of your city government, and unless proper facilities are provided, the administrative agency directly responsible, cannot function."

THE FIVE DEMOCRATIC aldermen, as Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel (D) reported at the public hearing, are expected to join Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel J. Perry in voting against a landfill project in the fifth ward. A two-thirds council vote would be required to raise funds for the project.

It was discovered, after mention of the fact by the former corporation counsel at the public hearing, that lacking in city charter mention of the duties of the public works department, is a provision authorizing collection and disposal of refuse.

The mayor is expected to recommend at the March 15 meeting that the charter "be brought up to date and amended to include, among other duties . . . the collection and disposal of refuse and waste materials." The law would also designate as a Common Council duty the provision of the area or areas for disposal of refuse.

Along with the BPW request for approval of the landfill project next week will be one asking that the council authorize purchase of the land in the Kingston Point area for disposal of refuse and reclamation of the swamp area.

Tied to Safety

Minneapolis (AP)—Pretty soon it may be impossible to tell cars from airplanes. Gov. Orville Freeman says car passengers should start sporting safety belts to whittle down accident injuries.

Eisler Tribute Is Board Plan

A movement to erect a suitable memorial to the memory of the late Frederick J. Eisler in testimony of his interest in community activities and civic enterprise was begun Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Ulster county board of supervisors.

Supervisor James Martin of the 12th ward, speaking on behalf of himself and Supervisor Albert N. Cook of the first ward, moved for appointment of a committee to study the matter and make a report.

Chairman Charles Relyea named to that committee Supervisors Bush, Martin, Cook and Williams.

MARTIN SAID the death of Frederick J. Eisler had been a severe blow to the community. He referred to Mr. Eisler's interest in community programs, sports, charities and also to the high position which Eisler, owner and manager of the Hotel Stuyvesant, had held in the hotel world.

It had been through the interest which Eisler had taken in the community which had caused him to go to his old friend Thomas J. Watson, board chairman of International Business Machines Corporation, to present the picture of Kingston as a site for a plant. It was directly due to this interest by Eisler that IBM had decided to erect a plant here, Martin said. This was going to affect the economy of the city and the surrounding area and he said he felt recognition of this interest of Eisler should be taken now and he moved a committee be named to plan such a memorial.

The motion was seconded by Supervisor Corcoran of the sixth ward and several other members of the board.

Lowest recorded temperature in Canada was registered in the Yukon in 1947—81 degrees below zero.

Post Is Abolished

Philadelphia, March 9 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission yesterday abolished the $4,710 a year post of city foreman of horseshoers and for a good reason — the city no longer owns any horses. The city's three horseshoers were recently put on pension following the doing away with mounted policemen and horse-drawn trash wagons.

Damage Is Minor

A two-car collision on Route 209 about two miles north of Accord at 7 a. m. today resulted in minor car damage, state police of the Ellenville Station reported. Troopers said a 1947 station wagon southbound, operated by Albert Thomann, 56, of Rosendale, skidded on snow and was in collision with a 1949 sedan operated by Walter Wager, 64, of Accord, traveling north. Troopers reported that the two vehicles sideswiped each other.
